JAPANESE CLOSE IN FOR FINAL DRIVE ON HANKOW

Gunboats Forcing Way Up Yangtze to Chiang's Headquarters City, Only 50 Miles Distant by Water and 35 by Air.

TWO ARMIES PRESS CLOSER LIKE A VISE

Planes Lead With Bombardment of Wuhan Centers—Leader of Invaders Predicts Capture Within Two Weeks.

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE JAPANESE ARMY BEFORE HANKOW, Oct. 22.—Japanese naval forces were forcing their way up the curving Yangtze River today within 35 miles by air and 50 miles by river of the Wuhan cities—Hankow, Hanyang and Wuchang—while northern and southern armies were closing in on their goal like a vise. Hankow has long served as the Chinese provisional wartime capital.

The naval command advised foreign vessels to withdraw from Hankow for at least 10 miles up river. Observers said this indicated plans for heavy bombardment of the innermost Chinese defense positions. The United States gunboats Guam and Luzon are among the vessels stationed at Hankow.

Japanese staff officers, jubilant over the capture of Canton yesterday by a 10-day-old expedition into South China and the now faster approach of their own forces on the Hankow front, asserted they would be in Hankow within two weeks. They said Hankow's defenders were disheartened and were virtually collapsing in all sectors.

Concerted Air Attacks.

Thirty-six Japanese warplanes raided the Wuhan area today, a dispatch said. Half the fleet attacked the Wuchang station, across the river from Hankow, while the others concentrated on a station on the Hankow side.

There was considerable damage by fire and railroad tracks were destroyed, but casualties were believed to have been relatively small.

Newspaper men who were taken from Shanghai by plane to Japanese army headquarters, saw the Yangtze River filled with warships and transports and behind the main lines the mopping up of guerrillas and the bombing of guerrilla strongholds.

Aerial bombardment and big scale land fighting could be seen near Hwangshih, 45 air miles east southeast of the Wuhan area, while farther up the river and within 35 miles of their goal the Japanese were fighting in the vicinity of Ocheng.

This town, on the south bank of the Yangtze due east of Hankow, was reported to have been occupied by the Japanese, putting them in position for an overland march on Wuchang, which lies on the Ocheng side of the river opposite Hankow.

Along the north bank of the river the Japanese had advanced 15 miles from Kishui and were threatening Hwangkwan opposite Ocheng.

Meanwhile, having struck down the Peiping-Hankow Railway toward Hankow from the North, a mobile column based on Sinyang was said to be assailing mountain defenses near Sintien, 90 miles from Hankow.

Guns on Dragon Mountain.

This force was intent on breaking through a historic mountain pass dominated by Chinese gun emplacements on Lungpaushan or Creeping Dragons Mountain. Mountains thereabouts served as a boundary between North and South China in the fifth century. Chinese guns were said to have been placed among the 50 huge rocks on the summit of Lungpaushan. The configuration of stones makes them resemble dragons for imaginative Chinese.

Northeast of Hankow another column was fighting through the Tapieh Mountains where it has been operating but infrequently reported for several weeks. This force was said to be assaulting Chinese positions on White Cloud Mountain in a prelude to attack on Macheng, 55 miles from Hankow by an automobile road.

To the south of Hankow, the Japanese were said to be within 20 miles of Sienning, where they expected to cut the Canton-Hankow railway. Sienning is about 50 miles from the Chinese capital.

With severance of the Canton-

U. S. Urged to Teach Boys To Fly as Defense Step

Aeronautic Association Would Stimulate Interest in Aviation Among 20,000,000 Americans Between Ages of 12 and 24.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Organized aviation enthusiasts intend to ask Congress to help build up a fleet of 50,000 private planes to reinforce prospective new defense measures. Officers of the National Aeronautic Association already have requested army and navy support for the training of civilian pilots, reduced insurance rates and other proposals.

"It's the cheapest form of national defense," William R. Enyart, association secretary, said today. "The European crisis brought out clearly that aviation is the key to military power.

"European governments directly subsidize private flying. France pays part of the cost of the plane and fuel. Germany trains its flyers from childhood, starting them with models and then introducing them to gliding. As long ago as 1936 Germany had 50,000 or 60,000 registered glider pilots. The United States had just 361."

Enyart and Charles F. Horner, association president, proposed "an American version" of the Nazi Youth training, substituting planes with motors for gliders.

Army and Navy officials declined to predict what support would be given specific proposals.

The Aeronautic Association said this program would be proposed to Congress:

1. An organized attempt by Government and private agencies to stimulate interest in aviation among the 20,000,000 Americans between the ages of 12 and 24.

2. Governmental assistance in flight training, including preparation of complete manuals, and paying military reserve pilots to train civilians.

3. More glider camps like that built at Elmira, N. Y., with relief funds.

4. Reduction of aviation insurance rates to the level of automobile rates, with the Federal Government underwriting any insurance company losses.

5. Construction of more and better airports, and an annual appropriation of $1,000,000 or more for research and development for the benefit of private flying.

6. Creation of separate Senate and House committees to deal with aviation legislation.

Head of Altitude School Encounters Temperature of 76 Below Zero, Fahrenheit.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Oct. 22.—The Aeronautics Minister announced tonight that Col. Mario Pezzi had bettered the world's airplane altitude record by rising 17,074 meters (56,016.94 feet, or 10.6 miles) above the earth.

The flight was made from Guidonia Air City in a Caproni. The air official said it was the first time a record altitude flight had been made in a closed cabin airplane.

Pezzi, commander of the military altitude school in Muntecello, previously held the altitude record, but lost it on June 30 1937, when the late Flight Lieutenant Maurice Adam of Great Britain set a mark of 53,936.895 feet.

SUBMARINE ACCOSTS LINER

Unidentified Craft Demands French Ship Identify Itself.

By the Associated Press.

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Oct. 22.—Officers of the French liner Meknes asserted today their vessel had been accosted at night by a submarine off the coast of Portugal.

The Meknes arrived yesterday on its regular run from Bordeaux, France. The officers said the submarine demanded by wireless to know the identity of the liner and on receiving a reply, radioed back "bon voyage." They said they did not know the submarine's nationality.

THEFT WITNESS FINED MOST OF SUM STOLEN

Robber Convicted, but Victim, Who Disappeared, Pays $52.40 for Contempt.

Justice moved swiftly yesterday in Circuit Judge William B. Flynn's court after jurors had twiddled their thumbs for two days waiting for police to find the principal witness for the State in the case they had been selected to hear.

The witness, Andrew Gosky, a musician, gained legal but brief possession of $55 of which he had been robbed, the thief was quickly found guilty by the jury and the court, quite as promptly, fined the offending witness $50 plus $2.40 for costs.

When Edward Holtman, former convict went on trial Wednesday for clubbing Gosky in his room at the Albers Hotel, 2102 North Broadway last June 25 and taking his money, Gosky was on hand. Selection of the jury was completed and all was in readiness for Gosky's testimony Thursday morning. He did not appear.

Police sought him while the jury fidgeted through Thursday. Thursday night Gosky was treated for acute alcoholism at City Hospital and police were notified he was there. But Gosky left the hospital before the police sent for him had arrived. Friday was another long day for the jurors. But last night, Gosky walked into the arms of a policeman stationed at the Albers Hotel.

In broken English, he explained to the court that he had thought he would be summoned again when wanted, that he had gone to visit a cousin on Cass avenue where he had some drinks and then to see a friend on Benton place where there were more drinks.

The trial of Holtman then proceeded. The case was given to the jury and in 20 minutes it was back with a verdict of guilty of larceny from the person and recommendation of the maximum punishment of seven years.

Afterward Judge Flynn called Gosky before the bench, read a contempt citation and lectured him about his misconduct and the inconvenience caused members of the jury. The jurors gathered near, smiling broadly when the fine was assessed.

$500,000 OF COUNTERFEIT NOTES PASSED, ENGRAVER HELD

Federal Agents Say Ex-Convict Etched Plates From Which Bills Were Printed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—An engraver who, Federal agents say, executed nearly perfect banknote plates, was arrested today.

Secret Service agents described the man as Peter Terhorst, 37 years old, who served a term in the Federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., for counterfeiting and was released in 1935 on condition that he leave the United States.

In 1936, counterfeit notes began appearing, and, agents said, they recognized Terhorst's work as easily as if he had signed his name to each note. He was trailed through the Netherlands, Germany, England, Canada and back to the United States.

Banks and other victims of the counterfeiters have turned in more than $500,000 of the worthless notes which agents say were made from plates etched by Terhorst.

GERMANY SEEKING U. S. TRADE, SENDS UP TRIAL BALLOON

WASHINGTON MUST MAKE CHOICE SOON

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. — The United States Government appeared to be approaching a day of choice between opposition to or limited collaboration with the dictator states.

The latest proposal for such an agreement was made today in authoritative Economic Ministry quarters in Berlin. It was suggested there that unofficial economic experts representing the United States, Great Britain and Germany try to devise a triangular agreement to supplant or supplement the proposed British-American trade pact.

Germany, lacking foreign exchange to pay for American cotton, wheat and tobacco, would supply Great Britain with needed chemicals, electric goods and machinery and have Britain turn over the cash for these to this country.

In informed quarters here, the proposal was regarded as a "trial balloon." Germany does not want the British-American pact to go through, it was said, because Germany is on this country's economic black list and would not get the benefit of tariff concessions which would be extended under the treaty to England and other nations.

Two Schools of Thought.

Other German overtures have been along the lines of a barter agreement such as it has with other nations individually.

Secretary of State Hull is devoted to his policy of extending benefits of trade agreements to all nations which do not discriminate against American goods. Some other officials are toying with the idea that some arrangement with the Germans might be made.

Out of the Munich pact two schools of thought have developed at the State Department.

One says: "Germany's recent aggrandizement in Central Europe produced stabilization. Germany's energies will be spent in economic development, especially in Central Europe. Its thoughts will be more on commerce than cannon, more on money than machine guns. We can therefore afford to collaborate with it."

Other Side of Argument.

The other: "Germany will, it is true, devote every energy to the development of Central Europe. But it will develop itself militarily as well. And it will go out for other markets, too. Particularly in South America. We must oppose it, not work with it."

In the opinion of some diplomats here, Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy advanced the collaboration idea in his Navy League speech in London this week.

"We have to live together in the same world," he said, "whether we like it or not."

But some experts interpret Secretary Hull's public utterances as indicating he holds the second view. After Kennedy's speech, Hull stated that America's foreign policy still rested on his and the President's previous declarations. Some of these abounded with criticism of the aggressions of the dictator nations. Hull also said Kennedy's utterances were personal opinions.

The seven-point program for peace which the Secretary outlined in his last radio address conflicts on several important points with Germany's policies.

Germany to Send Emissary if U. S. Shows Interest.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—The Economics Ministry is ready to send an emissary to Washington if the United States shows any disposition toward favorable discussion of recent German overtures for resuscitation of German-American trade.

This was learned today from an authoritative source concurrently with a similarly authoritative suggestion that three unofficial economic experts get together soon and try for an American-German-British trade treaty to supplant or supplement the proposed Anglo-American pact.

Such an attempt, in the opinion of this authoritative informant, would involve no risk for the nations thus unofficially represented

RECORDS REQUIRED FOR 11,000,000 BY WAGE-HOUR LAW

Officials Estimate It Will Increase Pay of 750,000 and Shorten Work Week of 1,500,000.

ACT EFFECTIVE THIS MIDNIGHT

Administrator Andrews Says, 'Generally Employers Have Been Fine' About Obeying Statute.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. — The Wage and Hour Administration disclosed tonight that employers would have to keep records of some sort for 11,000,000 workers under the Fair Labor Standards Act going into effect at midnight tomorrow.

Officials estimated that the law would result in wage increases for 750,000 persons, and shorten working hours for 1,500,000. They said records would have to be kept also for the other millions of employes in interstate commerce whose wages and working conditions already exceed the standards of the statute, or whose occupations exempt them from the law.

However, in the case of many exempt groups, such as professional workers and administrative employes, only the worker's name, address and occupation must be recorded.

Elmer F. Andrews, the wage-hour Administrator, disclosed in regulations that no specific form would be required for the records, so long as the data kept included all the desired information and was accessible to the administrator and his representatives.

"Employers Generally Fine."

To make the task of employers as simple as possible, he said, he had tried to co-ordinate the record-keeping requirements under this law with those under the Social Security Act, state unemployment compensation laws and similar statutes.

The administrator told reporters that "generally, employers have been fine" about preparing to observe the law. In those sections of the country where objections had been raised to it, he continued, there had been no labor legislation previously.

"It is a new animal to them, and apparently a very ferocious one," Andrews commented. But he predicted that after the act had gone into effect employers would like it as well as employes.

Fair employers, Andrews said, will be protected from "chiseling" competition by invoking the penalties, including fines up to $10,000 and imprisonment up to six months, against those who try to evade the law.

The wage minima and hour maxima, he said, should end "sweatshops" and tend to increase purchasing power and employment.

These are the items, generally speaking, regarding which employers subject to the act—those engaged in interstate commerce—must keep records.

Home address.

Date of birth if employe is less than 19 years old.

Hours worked each work day and each work week.

Record on Wages.

Regular rate of pay and basis on which wages are paid.

Wages at regular rate of pay for each work week, excluding extra compensation attributable to the excess of the overtime rate over the regular rate.

Extra wages for each work week attributable to the excess of the overtime rate over the regular rate.

Additions to cash wages at cost, or deductions from stipulated wages in the amount deducted or at the cost of the item for which deduction is made, whichever is less.

Total wages paid for each work week.

Date of payment.

The act, passed at the last session of Congress, provides for a work week no longer than 44 hours during the first year of operation of the law; 42 hours the second year, and 40 hours thereafter. It provides minimum pay of 25 cents an hour the first year, 30 cents an hour for the next six years, and 40 cents thereafter. All of these standards are imposed only as to employers engaged in interstate commerce.

14 Minimum Age for Any Job.

Boys between the ages of 14 and 16 years apparently may be employed as newspaper boys within the provisions of the Wage-Hour Act. Regulations issued by Miss

WOMAN SAVES HER CHILDREN BY LEAP FROM BURNING BOAT

Plunges Into Lake at Seattle, and Clings to Rope Under Dock Until Rescued.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 22. — Trapped by flames aboard a cruiser with her two small children, the mother saved their lives and her own last night by leaping with them into the waters of Lake Union.

Mrs. M. D. Stewart, 23 years old, and the children, Merrillyn, 5, and Allen, 3, were on the 30-foot cruiser when fire broke out on the pier spread to the vessel.

"I put Merrillyn on my back and made her grab me around the neck," she said. "Then I grabbed Allen by his shirt. We jumped into the lake.

"Allen's head kept going under. I thought sure the babies would drown if we stayed in the water. But we found an old piling next to the dock, with a rope hanging from it. I caught the rope, lifted the children up out of the water and screamed for help."

Her cries were heard by the crew of a fishing boat, which made the rescue.

Actress Gave Instructions for Disposing of Possessions and Directed Body Be Cremated.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Police had two letters today which they believed helped explain the 16-story plunge yesterday of Dorothy Hale, actress, from her apartment in Hampshire House.

One was to Mrs. Hale's sister in Pittsburgh, Elizabeth Donovan, dated Sept. 14, which gave instructions for disposing of her possessions. The other, received by her lawyer, John H. Vincent, directed that she be cremated and her ashes placed next to those of her late husband, Gardner Hale, a mural artist.

The letter to Mrs. Hale's sister absolved everyone of blame and directed that "Margie" be given "any of my possessions she may desire." (Margie was believed to be Margaret Case, an editor of Vogue and a close friend of Mrs. Hale.)

Private funeral services were held today for Mrs. Hale, whose body will be cremated and the ashes buried beside the body of her husband, Gardner Hale, mural painter, in Newport, R. I.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—New York City is going to have a Father Knickerbocker—with the help of the $21,321,400 cleanup for the 1939 world's fair. The Federal Government will foot 94 per cent of the bill. The job of cleaning up 15,000 vacant lots, draining swampy areas and landscaping city-owned land will be done by 24,000 WPA workers.

MAY IRWIN, FORMER STAGE STAR, 76, DIES

Comedienne of Bygone Day, Reputed Wealthy, Retired in 1922.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—May Irwin, once a stage star, died today at a hotel after a week's illness. She was 76 years old.

Miss Irwin is survived by her husband, Kurt Elsfeldt, and a son, Harry Irwin. She was a leading figure on the American stage from the 1870's until 1922 when she played her valedictory in "The '49ers." She was widely known both for her vaudeville and legitimate stage performances.

She first came into prominence when she and her sister Florence, now dead, appearing as the Irwin Sisters, "rolled 'em in the aisles" at Tony Pastor's with high, hoarse Negro songs. She appeared in some of the best remembered comedies of the day, "The Pie Rats of Penn Yan," "Dollars and Sense," and "His Wedding Day."

Miss Irwin's home in Clayton, N. Y., where she spent her declining years, was a haven for many celebrities of the theater who would drop in to chat and stay a week or two.

The Clayton home housed seven pianos on which some of the best known popular music was composed.

Miss Irwin was reputed to have made a fortune both in the theater and in real estate. At one time she owned several blocks along Lexington avenue, New York. She frequently lent money to producers to keep their shows from closing, and, her friends said, her private charities were large.

May Irwin and Sister Got Start on Stage in St. Louis.

May Irwin, her mother and sister Flo, lived in St. Louis while the sisters were getting their start on the variety stage in the '70s. They lived in a rented room near the present site of Hotel Jefferson, a fact which Miss Irwin used to recall when staying at the hotel in later years.

Deagle's Variety Theater on Sixth street was the scene of the Irwin girls' song and dance turns, before they got a road engagement. May's first marriage, at the age of 16, was to Fred W. Keller of St. Louis, who was the father of her two sons and who died in 1886. Her second marriage, to Elsfeldt, was in 1907.

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 22.—It wasn't a mistake after all when Sam Barken used a putter for his tee shot on the 150-yard eighth hole at the municipal golf course, thinking he was using a midiron. He half-topped the ball, but it was good for a hole in one.

There must have been a couple of other mistakes, though, for Barken took 71 for the nine holes.

TWO WOMAN HITCH-HIKERS FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

DEFENSE ATTORNEYS PLAN NO APPEAL

Both Sob at Verdict—Judge to Pass Sentence Tuesday for Shooting of Mount Erie (Ill.) Farmer Who Picked Up Pair on Road.

By the Associated Press.

FAIRFIELD, Ill., Oct. 22.—Mrs. Beulah Honeycutt and Mrs. Jean Brooks, Tennessee housewives who left their husbands to hitch-hike on the highways, were convicted tonight of murdering Felix Shannon, 58-year-old farmer, at his Mount Erie (Ill.) home last Aug. 21.

The jury, reduced to 11 men when the twelfth was excused this morning because of the death of his father, set Mrs. Honeycutt's punishment at 99 years in prison. Mrs. Brooks was given a 30-year term.

Both women appeared to be near collapse as the verdict was read. They sobbed silently.

Mrs. Brooks, 23 years old, who had shouted hysterically on two occasions during presentation of the prosecution's case, was brought into the courtroom on the arms of two deputies. Mrs. Honeycutt, 25, walked steadily but was pale. Both sat at their counsel's table as the verdict was read.

The jurors reached the verdict in four hours and 45 minutes.

Defense Plans No Appeal.

Circuit Judge W. Joe Hill ordered the defendants returned to the courtroom at 1 p. m. Tuesday for sentencing, and notfied defense attorneys any motions they might wish to file must be ready at that time.

Sherman Grindstaff and V. W. Mills, the defense counsel, said no appeal was planned.

"Under all the circumstances, we will have to be satisfied," Grindstaff said.

In giving the case to the jury, Judge Hill instructed that the defendants must either be convicted of murder or acquitted. He said he would not accept a manslaughter verdict.

The women were accused of shooting Shannon to death in his home the day after he had picked them up in his automobile.

Sheriff Ernest Burkett testified yesterday that when the two met in the Fairfield jail, Mrs. Brooks accused her companion of firing the fatal shots.

Grindstaff, in his closing arguments, asserted the letter the State contends was sent by Mrs. Honeycutt to Mrs. Brooks in jail saying "only you know I shot him," definitely bore the handwriting of two persons.

The defendant's counsel also asked why Phil Hanna, professional hangman, had been allowed to question Mrs. Brooks. This, he charged, further intimidated her into making statements.

Calls Murder Brazen, Cowardly.

State's Attorney C. W. Creighton, in his closing arguments to the jury this afternoon, asserted:

"If any crime ever perpetrated in Illinois in which the defendants deserved capital punishment, it is in this case." He termed the fatal shooting of Shannon the "most brazen, cowardly in the history of Wayne County."

After Creighton concluded his arguments, Defense Attorney Grindstaff asserted that Shannon "significantly" had put his 8-year-old son, Carlyle, in the back seat of his car when he gave the women a ride.

Shannon, he said, had violated the law by carrying liquor and a pistol in his automobile, and also the Mann Act by taking the women from Indiana to Illinois.

Earlier today, Mrs. Brooks—agitated and half-crying—denied making a written statement that the prosecution charged was her admission of complicity in the killing. Mrs. Honeycutt calmly watched the outbreak.

As Creighton read her purported story of the killing, Mrs. Brooks arose and shouted, "I didn't say that and you know it."

Sobbing "I'm not staying here another minute," she half-turned as if to leave, then sank back into her seat when one of her attorneys quieted her.

FIFTH OFFER MADE TO HUNGARY BY CZECHOSLOVAKIA

ITS TERMS ARE NOT DISCLOSED

Budapest Seems Inclined to Use Diplomatic Channels but May Call in Hitler as Arbiter.

By the Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 22.—Czechoslovakia has made a fifth offer to settle the dispute over Hungarian minorities in Czechoslovakia, a Foreign Office spokesman said tonight. The proposal was made in a note handed to the Hungarian Minister in Prague at noon today, and is being brought here. Its terms have not been disclosed.

Prague's fourth proposal reached here only yesterday. Hungarians described it as inadequate. It was understood to offer cession of about 2800 square miles of land, but not including a large number of Hungarian-populated towns, among them Bratislava. Hungary has demanded about 5000 square miles, including Bratislava.

Hitler's Plan Suggested.

Hungarian Government circles seemed inclined to carry on the negotiations through diplomatic channels for another few days at least. Should these efforts fail, one source said, it was planned that Budapest suggest to Prague that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's compromise plan be accepted.

This plan was said to grant Hungary the right to occupy purely Hungarian minority districts in Slovakia and Ruthenia according to the 1910 census except for some border places like Bratislava, Nitra, Kassa and Ungvar.

Among the Hungarian demands still ungranted by Prague were said to be plebiscites in Slovakia and Ruthenia to decide whether those areas preferred to remain with Czechoslovakia or to return to Hungary, to which they belonged before the World War.

Fuehrer Might Object.

If Ruthenia voted in favor of Hungary in such a plebiscite, Budapest's ambition for a common frontier with Poland would be realized.

Such a plebiscite, however, was said not to be included in Hitler's plan of compromise.

Among both Hungarian and Czechoslovak diplomats there appeared to be an increasing desire to leave the decision to foreign arbiters, possibly Hitler himself.

Some Hungarian diplomats said the Government had been assured by foreign Powers, particularly Rumania and Yugoslavia, that those countries would not consider it aggression if Hungary were to cross the Czechoslovak border to occupy purely Hungarian districts.

Meanwhile two armies totaling more than 1,000,000 men still were assembled along the 600-mile Hungarian-Czechoslovak border.

12 Hungarians Killed in Fighting With Czech Force.

By the Associated Press.

PRAGUE, Oct. 22.—The Czechoslovak general staff reported today the killing of 12 Hungarian terrorists and one Czech gendarme in fighting near Berehovo in Southern Slovakia.

The report said Czechoslovak troops captured a number of alleged Hungarian terrorists, seized their arms and ammunition, and surrounded eight who made up the remainder of a band operating around Hunyadi, near Berehovo.

In a communique the general staff also reported that terrorists, firing from ambush, had wounded two Czech gendarmes at Perechrestna, in the district of Svalava. Gendarmerie officials were ordered in pursuit of the attackers, one of whom was wounded fatally and three of whom were captured.

Hungarian patrols which were reported to have tried to mine a bridge near Svihy were said to have dispersed on the approach of Czechoslovak soldiers.

The military communique said a Lieutenant in the Hungarian army, who was charged with being the leader of a terrorist band which killed a Czech railroad worker, had been taken prisoner on the outskirts of Munkacevo, holy Jewish city in Ruthenia.

Officials said the Lieutenant was being held for trial at Kosice.

The general staff also charged that Hungarian airplanes were continuing distribution of provocatory pamphlets in the Komarno district near the Czechoslovak-Hungarian border.

The Czechoslovak radio, meanwhile, appealed to persons living near the German-occupied areas to remain calm during settlement of disputes arising from charges Nazi troops had overstepped the demarcation line.

Embassy Says Envoy's in "No Hurry" to Leave Russia—Reports He Won't Return.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Long-standing reports that Alexander A. Troyanovsky, the Soviet Ambassador, would not return to the United States were revived today by disclosure that Constantine A. Oumansky, Counselor and Charge d'Affaires, would entertain at the Embassy's annual anniversary party Nov. 7.

More than 1000 guests will be invited to the reception, celebrating the twenty-first anniversary of the Red Revolution of 1917. Previously it had been said here that Troyanovsky would return from his visit to Russia in late October, but now no date for his return is fixed.

At the Russian Embassy, it was stated today that he was in "no hurry" to return.

Rumors that the Ambassador had been caught in the Russian purge, like so many of his diplomatic colleagues, were not confirmed. On the contrary, diplomatic circles here have heard Troyanovsky is being groomed to succeed Maxim Litvinov as Commissar of Foreign Affairs.

Long Record of Loyalty.

It always has been understood here generally that Troyanovsky stood high with the Kremlin and had a long and unquestioned record of loyalty to his Government. He has been Ambassador since this country recognized the Soviet Government in 1933, a period regarded by some governments as long enough for a diplomat to remain at one post.

The Soviet practice concerning several diplomatic and consular officers who have been in the United States has been to give them other jobs for a time, after which they were removed quietly and apparently disappeared from public life.

Word received here from Moscow indicates this has happened to at least four Soviet officials sent here since the United States recognized Soviet Russia, and subsequently recalled to Moscow. These include Boris E. Skvirsky, first Counselor; Alexei F. Neymann, second Counselor; Moisey G. Galkovitch, San Francisco Consul-General until 1936, and Jean J. Arens, Consul-General in New York.

All Drop From Sight.

Skvirsky, who functioned from 1922 until 1933 as unofficial Soviet representative here, was made Ambassador to Afghanistan for a time, and subsequently relieved. Neymann was for a while head of the American section in the Moscow Foreign Office. He later was relieved and has not been seen by foreign friends in Moscow for about a year. Galkocitch and Arens are reported to have had similar experiences.

Recent reports also have been that Ivan V. Boyev, former head of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, likewise has not been seen. So far as is known here, there have been no public announcements of the transfer or whereabouts of any of these officers.

Troyanovsky left for Russia with his wife and son late last June. It was said he would place his son in Moscow University, and return in due course. He greeted Howard Hughes and his associates when they landed in Moscow in mid-July.

Since Russia's most recent purge got under way in August, 1936, more than a dozen Ambassadors and high foreign officials have been arrested, and some placed on public trial and executed.

and might do a great service to world trade if it succeeded.

While the name of a trade emissary to Washington has not been mentioned, possibly the one foremost in consideration is Rudolf Brinkman, Secretary of State in the Economics Ministry, who has visited the United States several times.

Brinkmann, since taking his present post, has made economic rapprochment with the Western European democracies and the weight of German influence the cornerstone of his policy. His pet project is a trade treaty with the United States.

Germany's Great Needs.

Economics Minister Walther Funk is in complete accord with the idea. Funk is known to reason from the theory that there is practically no limit to what a nation of 80,000,000 persons can eat and wear.

He argues that no matter how extensive Germany's contracts may be for the acquisition of wheat, cotton, tobacco, from the Balkan States, Germany still can absorb vast quantities of these same products from the United States.

Funk also believes that American industries would not suffer if in return the United States purchased such German specialties as optical instruments, artificial silks and cottons and woolens.

German authorities frankly admit that the proposed triangular agreement would not be possible except under some form of regimented economy, but the proposal was a departure from the bilateral principle hitherto adhered to by Germany as against the multilateral policy of the Washington Government.

NAZI ORGAN ASSAILS 'ENGLISH CIRCLES' ON COLONIAL ISSUE

Charges They Apparently Incite Demonstrations Counter to German Claims.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—The Deutsche Diplomatische Korrespondenz, mouthpiece of the German Foreign Office, tonight restated the German position on the colonial issue, in assailing "certain English circles." It accused these quarters of apparently aiming at causing new unrest on the one hand by inciting demonstrations counter to the German colonial claims, and on the other by wishing to force Germany to set a date for negotiating the problem.

The paper said: "If the German colonies have been left to the exploitation of others for 26 years, sound common sense for justice now commands—the longer the more urgently—that earlier injustice finally be rectified and that the trustees return the possessions to the country from which they were taken away under false suppositions. The initiative for solving the affair lies not with Germany, but with all those who are responsible for beginning compensation."

FRANCE TO NAME ARMAMENT CHIEF TO RUSH PROGRAM

Cabinet Also Decides to Force Workers in Vital Industries to Exceed 40-Hour Week.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—The French Government made it plain after a Cabinet meeting today that it had committed itself to a heavy rearmament program unless some kind of agreement could be obtained to minimize Europe's war dangers.

There was ample evidence that this policy was decided in close accord with Great Britain, which also is pushing rearmament.

In France, immediate measures took the form of plans for appointment of a high commissioner for armaments and the promise of immediate measures to force employes of arms and airplane factories to work longer than the 40-hour week.

After the Cabinet meeting ministers said the Government proposed summary dismissal of workers in airplane and arms plants who balked at the longer hours.

In Step With Britain.

The decision followed the announcement by the British Air Ministry last night of plans to step up plane production to match the air rearmament of Germany which, it is estimated, will have 6000 or more first line fighting planes by next spring.

Leon Archambaud, president of the Chamber of Deputies sub-committee on national defense, was considered the most likely choice to direct France's armaments speed-up. Ministers said the high commissioner for armaments would rank virtually as a member of the Cabinet.

The statement of Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, that Italy views strides toward stronger armaments in the United States, Great Britain and France as contrary to the spirit of Munich appears to have fallen on deaf ears.

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet informed the Cabinet of conversations with Germany in an attempt to reach a non-aggression agreement but the measures announced simultaneously to speed up armaments indicated that the Government was taking no chances.

Atmosphere of Distrust.

An atmosphere of distrust of Germany's intentions persisted in a large part of French political circles and among the general public where the "Munich peace" is widely regarded as a capitulation forced on the democracies by lack of preparedness.

Premier Daladier outlined to the ministers his plans to use the 40-day decree powers voted him by Parliament to build up France's economic and financial structures. That authority expires Nov. 15.

No hint leaked out, however, as to what steps were to be taken except that a large bond issue is likely for financing the rearmament program.

A series of important diplomatic shifts, including appointment of Paul Naggiar, Ambassador to China, as Ambassador to Moscow, was announced today.

The appointment of Jules Henry, former Charge d'Affaires in the Embassy at Washington, as Ambassador to government Spain, also was viewed as significant. Henry is one of Bonnet's closest aids.

Rightist circles have urged that the government leave both the Moscow and Barcelona posts in the hands of minor officials as evidence of its desire for closer collaboration with Berlin and Rome.

Senate Election Today.

Roughly one-third of the Senate will be elected by indirect vote tomorrow. Little political importance is attached, however, to these elections by departmental commissions composed of deputies, departmental councilors and delegates chosen by municipal councils.

Of the 314 seats in the Senate 97 will be at stake in the first third of the nation's departments, taken in alphabetical order. Senators serve nine-year terms, one-third of them being elected every three years. There is no popular vote for Senators.

Hankow Railway, expected hourly, the Wuhan area would be cut off from all but the West and Japanese advices said long lines of Chinese had been seen in flight in that direction. Most of the civilian population of Wuchang, the most immediately threatened of the Wuhan cities, was said to be have fled.

Chinese officials and their families were evacuating Hankow along with many civilians. Facilities for flight into the interior were heavily burdened.

Reuters, British News Agency, corrected its previous report from Hongkong that Generalissimo Chiang had left Hankow for Changsha, about 200 miles south, capital of Hunan Province. The Reuters correspondent reported the Generalissimo and Mme. Chiang were still at Hankow.

Japanese Leader's Plans.

The commander of the Japanese forces, Gen. Shunroku Hata, asserted that Japan would continue its war until all anti-Japanese resistance ended.

He said the Japanese would pursue Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek into Szechwan or Yunnan Province, extreme Southwestern China, if necessary, and were prepared as a last resort to fight any nation challenging what he called Japanese national rights and interests in China.

He predicted early capture of Hankow, Generalissimo Chiang's Yangtze River headquarters, and the "smashing of organized, large scale Chinese resistance."

Gen. Hata, in high spirits over reports of the occupation of Canton, some 500 miles to the south, and pleased now by the progress of his own more difficult campaign, expressed confidence in Japan's future on the Asiatic mainland. He foresaw the Imperial Government as dominating Asiatic affairs.

Japan and Soviet Russia.

A chance question on the likelihood of border friction or conflict with Soviet Russia elicited this response: "Japan is prepared to fight any nation, not only the Soviet Union, when all other means have failed to protect her national rights and interests."

Asked whether Japan considered the Soviet Union a menace to Japanese domination of China and how he evaluated the military might of the Russians, Hata replied:

Hata evaded questions as to whether Japan expected to establish a buffer state against the Soviet Union and as to how many governments would be sponsored to govern China.

"All we desire is that the future government (of China) shall not make opposition to Japan and the exclusion of Japanese influence its guiding principle," he said.

The Japanese invasion since the undeclared war started July 7, 1937, has brought all of China's chief seaports, most of its major cities and the rich North China area under nominal Japanese control.

Japanese Economic Blockade Against Communist Guerrillas.

TIENTSIN, North China, Oct. 22.—Japanese military authorities supplemented today their armed action against Chinese guerrillas with an economic blockade against Chinese Communist areas in Northern Shansi and Eastern Hopeh Provinces.

The measure was similar to that used by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese Nationalist leader, before Chinese central armies joined the guerrilla forces in fighting Japanese invasion.

The order prohibited movement of all materials for manufacture of munitions and printing and imposed barriers against the transport of foodstuffs by rail into Red territory.

Customs officials at the same time prohibited export from North China of wool and hemp. The United States formerly was the principal market for wool but recently the buyers mostly have been Gefmans.

Czech Minister to London Says in Plea for Privacy Former President's Health Is Broken.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 22. — Former President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia stepped from an airliner here today on his way to the United States to lecture at the University of Chicago.

He came unheralded, accompanied only by his wife and secretaries. He landed at Croydon Airdrome before it was announced at Prague he had left Czechoslovakia.

His intimates said he would rest in the English countryside several months, with a possible trip to Switzerland if he found the British winter too rigorous.

Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovak Minister to London, said Benes' health was "rather badly broken" and pleaded that his privacy be "strictly respected." He said Benes' visit had no political significance.

Benes' whereabouts was kept secret.

Sudetenland to Vote Next Month On Representatives in Reichstag

People Will Not Be Asked Whether They Approve German Annexation—Nazis Taking Over Henlein Party.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—The residents of Sudetenland may choose their deputies next month for Reichsfuehrer Hitler's non-debative Parliament in the substitution of civil rule for military in the newest part of Germany.

No general election will be held, officials said. Only the inhabitants of Sudetenland will vote on the as yet undetermined election day.

In this and other respects the annexation of the former Czechoslovak territory with its preponderant Germanic minority will differ from the annexation of Austria. When Austria was annexed, all of greater Germany voted on expansion of the Reichstag and gave the customary unanimous "ja" on the question of approving the anschluss.

In Sudetenland voters will not be asked wether they approve the union won by the four-Power Munich conference. Officials said "this would be superfluous."

The Sudeten German party, led by Konrad Henlein, now German Commissioner for Sudetenland, was being taken over by the German National Socialist (Nazi) party. The Sudetenland election will not be held until the absorption has been completed.

Not all Sudeten party members were being accepted by the Nazis. Henlein's lists were carefully checked and only those members adjudged as deserving Nazi party membership were being accepted. It was assumed that most of the Sudeten deputies who formerly sat in the Czechoslovak Parliament at Prague and helped lead in the minority campaign against the Prague Government will be honored with seats in the Reichstag.

Railway traffic between Germany and Czechoslovakia was expected to be resumed next week. Members of the International Economic Commission said they hoped through trains between Berlin and Vienna, via Prague, could start running "within five or six days."

The new border between Czechoslovakia and Germany was thrown open today to free trade for an unspecified period but the order on this side of the border applied only to Sudetenland—not the rest of Germany.

ROOSEVELT DOING ALL HE CAN FOR ZIONISTS, WAGNER SAYS

Senator Reports President Is Concerned Over British Threat to Stop Jewish Immigration.

By the Associated Press.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 22.—The United States Government will "do everything in its power to maintain Palestine as a national home for Jewish people," Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, said he had been assured today by President Roosevelt.

After a call at Hyde Park, Wagner said he and the President were deeply concerned over the "threat" of the British Government to stop Jewish immigration to Palestine as an outgrowth of the Jewish-Arab disturbance.

Wagner's call followed publication last night of a letter the President wrote to Mayor Thomas J. Spellacy of Hartford, Conn., who had written that "The citizens of Hartford would appreciate your continued interest on behalf of Jews in Palestine."

Roosevelt told the Mayor this Government had kept constantly before the British Government, through Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, the "interest which the American people have in Palestine," adding:

"I understand, however, that, under the terms of our convention with Great Britain regarding the Palestine Mandate, we are unable to prevent modifications in the mandate. The most we can do is to decline to accept as applicable to American interests any modifications affecting such interests unless we have given our assent to them."

Attorney-General Cummings Names Committees to Confer With Judges.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Attorney-General Homer S. Cummings appointed two committees today to collaborate with Senior Judges of the Circuit Courts of Appeals to study two problems discussed at the annual session of the Judges' conference last month.

On one committee are: Arthur T. Vanderbilt, president of the American Judicature Society and former president of the American Bar Association, chairman; Alexander Holtzoff, special assistant to the Attorney-General; George Maurice Morris of the executive committee of the American Bar Association; Herschel W. Arant, president of the Association of American Law Schools, and Gordon Dean, special executive assistant to the Attorney-General.

On the other committee are: Assistant Attorney-General James W. Morris, and Wendell Berge and Warner W. Gardner, special assistants to the Attorney-General.

The committees will collaborate with designated groups of judges. The first committee will study the question of creating an administrative office for the Federal courts and will make recommendations to the judicial conference concerning the proposal to transfer the budget of the judiciary from the Department of Justice to the courts. It also will study methods of controlling and improving the administration of Justice in the several districts and the District of Columbia.

The second committee will collaborate with the Attorney-General in an effort to simplify the procedure in the conduct of cases in the Circuit Courts of Appeals other than those which originate in the District Courts. This would include appeals from the United States Board of Tax Appeals and administrative tribunals.

DISMISSAL OF 43 OF 105 RED CAPS EFFECTIVE TODAY

The discharge of 43 of the 105 Red Caps who carry the luggage of travelers at Union Station will become effective today, on the eve of the effective date of the new Federal Wage-Hour Act.

They were dismissed by the Terminal Railroad Association in anticipation that the new law might require the association to pay them 25 cents an hour. Tips have been their only compensation hitherto.

Among those who were notified Friday of their dismissal, effective today, were all of the four officers of the Red Caps' and Ushers' Union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, formed about two years ago, which claims a membership of 87.

Joseph McMillen, president of the union, told a Post-Dispatch reporter he regarded the dismissals as "direct discrimination" against the union. A meeting of union members was held yesterday at the Railroad Y. M. C. A., 203 South Twentieth street, but no announcement was made of any decision which may have been reached.

Many Long in Service.

About 50 Red Caps most of them in uniform, attended the meeting. Many of them, on entering the hall, told a reporter they had been employed as Red Caps for 10 years or more. One mentioned with a wry grimace that he was notified of his dismissal on the day he completed 21 years and six months of service.

Although Red Caps have not been paid by the Terminal Association, the Interstate Commerce Commission has ruled that they are employes of the association, and railroad lawyers have advised the association to be guided by the Wage-Hour Act in dealing with the Red Caps.

Just how that law will apply has not yet been decided, the Post-Dispatch was told by John A. Wicks, chief clerk in the office of the general superintendent of the association. Wicks said it remained to be determined whether the association would pay the Red Caps 25 cents an hour, the minimum under the new law, or whether it would be sufficient to make up any difference between the tips they received and what they would have earned at 25 cents an hour.

Average $15 to $18 a Week.

The union president, McMillen, said average earnings of Red Caps from tips are from $15 to $18 a week, out of which the men are required to provide their uniforms, which cost $32 for the winter and $11 for the summer type. Uniforms for Red Caps employed for 10 years or more are provided by the Terminal Association.

One shift of Red Caps reports for work at 6:45 a. m. and is relieved at 6:30 p. m., but there are several slack hours during the day, when only a few need be on duty. The night shift works from 4:30 p. m. to midnight, but must also be on hand in the morning, from 7 o'clock until 9 o'clock, McMillan says.

Two Negroes arrested Thursday, after a witness had told police he saw their coupe run over Schuck, were released. The Negroes said they were Joe Cooper, 1510 South Third street, and Wiley Roundtree, 1435 South Second street. "The Elephant Queen" and Two of Her New Charges

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

Miss Wanda Wentz Stops Here With New Playmates She's Taking From India to Brownsville, Tex.

Miss Wanda Wentz—"The Elephant Queen" in circus circles—was in St. Louis yesterday with a group of seven new playmates she is bringing back from Karachi, India.

Traveling in two railroad cars, Miss Wentz, seven roustabouts and the elephants are on their way to Brownsville, Tex., to begin rehearsing for a part they will play next spring in Manuel (The Lion's) King's animal show.

At Union Station, Miss Wentz, seated on a bale of hay in one of the cars, within reach of 8-year-old Juno and Katie, youngest of the brood, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that her charges were very tired but glad to be on land again.

"They didn't care for the water," she said, "as they were seasick all of the way." She paused a minute to tweak the ear of Juno, who had commenced to sway, causing the car to rock. "They are nervous, the poor dears," she continued. "They've had to stand up for 36 hours and have 36 more to go."

The seven were bought for $19,000 on the open market in Karachi six weeks ago. W. A. (The Snake) King, father of "The Lion" King and an important animal man in his own right, met the company at New York, to assist in the overland journey.

"We have had very little trouble," he said. "It's mostly a matter of keeping the engineer calm." He explained that the elephants rocked the train so much that the engineer had trouble maintaining an even speed.

Miss Wentz, now 19 years old, has been pushing elephants around for 10 years. "They are my whole life," she said, chewing a straw meditatively. "I prefer their company to that of men."

She only bought one male—Modoch, aged 16. "The males, like human beings, are much meaner than the females," she said. "They get harder to handle as they grow older and grouchier. Even the toughest elephant men don't like to fool with the males. I've been around elephants for a long time and I know how they behave. Every now and then something goes haywire with a male and the next thing you know he's throwing people and tents and wagons around like rubber balls."

As the train pulled out, Miss Wentz called from the car door to say that she is planning to introduce some innovations into elephant acts next summer. "This is a likely looking bunch," she cried. "Best I've ever seen. If everything breaks right I ought to have them hopping through hoops like fox terriers."

SNOW IN THREE STATES DAMAGES POWER LINES

Phone Service Also Impeded in Parts of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 22.—A heavy snowstorm disrupted telephone and telegraph service in some areas of Minnesota today. At Red Wing telephone and power lines were torn down by ice and all factories were closed because of lack of power.

Minneapolis was covered by a driving snow, most of which melted as it struck the ground, with precipitation measuring .22 of an inch.

Telephone and wire connections between the Twin Cities and Winona were cut off by the storm.

The season's first snow and sleet storm struck Northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan today, cutting power and communications lines and impeding highway traffic. From two to six inches of slush and snow covered the ground.

At Phillips, Wis., sleet broke power lines and cut off electric service. Similar conditions were reported in towns in the Iron Mountain (Mich.) neighborhood.

RECORDS REQUIRED FOR 11,000,000 BY WAGE-HOUR LAW

Katherine Lenroot, chief of the Children's Bureau, specified that children of those years were barred from employment in mining, manufacturing, the operation of motor vehicles and messenger service. Children younger than 14 may not legally be given work in any industry covered by the act.

In non-prohibited employment those above that age may work three hours on any school day and not more than eight hours on any other day. At no time may their hours of work conflict with their school hours, according to Miss Lenroot's regulation. Their employment must always be between 6 a. m. and 7 p. m.

While Miss Lenroot said the interpretation of her regulation was up to each employer of children between 14 and 16, she expressed the personal opinion that it covered the employment of carrier boys of those ages by newspapers.

Some publishers suggested morning papers would not be able to use boys of those ages for many of their deliveries since most such deliveries are made before 6 a. m.

BARGE LINE LOADING HALTED BY STRIKE

Loading operations at the Federal Barge Line dock at the foot of Market street are at a standstill due to a strike of 88 Negro stevedores, who voted to quit work Thursday night in protest against the disciplinary suspension of a worker for 10 days.

The stevedores, members of the American Federation of Labor Longshoremen's Union, reported to work Friday and yesterday but refused to work. There are 35 barges tied up at the dock last night including a tow of 10 barges which arrived yesterday but was not unloaded.

A spokesman for the union declared the loading foreman and officials of the barge line had been "picking on" them for some time, and that they decided to call a stoppage of work Thursday night after one worker had been suspended for disputing with the foreman about methods of loading freight. He charged that the officials were requiring two stevedores to do the work of four men.

The freight handled by the lines is chiefly non-perishable merchandise, and therefore no loss was expected on the shipment received yesterday. Operations at the barge line dock on the East Side were not affected.

The strikers have been loitering around the dock and the recreation rooms provided for the stevedores during the last two days, playing cards and chatting in groups. There has been no picketing. The union spokesman declined to say whether the strike would be ended with the reinstatement of the suspended worker.

EXPLODING GASOLINE TANK FIRES PLANE IN HANGAR

An airplane belonging to Joseph Imeson, president of St. Louis Airlines, caught fire in a hangar at Lambert-St. Louis Field yesterday afternoon when the gasoline tank exploded during a welding operation.

The fire, which occurred in the hangar of the St. Louis Flying Service, consumed the fabric and part of the frame of the plane before it was put out with chemical extinguishers. The damage was estimated at $1000. No one was injured.

ST. CLAIR COUNTY TRIMS $895,000 OFF BRIDGE COST

Supervisors Reduce Estimate to $6,636,000 and Decide to Ask RFC for $3,650,000 Loan.

St. Clair County turned to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday for assistance in financing its proposed highway bridge over the Mississippi River, but in doing so pared $895,000 off the estimated cost, reducing it to $6,636,364.

The previous proposal called for a bond issue of $4,500,000 and a Public Works Administration grant of $3,032,000, a total of $7,532,000. The present plan is to get $3,650,000 from the RFC, to replace the bond issue, and $2,986,364 from the PWA.

The county's Board of Supervisors, deciding to apply to the RFC for a loan to pay the county's share of the cost of the bridge, voted also to hand back to H. C. Speer & Sons, the Chicago investment firm which failed to go through with a contract to buy the $4,500,000 bond issue, the $45,000 certified check the Speer company had deposited to guarantee performance of its contract.

Reasons for Refund.

County Highway Engineer B. C. McCurdy told a Post-Dispatch reporter the refund of the Speer check was at the insistence of the RFC. McCurdy said the county had been informed by the RFC that the check would have to be returned to the Speer firm so that there would be no question of the validity of the bonds which the RFC would get as security for its loan and no possibility of litigation over the $45,000 deposit.

The present bridge plan, trimming down the cost, eliminates the $470,393 profit that was to have gone to the Speer firm for handling the bond issue; reduces the item for contingencies from $500,000 to $236,144; and cuts the item for interest during construction from $360,000 to $146,000.

The saving on interest during construction is made possible because the RFC would advance money only as needed, whereas under the Speer contract the entire $4,500,000 bond issue was to have started drawing interest last Oct. 1.

Details of New Estimate.

A contract for the main bridge structure has already been let to G. Locke Tarlton on a bid of $5,383,109. The revised estimate of the cost of the bridge takes this figure, adds to it $128,000 for toll stations, lights and approach plazas, for which contracts have not been let, and includes estimates of $10,000 for preliminary expenses; $330,000 for right of way; $303,111 for engineering fees; $100,000 for legal expenses, administration and overhead, and the estimates of $146,000 for interest during construction and $236,144 for contingencies.

McCurdy said that in the event the RFC did not approve the loan requested, owners of property needed for right of way, for which the county has obtained options, would be reimbursed for any expense they may have been put to by the New York engineering firm, Waddell & Hardesty, consulting engineers for the bridge.

This offer had been made, McCurdy said, by Shortridge Hardesty, a member of the firm, who was influenced to make it because the firm already has an investment of $8000 to $10,000 in the plans and specifications it has prepared for the bridge.

The original PWA grant to the county for the bridge was made subject to a stipulation that construction would begin by Oct. 13. That became impossible, however, when the Speer firm failed to go through with its contract to pay for the bonds Oct. 1.

Under the contract, negotiated privately without competitive bidding, the Speer Co. was to have paid $4,029,607 for the $4,500,000 bond issue. It reported, however, it was unable to dispose of the bonds without taking a loss of about $300,000.

The interest rate on the RFC loan, if granted, would be 4 per cent, the same as provided in the bond issue. The bonds which the RFC would get as security for the loan would be revenue bonds, to be paid out of toll revenues of the bridge, the same as those which were to have gone to the Speer company.

The will of David Rowland Francis Jr., broker and son of the late former Gov. Francis, filed for probate yesterday at Clayton, leaves his home and the 10-acre tract on which it stands at Clayton road and Lindbergh boulevard to his widow. The value of the estate is not indicated.

Seventy per cent of the residue of the estate is left to Mrs. Francis, who also is named executrix, and 30 per cent to his daughter by a former marriage, Miss Alice P. Francis. The will states that Mrs. Francis should accept the estimate of the surviving partners of the brokerage firm of Francis Bro. & Co. regarding what constitutes his share of the business, since he had full confidence in them.

Mr. Francis died of a heart attack last Monday in his home. He was 59 years old, a graduate of Yale University, and had been in the brokerage business for 37 years. Two of his five brothers are partners in the brokerage firm.

SUIT TO ENJOIN SALE OF HOUSE PLEDGED FOR BAIL

Charles Dreste Sr., Whose Son Gave Deed as Security, Seeks to Block Foreclosure.

Suit for an injunction to prevent the foreclosure sale on Tuesday of property at 2922 Texas avenue was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Charles Dreste Sr., 85 years old, of 2923 Texas avenue, against James Egan, a professional bondsman.

The petition stated that Dreste's son, Francis H. Dreste, gave the deed to Egan last month as security for a $100 fee for a bail bond, following Francis Dreste's arrest by St. Louis police. The son subsequently was turned over to St. Louis County officers and is in jail at Clayton in default of $5000 bond pending action by the grand jury on an automobile theft complaint.

The deed, which, with interest notes, amounts to $2360, is in default and has been advertised for sale by a trustee. Circuit Judge Eugene J. Sartorius issued an order, returnable tomorrow, for Egan and the trustee to show cause why an injunction should not be granted.

CRITIC OF MAYOR HAGUE SAYS HE WAS PUT OUT OF PRISON

J. F. Burkitt's Planned Triumphal Entry Into Jersey City with Followers Spoiled.

By the Associated Press.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 22.—The release of James F. Burkitt from the Hudson County penitentiary at Secaucus today spoiled plans for his triumphal entry into Jersey City with an escort provided by the Hudson County Committee for Labor, Defense and Civil Rights.

Burkitt, a Democrat and long-time critic within the party of its State leader, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, had been jailed on a disorderly conduct charge after an attempt to make an open-air speech here without a permit. The State Supreme Court upheld his conviction.

Reporters found Burkitt thumbing a ride outside the jail this morning, and complaining that he was "forcibly ejected" a day ahead of the expiration of his six month term to avert a demonstration by his political sympathizers.

Warden Michael J. Gill denied Burkitt was released early.

Burkitt said he would go to City Hall Monday to renew his application for a permit to make an open-air speech.

POCKET-PICKING IN PRISON

Convict About to Leave on Parole Is Accused of Theft.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 22. — It was disclosed here today that when several prisoners were being dressed out of the Missouri Penitentiary, one convict reported his pocket had been picked of $9.50. The money was found under another convict's chair.

Prison officials couldn't hold the man since he already had been paroled, so they notified Cole County authorities. The convict is in the county jail awaiting action by the Parole Board.

WOMAN IN KARPIS CASE TRIAL JAILED

Accused of Intimidating Witnesses at Hearing on Harboring of Gangster.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 22.—United States District Judge T. C. Trimble set aside today the $5000 bond of Mrs. Grace Goldstein and ordered her remanded to jail for the remainder of her trial with six other Hot Springs residents, charged with conspiring in 1935 to harbor Alvin Karpis, the gangster.

Announcing the Court's action, United States Attorney Fred A. Isgrig said he had charged at a hearing in chambers this morning that Mrs. Goldstein, common-law wife of Karpis, had intimidated Government witnesses.

Opening of today's session was delayed by the hearing to which the District Attorney and his staff, defense counsel and Mrs. Goldstein were summoned.

Questions Ice Man.

Isgrig made the charge of intimidation when questioning Robert E. Rowe, Hot Springs ice man who testified he made deliveries to Dyer's landing, a cottage camp on the lake near Hot Springs, in the summer of 1935, and that his customers included a man named Parker, whom he identified from Government photographs as Karpis.

Mrs. A. C. Dyer, owner of the landing, and her caretaker, Morris Loftis, are among the seven charged with conspiring to shield the gangster while he was being sought for the 1934 St. Paul kidnaping of Edward Bremer.

Rowe testified he saw a picture of Karpis in a national magazine appearing at the time Parker, or Karpis, was at Dyer's landing, that he suspected that Parker was in reality Karpis and told his friends about it. At this point the witness became confused.

"I Don't Remember."

"Did you show Loftis that magazine picture?" the prosecutor asked. "I don't remember," was the answer.

"Didn't you tell me the other day," pressed the prosecutor, "that you showed Loftis photos of Karpis from the magazine and from the local Hot Springs newspaper?"

"I don't remember showing him a picture out of the paper."

"But you have been intimidated in this trial, haven't you?" said Isgrig. There were defense objections.

"Have you been threatened?" pursued Isgrig. "No."

"Then what influenced you to answer as you did to my questions?" "I wanted to be sure."

CLEW IN SCOTLAND DISCLOSED SPIES' ACTIVITIES IN U. S.

Mrs. Jessie Jordan, Hairdresser of Dundee, Acted as Mail Clearing House for International Ring.

LETTER LED TO NOVICE'S UNDOING

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—If it had not been for a "spies' postoffice" at Dundee, Scotland, the international spy system, whose operations in this country are being disclosed in the espionage trial which will be resumed here Monday in United States District Court, might not have been discovered.

The clew developed through surveillance by British authorities of Mrs. Jessie Jordan, a Dundee hairdresser, recently sentenced to four years at hard labor for espionage. Mrs. Jordan served as a clearing-house for the transmission of secret information. Letters for many operatives were routed through her.

One of these operatives was the mysterious "Sanders," who directed the espionage activities of Guenther Gustav Rumrich, who deserted as a sergeant in the United States Army, became a novice espionage agent for Germany, and then turned Government's evidence when caught.

He entered a plea of guilty of conspiracy to violate the espionage act at the outset of the trial and has proven to be a key witness against the three on trial, alleged minor underlings in the spy ring. They are Erich Glaser, a former private in the Air Corps; Otto H. Voss, an airplane mechanic alleged to have stolen plans for a pursuit plane, and Miss Johanna Hofmann, former hairdresser on the German liner Europa, alleged to have been a trans-Atlantic courier for the ring. Fourteen others, including the alleged principals, were indicted but fled the country.

Plot Not Carried Out.

Rumrich, who used an assumed name and whose letters, of course, did not bear a return address, wrote "Sanders," outlining the fantastic scheme to kidnap Col. Henry W. T. Elgin, commander of Fort Totten, and steal from him the mobilization plan of his regiment, the Sixty-Second Coast Artillery, an anti-aircraft force which participated in the last general headquarters air force maneuvers. He described the plot, which was never attempted, in detail during his testimony.

His letter to Mrs. Jordan was intercepted by the British operatives, steamed open, photostatic copies were made, and then the letter was permitted to be delivered. The photostats were turned over to American consular representatives at London, who transmitted them to the War Department.

Although the scheme was patently absurd, a trap was laid in the event it should be attempted. The abduction was to have taken place about Feb. 1. Colonel Elgin, other army officers and Federal agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were prepared to seize the spies. The plan was predicated on Rumrich's telephoning the Colonel and luring him to a hotel room on the pretext an important general staff mobilization conference was to be held there. The call was never made.

For weeks the clue was worthless, serving only as another indication that foreign secret agents were operating in this country. Then Rumrich made the mistake of posing as "Undersecretary of State Weston" in attempting to get 50 passport blanks which he testified had been ordered for the use of German secret agents entering Russia. He got the idea from the widely publicized Robinson-Rubens forged passport ring which was at that time under investigation.

When he tried to get the blanks, he was trapped. He soon convinced authorities he was not connected with the Rubens case, but it developed he was an army deserter, and he was turned over to Maj. J. N. Dalton, then intelligence officer of the Second Corps Area with headquarters on Governors Island.

Letter Writer Traced.

Examining Rumrich's papers, the Major found notes couched in military phraseology which coincided with some of the expressions employed in the letter to "Sanders" outlining the abduction plot. The intelligence officer suspected he had found the writer. Finally Rumrich admitted it and subsequently gave the whole thing away.

Maj. Dalton, lacking an active peace time counter espionage secret service, conferred with Reed Vetterli, then head of the New York office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, formerly stationed in St. Louis.

An elaborate spy hunt was then begun, with a squad of Federal agents led by Leon G. Turrou, linguist, who had served with Maj. Dalton in Moscow on the Hoover American Relief Commission, headed by Herbert Hoover. Turrou, who will be a Government witness, resigned after the espionage indictments were returned. He had sold an account of the unraveling of the espionage plot to a New York newspaper but publication was averted after an injunction had been issued by United States District Judge John C. Knox, presiding at the trial.

Counter-Service Proposed.

Political observers here are of the opinion that evidence produced at the trial may furnish ammunition for those advocating a Congressional appropriation to set up an adequate counter-espionage service as a branch of the United States Army for peace time operation. It is known President Roosevelt has manifested an interest in the matter and that United States District Attorney LaMar Hardy conferred with him prior to the trial.

Most of the remaining testimony, it is anticipated, may refer to the operations of those who got away, including a plan to establish an attractive young woman in a Washington apartment where she would wine, dine and, incidentally, attempt to "talk shop" with United States officers and government employes.

Those who got away and the roles they are alleged to have played in the espionage plot are:

Captain-Lieutenant Udo Von Bonin, on espionage duty for the German War Ministry.

Captain-Lieutenant Hermann Menzel, on espionage duty for the War Ministry.

The man known as Sanders referred to by Rumrich.

Ernst Mueller of Hamburg.

Mrs. Jessie Jordan.

William Lonkowski, a secret service agent operating in this country, who elude capture and aided others to escape. He is regarded as a key man.

Karl Schleuter and Karl Eitel, traveling agents for Menzel and Von Bonin.

Herbert Haenichen and Theodore Schultz.

Dr. Ignatz T. Griebl, believed to have been leader of the ring in this country, and Werner George Gudenberg, airplane designer, accused of aiding Lonkowski to film plans for a Curtis navy plane, under construction in 1935.

The Government's allegations embrace varied espionage activities from Jan. 2, 1935, until the returning of the indictment June 20 last. The maximum peace time penalty for espionage is 20 years.

TWO LAWYERS REFUSE TO YIELD $60,000 FEE

H. P. Lauf and L. H. Cook Deny State's Claim to Payments in Insurance Case.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 22.—Two Jefferson City lawyers whose $60,000 fees as custodians of more than $2,000,000 in impounded insurance premiums were outlawed recently by the Supreme Court, today refused the Attorney General's demand that they relinquish the money.

The lawyers, H. P. Lauf and L. H. Cook, wrote Insurance Superintendent George A. S. Robertson that the State had no claim against their fees since the Cole County Circuit Court had been held without jurisdiction in making the allowances. They said the disposition of the money was a matter between themselves and the insurance companies.

Attorney-General Roy McKittrick last week wrote six individuals and a Jefferson City bank demanding that they turn over to the insurance department about $500,000 taken from the impounded insurance funds for fees, salaries and expenses. All the fee awards have been held invalid by the State Supreme Court.

THREE TRUSTIES WALK AWAY FROM STATE PRISON FARM

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 22.—Three Negro convicts, two from St. Louis, escaped last night from the Church Prison Farm, six miles west of here. Deputy Warden W. E. Blagg said the men, all trustees, "walked off," and were first missed at the 11 o'clock inspection.

Blagg said they were Eugene McConnell, 45 years old, serving 30 years for murder, from St. Louis; Robert Smith, 28 years old, serving 10 years for robbery, from St. Louis; and Everett Smith, 51 years old, serving 50 years for murder, from Jackson County.

MICHIGAN OFFICER BLAMES MURPHY IN LANSING CLASH

Police Lieutenant Tells Dies Committee Governor Failed to Order "Labor Holiday" Halted.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Lieut. Harold Mulbar of the Michigan State Police testified today that the failure of Gov. Frank Murphy to issue an order prevented State police from quelling a disturbance at Lansing, Mich., during a "labor holiday." Mulbar was a witness before the House committee investigating un-American activities.

From other witnesses, Chairman Dies of the committee developed testimony describing the scene in Lansing June 7, 1937, when the "labor holiday" occurred.

Dies asked if members of the State police force had not known "a lot of trouble" was going on in Lansing. The officer responded affirmatively.

Dies asked: "Why didn't you go and put a stop to it?" "We couldn't move without an order from our superiors," Mulbar answered. "Under the law, only the Governor could order us to move in such a situation."

Ready and Willing.

"Where were your headquarters in relation to the college campus?" "They were practically on the campus."

"And you never at any time did anything to stop a mob that was marching on the State college?" "No. We would have gone . . ."

"Didn't you realize the grave danger to human life and property that was caused when a mob armed with clubs marched to the campus?" "Yes."

"You were ready and willing to go if you had orders from the Governor?" "Yes, sir. The men were ready to go. We had things in readiness."

High Crime, Dies Says.

Dies asserted that it was "just luck" that there was not a great loss of life. He commented that, in creating the disturbance in Lansing, demonstrators had committed felonies and misdemeanors under the State law and had been guilty of "high crime" against the Federal Government because streets were blocked and mail trucks could not pass.

Donald W. Gardner, a reporter for the Detroit Times, said that "flying squadrons" of union members drove about the town, forcibly closing stores. More than 2000 persons finally marched on the Michigan State Agricultural College after students had thrown several pickets into a river, he testified. The pickets were tossed into the river, Gardner said, because they tried to close restaurants near the school.

2000 Students Gathered.

"The students out there get hungry about 5:30," he remarked, "and they wanted the restaurants open."

When the crowd moved on the college, the witness said, about 2000 students gathered to resist them but finally dispersed in response to a plea by Vincent Vanderberg, a football player and student leader. The crowd, which Gardner said was composed of "unionites," returned to Lansing.

Official Wage-Hour Law Rules

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.

FOLLOWING is the text of regulations issued today by Administrator Elmer F. Andrews on information which employers should keep in conformity with the wage-hour act:

Section 516.1—Records required: Every employer subject to any provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act or any order issued under this act shall make and preserve records containing the following information with respect to each person employed by him, with the exception of those specified in sections 13 (A) (3), 13 (A) (4), 13 (A) (5), 13 (A) (6), 13 (A) (8), 13 (A) (9), and 13 (A) (10) (sections specifying persons exempted) of the act:

(A) Name in full.
(B) Home address.
(C) Date of birth if under 19.
(D) Hours worked each workday and each workweek.
(E) Regular rate of pay and basis upon which wages are paid.
(F) Wages at regular rate of pay for each workweek, excluding extra compensation attributable to the excess of the overtime rate over the regular rate.
(G) Extra wages for each workweek attributable to the excess of the overtime rate over the regular rate.
(H) Additions to cash wages at cost, or deductions from stipulated wages in the amount deducted or at the cost of the item for which deduction is made, whichever is less.

Limitation on Requirements.

(Note: This information is required only where the cash wage actually paid is less than the minimum wage required by the act. The reasonable cost of board, lodging and other facilities as part of wages, is defined and delimited by regulations of the wage and hour division, part 531.)

(I) Total wages paid for each workweek.
(J) Date of payment.

(Note: The three items of information, (E), (F) and (G) are only required when overtime is worked by the employe.)

Provided, however, that with respect to employes specified in section 13 (B) of the act, records referred to in paragraphs (F) and (G) of this section shall not be required, and

Provided, further, that with respect to employes who are specified in section 13 (a) (2) (retail sales exemption section) of the act and employes who are defined in regulations of the wage and hour division—part 541 (regulations defining and delimiting the terms "any employe employed in a bona fide executive, administrative, professional, or local retailing capacity, or in the capacity of outside salesman" pursuant to Section 13 (a) (1) of the Fair Labor Standards Act)—employers need make and preserve records containing the following information only:

(A) Name in full.
(B) Home address.
(C) Occupations.

Records Must Be Accessible.

Section 516.2—form of records—no particular order or form is prescribed for these records, provided that the information required in Section 516.1 is easily obtainable for inspection purposes.

Section 516.3 — Place and period for keeping records—each employer shall keep the records required by these regulations for his employes within each state either at the place or places of employment or, where that is impracticable, in or about at least one of his places of business within such State, unless otherwise authorized by the Administrator. Such records shall be kept safe and readily accessible for a period of at least four years after the entry of the record, and such records shall be open to inspection and transcription by the Administrator or his duly authorized and designated representative at any time.

Terms Defined.

Section 516.4 — Definitions of terms used in these regulations:

(a) Act—The "act" means the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938.

(b) Hours worked—For the purpose of these regulations the term "hours worked" shall include all time during which an employe is required by his employer to be on duty or to be on the employer's premises or to be at a prescribed workplace.

(c) Work-day and work-week—For the purposes of these regulations, a "work-day" with respect to any employe shall be any 24 consecutive hours, and a "work-week" with respect to any employe shall be seven consecutive days, provided that the work-day or work-week is not changed for the purpose of evasion of provisions of the act or any regulations prescribed pursuant thereto.

(d) Wage or wages—For the purposes of these regulations, the term "wage" or "wages" means all remuneration for employment of whatsoever nature whether paid on time work, piece work, salary, commission, bonus or other basis.

What an Employe Is.

(e) Employe—The term "employe" is defined by the act (Section 3 (e))to include "any individual employed by an employer," and the term "employ" is defined by the act (Section 3 (g))to include "to suffer or permit to work." It shall be the duty of each employer to make and preserve all records required under these regulations with respect to each employe employed by him, whether or not such employes perform their work in an establishment or plant operated by the employer or subject to his immediate supervision. Thus, the required records shall be made and preserved by the employer for "industrial home workers" or other employes who produce goods for the employer from material furnished by him or who are compensated for such employment at piece rates, wherever such employes actually perform their work.

Rate of Pay.

(f) Regular rate of pay — For the purpose of these regulations, the term "regular rate of pay" means

(1) With respect to an employe paid solely on an hourly basis (i. e., receiving no additional wage whatever)—the hourly wage rate at which he is employed.

(2) With respect to an employe employed on a daily, weekly, semi-monthly or monthly basis for a regular number of hours per week determined by agreement or custom: The average hourly rate obtained by dividing the wages earned for that regular number of hours in the work week by that regular number of hours; and

(III) With respect to an employe paid on any other basis than those specified in (I) and (II) of this paragraph (F): The average hourly rate obtained by dividing the wages earned for the particular work week by the total number of hours worked during that work week.

Method of Computing Pay.

Note on definitions above:

1. With respect to an employe paid on a monthly basis, the wages earned during a work week are computed by multiplying the monthly wage by 12 and dividing the result by 52. With respect to an employe paid on a semi-monthly basis, the wages earned during a work week are computed by multiplying the semi-monthly wage by 24 and dividing the result by 52.

2. In computing the average hourly rate fractions of less than one-half cent may be disregarded, and fractions over one-half cent should be raised to the next full cent.

3. In computing the average hourly rate, all wages earned or paid during a particular work week must be included except

(A) Bonuses not computed on the basis of measured work performed (e. g., bonuses for punctuality, simple Christmas bonuses, etc.)

(B) Extra compensation attributable to the excess of the overtime rate over the regular rate, and

(C) Additions to the cash wage for board, lodging or other facilities furnished by the employer.

Amending Regulations.

Section 516.5—Petition for amendment of Regulations—any person wishing a revision of any of the terms of the foregoing regulations on records kept by employers—sections 516.1 through 516.4—may submit in writing to the administrator a petition setting forth the changes desired and the reasons for proposing them. If, upon inspection of the petition, the Administrator believes that reasonable cause for amendment of the regulations is set forth, the Administrator will either schedule a hearing with due notice to interested parties, or will make other provisions for affording interested parties an opportunity to present their views, both in support and in opposition to the proposed changes.

CANDIDATES' VIEWS SOUGHT ON MARRIAGE HEALTH BILL

Those Seeking Legislative Seats Asked If they Favor Law Requiring Blood Tests.

Letters to all candidates for the Missouri Senate and House of Representatives, asking them to state their positions on a measure to require all persons to submit to a blood test before marriage, were mailed yesterday by the Young Men's Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

The letter, signed by Franklin F. Wehrle, president of the organization, said that more than 50 per cent of the inmates in State institutions are there because of syphilis and that the cost of maintenance is constantly increasing. The organization is sponsoring a State marriage health law.

SPANISH REBELS KEEP UP AIR RAIDS ON COASTAL CITIES

Bomb Valencia, Injuring One Woman After Killing 20 and Wounding 67 at Barcelona.

By the Associated Press.

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier), Oct. 22. — Strong Spanish insurgent air attacks on Government-held Mediterranean ports veered today from Barcelona to Valencia.

Intensification of the air bombardments along the Government seaboard was believed to indicate that fresh insurgent offensives were imminent on the deadlocked Catalonian fronts.

Observers expressed the opinion that they were aimed at weakening resistance behind the lines before the signal is given for new assaults to break the Ebro salient established by the Government in lower Catalonia last July.

After a series of heavy bombardments of Barcelona, Government provisional capital, insurgent planes swung south to attack Valencia.

Government officials said more than 20 persons were killed in the repeated raids on Barcelona and at least 67 wounded. There was only one casualty in the single raid on Valencia—a woman railway crossing keeper, who was severely injured.

All war fronts have been quiet since a Government counterattack in the Ebro River sector Oct. 13 which demonstrated the strength of defense forces massed there.

Government dispatches attributed the quiet to the exhaustion of insurgent reserves. They said Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces lost 80,000 men killed, wounded and taken prisoner in the prolonged fighting in the Caneta Zone alone.

MAYOR DICKMANN URGES ADOPTION OF AMENDMENT 6

Says Allocation of Funds Would Enable City to Build Several Arterial Highways.

Adoption of Amendment No. 6 to the State Constitution at the Nov. 8 election was urged in a statement yesterday by Mayor Dickmann, who said allocation of funds to St. Louis would make possible the construction of several arterial city highways.

As has been told, the Mayor has announced plans for a $6,000,000 Third street traffic way, with extensions on other streets to form an elevated and surface express highway from Gravois avenue to North Florissant avenue. He estimated the city's share from gasoline taxes provided in the proposed amendment at $1,500,000 a year.

In his statement yesterday, Mayor Dickmann said a more adequate route to the municipal airport might be considered as a project if the amendment carried.

Final Rush to Register at Election Board

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

VIEW of the crowd which stood five and six deep around the counters yesterday seeking to register before the registration books close tomorrow afternoon.

NOV. 8 VOTE LISTS TO CLOSE TOMORROW

Registration Deadline 5 P. M. —Board Bars U. S.-Convicted Felons.

Time for registration of voters for the election of Nov. 8 will expire at 5 p. m. tomorrow. It was expected that the enrollment would be more than 365,000, compared with 348,539 for the August primary.

Following an example set by the Kansas City Election Board last Wednesday, the St. Louis Election Board, it was made known yesterday, has refused to abide by the recent opinion of Attorney-General Roy McKittrick that persons convicted of felonies in Federal courts or in the courts of other states were not disqualified to register and vote in Missouri.

Eligible voters not already on the books may apply for enrollment tomorrow at the board's office, 208 South Twelfth street. Democratic and Republican party workers have been urging a large registration, and the office was crowded virtually to capacity yesterday by applicants.

At noon the crowd was five and six deep around the long counter and earlier in the day the lines extended onto the sidewalk. It was estimated that yesterday's registration would be 3000, compared with 2219 Friday. Up to Friday night the addition since the primary was 14,111. Yesterday's rush caused the board to delay closing time from noon to 5 p. m. There have been hundreds of applications for transfers by those who have moved since registering, and this has been another cause of congestion at the office.

Decision on Convicted Felons.

William H. Woodward, chairman of the board, announced the decision not to follow the Attorney-General's opinion as to registration of persons convicted of felonies. He said the board disputed McKittrick's interpretation of the law.

Any person convicted of felony in a Federal court will not be allowed to register or vote in St. Louis, Woodward declared, nor will any person convicted of felony in another State receive this privilege, provided the crime involved is also denominated as a felony under Missouri law.

The only way such a person could gain the right to vote here, he said, would be by obtaining a writ of mandamus to compel the Election Board to accept him. The board would resist any such suit to the limit, the chairman added. Formerly for six years Woodward was an assistant United States Attorney here, prosecuting criminal cases.

Article VIII, Section 2, of the State Constitution provides that "persons convicted of felony, or crime connected with the right of suffrage, may be excluded by law from the right of voting." Section 10,178 of the Revised Statutes provides that no person convicted of felony or other infamous crime, or of a misdemeanor connected with the exercise of the right of suffrage," shall be permitted to vote unless granted a full pardon.

McKittrick's Opinion.

The stated reason for the Attorney-General's opinion, given to Prosecuting Attorney W. W. Graves of Jackson County (Kansas City) Oct. 8, was that when a clause on qualification of voters similar to that in the Missouri Constitution was contained in the constitutions of other states it was construed by the Supreme Courts of the other states to apply only to felony convictions in those respective states, not elsewhere or in Federal courts. The Attorney-General asserted that the Missouri Legislature was powerless to enact laws disqualifying voters convicted elsewhere in the absence of specific constitutional authority.

Neither the Constitution nor the statute specifies the place of convictions involved in the rule.

Chairman Woodward explained that the Election Board was of the opinion the law disqualified voters convicted of felony anywhere.

The Kansas City Election Board declined to follow the Attorney-General's opinion in the absence of a Missouri court decision on the subject. That opinion declared the right to vote could not be denied those convicted in Federal Court in the Kansas City vote fraud cases.

HEARST DENOUNCES 'ENGLISH PROPAGANDA'

Publisher Says U. S. Is Being Flooded With It in Effort to Win Our Aid.

By the Associated Press.

SAN SIMEON, Cal., Oct. 22.—England was accused tonight by William Randolph Hearst of "flooding the United States" with propaganda designed to win this country's backing in her current worries.

Winston Churchill's radio appeal last Sunday to the United States, in which he urged America to join with Great Britain and France to halt the aggressions of dictator nations, was a piece of this propaganda, the publisher indicated.

Speaking from his San Simeon home in a radio address, characterized by the National Broadcasting Co., as a "reply" to Churchill, Hearst said:

". . . . England needs help; and where should she turn for help except to good old Uncle Sam, so sought after when needed, so scoffed at and scorned in all intervening times. . . . English soft-soap is again being poured over Uncle Sam's devoted head, and lathered into his ears and eyes. English propaganda is very subtle and shrewd. Their ablest statesmen are engaged in promulgating it."

On American Attitude.

The Czechoslovak situation, said the publisher, has definitely upset England. Turning to Churchill, he quoted from part of the Englishman's address in which he said American reaction to the attitude of England and France in the recent crisis—their failure to defend the integrity of the little republic—"may be a passing mood."

"Mr. Churchill is very wrong in his estimates of American ideas and interests," Hearst said. "There is a great deal of sense in the mood and attitude of the majority of Americans, a great deal of wisdom in America's policy of attending to her own affairs and keeping free from entangling foreign alliances. . . . In failing to do so she would be repeating the serious mistakes which involved her in the calamitous World War.

"Even those of us who had hopes of Anglo-American accord have been disabused of the idea by England's invariable selfishness and perfidy. . . ."

Fundamental Democracy.

Churchill, he said, is wrong in implying that "the fundamental character of the various so-called democracies is the same." France, he continued, is "Communist" in character, while England is monarchial, democratic in a degree, but more aristocratic than democratic, and lacking a written constitution guaranteeing its democracy.

"The principles, policies and purposes of all European nations, no matter what their forms of government, are essentially different from ours."

"England has never in our whole history extended any aid, comfort or consideration to this United States of ours, English-speaking nation though we be."

During the American Civil War, he pointed out, England aided the Southern cause "and tried to disrupt the union" while France tried to conquer Mexico."

"Not Idealistic Democracies."

He declared that "Communist France and imperial England are not altogether idealistic and altruistic democracies like our own—that true democracy stands by itself and must be preserved by itself—and that there is not very much difference between imperialism, Communism and Fascism in the final analysis. . . . Nazis, Communists, Fascists, imperialists are all of the same ilk, all cut from the same cloth, all striving for power and territory, all seeking from time to time a new prize, a new victim."

LEGAL AND ILLEGAL PARTY GIFTS DEFINED

Sheppard Rules U. S. Employes May Give, but Not to Aid Members of Congress.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Chairman Sheppard of Texas announced today he had informed all senatorial candidates that his Senate Campaign Investigating Committee considered it illegal for Federal employes to contribute to the campaign funds of Senators and Representatives.

In a letter to all senatorial candidates and their managers, Sheppard added, however, that "voluntary contributions by Federal employes and officers to the political party of their choice may legally be made through the regular state or national committee of such party."

The Senator declined to comment on a statement by the Republican National Committee, charging the Democratic National Committee with "open and defiant" violation of the law governing political contributions. The Republican statement said the Democratic committee had solicited funds from Federal employes in disregard of an opinion by the Campaign Investigating Committee.

Sheppard said he would bring the Republican charge to the attention of his committee at a meeting next week.

WHY CLARK OPPOSED ST. LAWRENCE TREATY

It Would Heighten Midwest's Tragic Transportation Handicap, Senator Says.

By the Associated Press.

BOONVILLE, Mo., Oct. 22.—Senator Bennett Champ Clark, campaigning for re-election, said today he opposed the St. Lawrence Waterways treaty because it would heighten "the tragic transportation disadvantages" of the Middle West.

"No nation has been so prodigal in its neglect of the development of its facilities of inland water transportation as has the United States and no section has ever been more adversely affected than has the Mississippi Valley," he declared.

Clark declared waterway development should not be "treated as a sectional problem, which we in the Mississippi Valley have not done. We have cheerfully co-operated to the tune of hundreds of millions of dollars for the harbors and intercoastal canals of the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf seaboards.

"But while we as a section have been more than willing, we do not feel that anything should be done which would deliberately increase the tragic transportation disadvantage under which we now suffer. Therefore I vigorously opposed the ratification of the St. Lawrence treaty because that treaty would destroy forever any hope of our Great Lakes-to-the-Gulf waterway which will be of such inestimable advantage to the whole Mississippi Valley."

LEHMAN SPEAKS FOR NEW DEAL CANDIDATES

New York Governor Praises Roosevelt's Program for First Time in Campaign.

By the Associated Press.

ONEONTA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, in his first campaign praise of the New Deal, urged support today of Congressmen who would uphold the "humane and progressive program" of President Roosevelt.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia yesterday said he could not support the Governor unless he came out unqualifiedly for the New Deal.

Scheduled to indorse the "principle aims" of the New Deal in a future campaign speech for re-election, the Governor urged a rally crowd of about 700 persons here 'to strengthen the hands of President Roosevelt and his humane and progressive program by sending Senators Robert F. Wagner and Representative James Mead back to Washington."

LaGuardia Declines to Comment on Gov. Lehman's Speech.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. — Mayor LaGuardia, who has withheld indorsement of either Gov. Lehman or Thomas E. Dewey in the campaign for Governor, declined to comment today on Lehman's speech at Oneonta.

U. S.-STATE CLASH ON JOB INSURANCE

Officials in Resolution Charge Federal Body With Exceeding Its Powers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. — State officials who administer the joint Federal-State Unemployment Insurance program accused the Social Security Board today of exceeding its powers.

By a voice vote, 150 delegates from all states at a conference here adopted a resolution which stated the Federal board "has frequently infringed upon the administrative authority of the States," in connection with making grants to states to carry out the jobless insurance program.

The resolution, first proposed by a group of New England delegates, asserted that "exclusive power of administration is vested in the various State agencies by virtue of legislative enactments of the sovereign states" and urged the states to "resist any continued infringements upon the administrative authority of the states for the reason that such infringements endanger the entire structure of Federal-State co-operation."

Delegates said the resolution, adopted at a closed session, resulted from a clash between State and Federal officials over State administration. They said the Social Security Board, which makes grants to operate the joint program, had refused to approve some State systems and had pressed for the merit system for state employes who administer the program.

The group adopted another resolution, asking Congress to take the Federal Employment Service away from the Labor Department and place it under the Social Security Board.

Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the board, in a speech before the convention, had urged a unification of the Federal job-finding and jobless payment programs.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The National Labor Relations Board today issued a trial examiner's intermediate report finding the Rockford Mitten & Hosiery Co., Rockford, Ill., had engaged in unfair labor practices.

The examiner recommended that the company "cease and desist from interfering with the employes in the exercise of their right of self-organization—and from discouraging membership in the American Federation of Hosiery Workers, through the textile workers organizing committee." The company was given 10 days to say in writing what steps it had taken to comply with the requirements of the report.

$500,000 DAMAGE SUIT BY MENZIES SHOE

Company Charges Collins-Morris Broke Agreement to Take Over Factory.

A suit for $500,000 damages filed in Circuit Court yesterday by the Menzies Shoe Co., 1724 Washington avenue, against the Collins-Morris Shoe Co., charges the defendant firm and its officers, William L. Collins and Edward W. Morris, with breaking an agreement to take over a Tennessee factory of the Menzies' Co., and with conspiring to eliminate the latter from the work shoe field. Also named as a defendant is Chapin S. Newhard, described as a member of the investment firm of Newhard, Cook & Co., "which assisted financially the defendant company in obtaining operating control of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co."

The suit stated that the Collins-Morris Shoe Co. agreed to lease, with option to purchase, a factory of the Menzies Co. at Cookeville, Tenn., and also agreed to produce work shoes for Menzies. Collins-Morris obtained from Menzies information on methods and costs in the manufacture of work shoes, and Edward W. Morris went to Cookeville last month and told the factory force of the proposed change in management, the petition added. Morris, the suit contends, promised the employes steady work and assured the superintendent he would be retained, at more salary.

Believing that the agreement would be carried through, the Menzies firm stopped making work shoes, although it "had orders for thousands of pairs from customers," the suit said. Collins-Morris then obtained modifications of the deal, but, subsequently refused to carry out the modified agreement, it is charged. A settlement for the alleged breach of agreement was reached, but Collins-Morris violated certain terms by recalling merchandise, which the Menzies firm was to receive in the settlement, the petition alleges.

The Menzies company also alleges Collins-Morris "undertook a campaign of disparagement against the plaintiff among the employes and residents of Cookeville." The campaign was successful to the extent that a resumption of operations at the plant has been seriously impeded, the petition added.

Collins and Morris are charged in the suit with secretly offering the president of the Menzies firm $30,000 to obtain from other stockholders an agreement to sell the Cookeville plant to Collins-Morris for $30,000, and then liquidate and go out of business. The offer was rejected, the petition declared. Sam D. Nichols is president of the Menzies Shoe Co. The damages sought are $250,000 actual and $250,000 punitive.

In 1932 the International Shoe Co. settled for $150,000 a $13,570,000 suit brought against it and certain of its officers by the Menzies Shoe Co. for an alleged conspiracy to destroy the competition of the Menzies Co. by impairing its credit.

TUBERCULOSIS DEATHS CUT 11 PCT. IN ST. LOUIS IN YEAR

Tuberculosis deaths in St. Louis decreased 11 per cent last year, continuing the downward trend which has prevailed since 1918, it was reported yesterday by Dr. J. H. Linson, chairman of the medical committee of the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis.

A total of 590 persons died of the disease in 1937, as compared to 667 in 1936. Of the 1937 total, 226 of the deaths were women and 364 men. Almost half of the deaths, or 43.5 per cent, were among Negroes.

Dr. Linson's report stated that tuberculosis deaths had been cut two-thirds since 1904, when the disease was listed as the first cause of death, with a rate of 246 per 100,000 population. The rate in 1937 was 68.8. Negro deaths in 1937 totaled 257, or 232 per 100,000 population.

MAN BET $4,000,000 ON RACES IN 1935-36

W. E. O'Hara, Providence, R. I., Seeks Tax Deduction, Alleging Losses.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. — Walter E. O'Hara, turfman of Providence, R. I., told the Board of Tax Appeals yesterday that he had wagered $2,234,916 on horse races at the Narragansett track in 1936 and $1,849,881 in 1935.

O'Hara said he had failed to recover all he had wagered, and that the Internal Revenue Bureau had erred in failing to allow him no income tax deductions on his losses. He said they amounted to $206,263 in 1936 and $166,849 in 1935.

O'Hara, former Providence newspaper publisher, resigned as managing director of the Narragansett Racing Association last spring after a long fight by Gov. Robert E. Quinn to oust him. Quinn called out the National Guard a year ago to prevent the track from opening for its fall meeting.

NOTRE DAME 7-0 VICTOR OVER FIERY CARNEGIE

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 22.—Notre Dame, off on another march for national championship honors, relegated Carnegie Tech to the ranks of the defeated teams today in the most bruising encounter the Irish have engaged in this season.

Notre Dame won, 7 to 0, but only after a savagely fought game that kept the crowd of 25,000 in an uproar of excitement. Third-string players accomplished what the regulars failed to do.

Outweighed and outmanned, the Scots waged a heroic battle for three furious periods to outplay Notre Dame. Then, after four minutes of play in the fourth, Notre Dame launched a touchdown drive that was set up in midfield when John Gettchel, the referee, gave the ball to Notre Dame. The decision wound up with the Carnegie players and even Coach William Kern swarming around him to dispute it vigorously.

Referee Reverses Ruling.

The fourth period opened with Tech making first down on its own 28 but failing then, Notre Dame taking the ball on downs on the Tech 46-yard line. Gettchel told the invaders' quarterback that it was third down then reversed himself. The protest of the Scots was of no avail.

Getchell conceded he had made a mistake in informing Quarterback Friedlander it was third down instead of fourth, but insisted Tech failed to make the needed distance on the play and since it was fourth down, the ball went to Notre Dame. The Scots had a yard to go on the final play when Ray Carnelly fumbled. Teammate Laposki recovered, but the point of recovery was still shy of first down requirements.

Milton Piepul, third-string fullback, was in the Notre Dame backfield at the time and set off a scoring charge with an 18-yard smash through center going to Tech's 18-yard line before he was brought to earth. Then Willie Kerr, a substitute end of Newburgh, N. Y., dashed in to take the hero's role.

Sheridan slashed through left guard to reach the Scot 10-yard line where he fumbled. The ball bounced forward and Kerr pounced upon it on the seven-yard stripe. On the next play Kerr, on an end around, received the ball and dashed over the Carnegie goal line. Morrison, another third-stringer, added the extra point with a perfect boot.

That was Notre Dame's one and only scoring chance. For the previous periods Carnegie repulsed Notre Dame's running attack with vicious tackles. Notre Dame relied on power and drive all the way and heaved only one forward pass. The tackling of the invaders was so vicious that they lost 30 yards because of their rough playing. They hit big Ed Simonich, Notre Dame fullback, so hard in the fourth period that he had to be lugged off the field.

The Boys Were Serious.

Carnegie Tech, chalking up six first downs to four for Notre Dame, was in scoring position twice. In the opening period, Reith, a Tech guard, pounced on the ball when Simonich fumbled on the Notre Dame 19. The invaders failed on three running plays and also on Condit's attempt to score on a pass to Striegel.

Carnegie missed a second scoring chance in the third when Simonich again fumbled on Notre Dame's 43. The ball rolled off his hands as he lay unconscious. Carnelly heaved a 14-yard pass to Condit, who was downed on Notre Dame's 24. The Techs' backs gained six yards on two smashes and then Carnelly went to the air only to have the Irish knock it down.

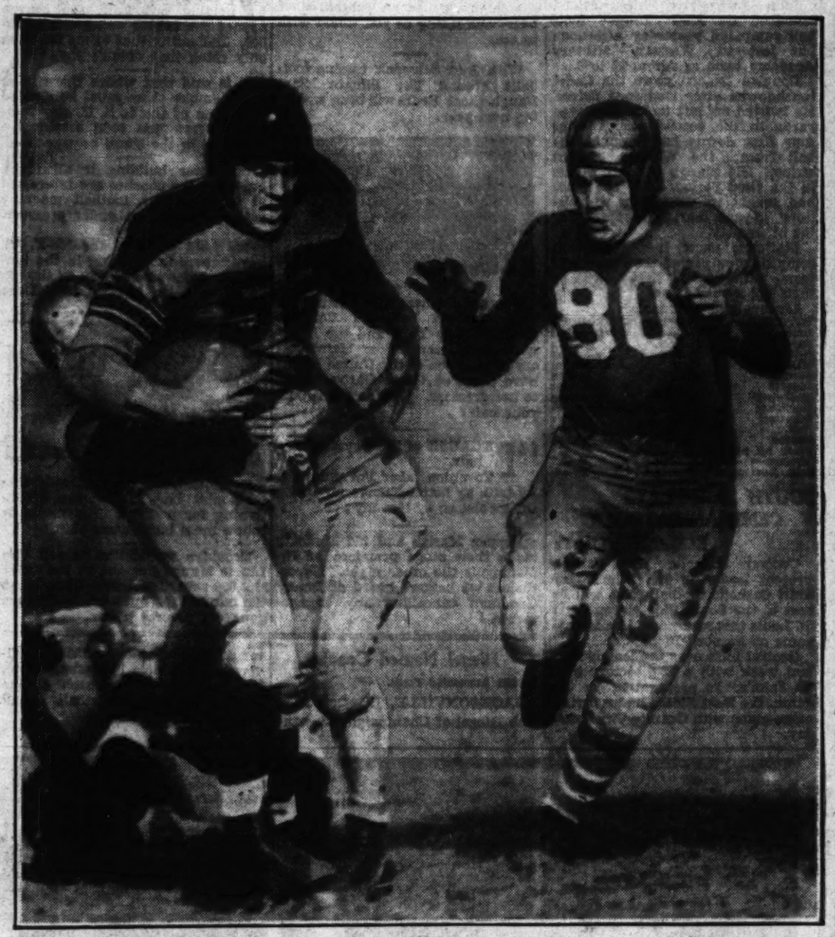
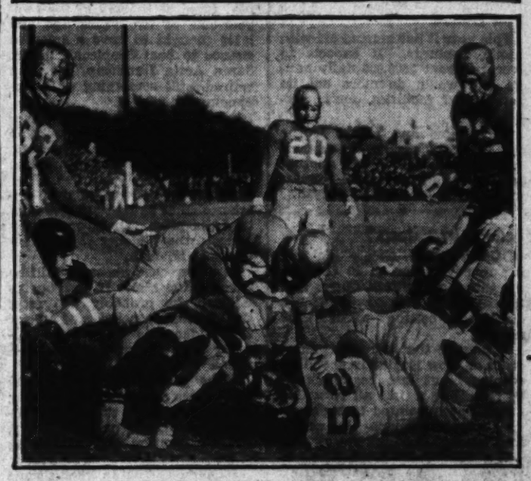
CHRISTMAN:

Missouri University's one-man football show is shown in three bits of action yesterday afternoon which the Washington Bears, beaten, 13-0, will long remember. To the left Christman is shown gaining through tackle, with Laux of the Bears the man about to tackle. Paul is off again in the picture on the upper right. Below he is shown in the foreground, headgear knocked off and lying on his side, but this was after he scored one of his and Missouri's two touchdowns.





SCORES BOTH TOUCHDOWNS ON LINE PLUNGES; BEARS STOPPED NEAR GOAL LINE

By J. Roy Stockton

Paul Christman, tow-headed son of Maplewood, who grew up big and strong after leaving the St. Louis district, was a slashing ball carrier at Francis Field yesterday afternoon. He cracked through the Washington University line almost at will and the Missouri Tigers, completely dominating their combat with Jimmy Conzelman's Bears during the first half, defeated Washington in their annual gridiron combat.

Don Faurot and his bewiskered men who vowed just before their battle with Ames that they would not mow a hair from their chins until they won a game, now can go back to Columbia all shaven and shorn.

Christman, driving through a bewildered Washington line that had been drilled for weeks to expect him to fill the air with passes, scored a touchdown in the first period, another in the second and with Les Pieper kicking one extra point, the two marches gave the Tigers their margin of victory, 13 to 0.

First Half All Missouri.

It was a great Tiger team that won the 37th game of the series with the Bears, a series that started back in 1890 and which now is one of the oldest college rivalries in the country. An attack that had bogged down in other games, especially within striking distance of the enemy goal, was a forceful thing as the Bears, seemingly outweighed and out-powered, strove vallantly but with great first-half futility, to stem the tide, on the crest of which always was a tow-headed threatening Christman.

It was well for the Tigers, however, that they gained that first-half lead, for there was a different story in the second half.

In the first half it was all Missouri. Not until mid-way in the second quarter did the Bears carry the ball past mid-field. In the opening 30 minutes there were ten Missouri first downs and only two for the Bears and one of these was the result of a forward pass, ruled complete because of interference, and the other a bold thrust through the Tiger line by Dick Yore.

In the third and fourth quarters, however, the Bears gamely carried the fight to their stout enemy, filled the air with passes and were threatening until the final pistol bark, when a desperate Washington pass was intercepted on the Missouri goal line by a gold-clad Tiger warrior.

Unable to gain more than inches through the line and more frequently thrown for a loss when they tried that method of advance, the Bears through necessity turned to an air attack during the second half and the final statistics showed that they had tried 45 passes and completed 16 of them.

Even those completed passes, however, were futile things, so stout was the Tiger defense. Missouri meticulously stayed between all potential receivers and the Tiger goal and even when a Bear was able to snatch a football from the air, he found himself in the middle of a crushing group of Tigers, who quickly took him to earth.

Christman, who stood out head and shoulders above all other gridiron warriors on the field, took a Washington kick late in the first quarter and ran it back 10 yards to the Washington 32-yard line. Previously the Bears had stopped two threatening Tiger marches ,one on their nine-yard line when Nick Klisurich intercepted a pass and once by stopping line thrusts seven yards from disaster.

Michigan Trails, 13-2, Then Beats Yale, 15-13

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 22.—Michigan's highly touted Wolverines, swamped by a flood of passes that had them half drowned and beaten by 11 points in the first half, bounced off the grassy floor of the Yale Bowl before 45,000 excited spectators today with a superb comeback that beat Yale's surprising football team, 15 to 13.

A one-to-three favorite on the strength of their one-point defeat a week ago by Mighty Minnesota, the maize and blue clad warriors of Coach Fritz Crisler pulled themselves together after that disastrous first half, stole Yale's aerial thunder and punched over touchdowns in the third and final periods to turn what looked like a certain upset into a great victory march.

The picture for the Wolverines, in the midst of a pigskin renaissance since Crisler succeeded Harry Kipke last winter, was as gloomy as the afternoon was bright as they trudged off the field at half time. The Elis, led by Bud Humphrey of Cleveland, Clint Frank's understudy, had them 13 to 2 and were making fools out of them. Sparked by Humphrey's marvelous tosses, Yale had scored

CRAY'S COLUMN

Much Ado About Nothing.

WAR ADMIRAL and Seabiscuit are to meet in that overplayed match race at Pimlico, next week and isn't it about time! For a year and a half this meeting has been talked up by racing promoters eager for an extra attraction. Once it was actually arranged, but it never took place. A bad track—or cold feet—prevented.

That was last spring and some of the smarties think there is still doubt about the November engagement coming off as scheduled.

Although there is a $5000 appearance forfeit posted for both contenders, what's a paltry five grand compared to the value of either thoroughbred? Neither owner would send his pride and joy to the post in dangerous footing, in all reasonable probability. They would forfeit $5000 rather than risk $250,000—which is the price tag on War Admiral at any rate.

• • •

Seabiscuit Often Beaten.

IN ANY CASE, there's been an amazing amount of fuss and fidget made over the meeting of two horses in a test that, after all, may not be convincing.

There isn't any particular need of this race because it may prove little or nothing when run. Both horses are good, but both have been beaten. War Admiral's record is a little more impressive; but beating Seabiscuit would be no novelty, even in the peak form he has shown during the last two years.

HUSKERS' BIG SIX HOPES ENDED BY OKLAHOMA

By the Associated Press.

NORMAN, Ok., Oct. 22.—Big Six title hopes of the Nebraska Cornhuskers virtually vanished into the haze over Owen Field here today, wafted away by a 14 to 0 defeat at the hands of an Oklahoma football team that met power with more power, speed with more speed and trickery with indifference.

A record crowd of 29,000 packed the stands, a variety of other records were broken or perpetuated.

Not in five years had Oklahoma scored on Nebraska and not since

DARTMOUTH IS 13 TO 7 VICTOR OVER HARVARD

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 22.—Dartmouth's powerful and speedy football Indians clicked off their twentieth game without a loss since 1936 by cashing two of their three scoring chances against a hard-fighting Harvard team for a 13-7 decision this afternoon before a crowd of 55,000.

After being held in check during most of the first half, the Indians returned to the conflict and marched the kick-off 85 yards, the brilliant Colby Howe plunging from the two-yard line.

When they tried to rush from the 20-yard line the Crimson backfield made its only bobble of the game. The vigilant Charlie Millere dove as Frank Foley and Joe Gardella missed connections on a spinner. Joe Cottone reversed for 17 yards to Harvard's three-yard line where the Indians' attack bogged three plays before their outstanding All-America candidate, Captain Bob MacLeod, crashed over for the deciding points.

Harvard's tally followed closely, for Frank Foley ran back Bill Hutchinson's kick-off 15 yards and alternated with Fullback Ben Smith in rushes to the 35-yard line. There Foley completed three long passes to Smith, Captain Bobby Green and Torbie MacDonald to wipe out 62 yards and put the Crimson knocking at the Indians' door from their three-yard line. Smith tried two plunges before he scored from that short distance.

Pass Sets Up Score and Team Gets Into Lather over Prospect of Shaves

This time, however, Christman was not to be stopped. Varying the attack, which was mainly by land, Paul of Maplewood threw a pass to Starmer which took the ball to the Bears' nine-yard mark. Clarence Hydron, another stalwart, hit off tackle for five yards and an off-side penalty against the Bears put the ball a yard from home, whereupon Christman cracked through standing up for the first touchdown. Starmer's try for the extra point was low, but the Tigers were safely on their way to their longed-for shaves.

The quarter ended with no further scoring, but early in the second period, Dick Yore threw an aimless pass too high into the air and Lowell Pickett intercepted it on the Bear 44-yard line. With Christman doing most of the work the Tigers then drove methodically and surely to another touchdown.

Makes It Look Easy.

It was a great exhibition of deft handling of the ball. Christman, using an unorthdox quarterback stance, which resembled that of a baseball batter at the plate rather than a man taking a football from a center, would feint a pass to a comrade and then cut into and through the Washington line. During that 44-yard drive starting after the intercepted pass, Christman made 39 of the yards and made it all seem ridiculously easy.

After he had made the final three-yard thrust that took the ball over, Pieper kicked the extra point and the Tigers were ahead 13 to 0, the final score.

Conzelman recently said that this was the best Missouri team in a decade or so, and Don Faurot's machine certainly performed up to that estimate. The line quickly made the Bears realize that they couldn't gain that way, and the ease with which the Tigers prevented any of the many completed Bear passes from being costly was a tribute to the team's excellent training and the individuals' ability to diagnose hostile strategy.

The Bears, who beat the Drake Bulldogs with passes and fired footballs through the air with the greatest of ease against Simpson, found the going rough on land or by air and many an intended aerial thrust was broken up before the passer could get the ball off his fingers.

Bear Luck Bad.

At that the Bear luck was bad, if it is bad luck to have passes miss completion by the fraction of an inch, and there were many tosses that flipped off Washington fingers when touchdown points were beckoning.

Conzelman can be proud of the way his line performed, and proud of the pluck his team showed in the face of a superior machine. As the game progressed the Bears showed their fine conditioning and with only minutes to play Faurot felt it necessary to rush back into action Christman, a fine defensive man as well as a scoring threat, and several other first-string warriors.

Washington's first scoring opportunity came in the third quarter when Jim Starmer fumbled and Klisurich recovered for the Bears on the Missouri 25-yard line. That was the first time the Bears had been that close to the enemy line. Yore hit the line for a rugged three yards and then passed to Harvey on the Missouri 13-yard line. Yore took it to the 10 and finally a pass was caught by Bill Seibert on the six-yard line, but that was fourth down, without the necessary yardage and the Tigers took over the ball.

Losing Battle.

And so it was whenever the Bears threatened. There was al-

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 22.—Northwestern's Wildcats bared their claws for two bruising touchdown drives today and defeated Illinois, 13 to 0, in Memorial Stadium before 37,000 spectators.

In handing the Illini their first Western Conference setback, Northwestern fought its way to touchdowns in the first and final periods. Jack Ryan scored to end a 50-yard march in the opening quarter and in the final period Sophomore Ollie Hahnenstein climaxed a brilliant afternoon by adding another six points to the Northwestern total.

Illinois, meanwhile, was almost too hard pressed fighting off the Wildcats to engage in an attack of its own. Northwestern made 16 first downs to three for Illinois and gained 169 yards by rushing as Illini backs were held to a scant 38.

Northwestern's first touchdown drive began on the 50-yard stripe. The Wildcats quickly completed their only pass of the game in three aerial attempts to reach the Illinois 35-yard line, the pass being Bernie Jefferson to Bob Daly. Ryan, Jefferson and Laskay smashed to the Illini three, from where Ryan ripped over through right guard. Laskay's try for point was good.

In the final period, Dick Richards' interception of an Illinois pass at his own 33-yard stripe started another Wildcat surge. With short smashes, aided by a 15-yard penalty, Northwestern drove to the Illinois 35. Hahnenstein then sliced off right tackle, shook off several Illini, and ran 29 yards to the Illini six.

On the fourth line smash, Hahnenstein went over from two yards out. Laskay's try for point was low.

Illinois had scoring chances but Northwestern's veteran line nullified them. The Illini drove to the nine-yard line on passes in the third period. In the closing minutes Illinois deperately tried passes from deep in its own territory. One was intercepted and Northwestern was "knocking at the door" as the game ended, the final gun sounding just after a Wildcat field goal try dropped short.

The triumph gave Northwestern one victory and a tie in two conference starts.

Ohio State Rolls Over Chicago, 42-7

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 22. — Chicago's Maroons outgained Ohio State's husky team, 401 yards to 381, today, but lost a Western Conference contest to the Bucks, 42 to 7, as Jim Langhurst, 187-pound sophomore fullback, put on a one-man show.

A crowd of 63,069, which boosted the Buckeye attendance for four games to 231,044, saw Langhurst score the first three touchdowns for Ohio, two in the first five minutes and one early in the second period, before he went out of the contest until the closing minutes.

Thirty-four of Ohio's points were registered by sophomores, Don Scott and Jim Strausbaugh adding touchdowns to the yearling total, along with two points each after touchdown.

O'Brien Passes T. C. U. to Victory Over Marquette

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 22. — Texas Christian, led by Davey O'Brien great little quarterback who tossed passes all over the field, smothered Marquette's football team here today, 21 to 0, before 14,000 fans.

Marquette was all but helpless as it tried to stop O'Brien's accurate tosses in the opening period. The T. C. U. quarterback threw seven straight completed tosses which figured in two touchdowns before he retired to the sidelines at the end of the quarter.

After the opening period thrust, T. C. U. reserves took over and kept Marquette in check until the final quarter, when O'Brien and his mates came back for another marker.

Aneroid, Esposa and Jacola defeated him at distances varying from a mile to one and one-fourth miles. Heelfly held him to a dead heat.

• • •

Seabiscuit may be the "iron horse" of the day and possibly turn out to be the leading money-winning horse of all time—he's pretty close now. But beating him is an honor that has to be shared with too many horses to enhance greatly the reputation of War Admiral, should he win.

• • •

Worse Than Patti.

ADELINA PATTI in her most temperamental moments had nothing on the rival owners of these two horses and on some of those connected with the race.

Not only are both Sam Riddle and C. S. Howard so undependable in this matter that Alfred G. Vanderbilt of Pimlico had to ask that a forfeit be posted to insure appearance of the rivals, but the determination of what is a "suitable track" will not be left to either or both owners.

On the contrary a neutral observer and specialist will, on the day the race is scheduled, examine the Pimlico track's condition and pronounce whether it is good enough for a real test.

Of course what a track examined at 8:30 a. m. may turn out to be by 4 p. m., in event of rain, is something that not even the neutral track judge can foretell.

The supposition is, however, that if the track is pronounced O K early in the day, the race will take place no matter what comes later.

• • •

The Starter Balks.

THEN THERE'S THE little matter of the starter. James Milton, regular dispatcher at Pimlico, withdrew from the task of handling the match race the moment its announcement was made.

Milton declared he would not handle the horses because of previous differences between himself and Riddle, owner of War Admiral.

Instead, a neutral starter acceptable to both owners has been chosen. The two stars will be sent on their way by George Cassidy.

• • •

And when it's all over, should Seabiscuit win, his grand total of earnings would be right close to $350,000, making him the second all-time high horse to Sun Beau, which won a few hundreds more than $376,000.

The real value of victory for either owner would lie in its effect as a build-up for the horse's prestige as a sire. Both probably will be retired within a year.

• • •

A Practical Alchemist.

A REAL ALCHEMIST of modern times is Eddie O'Hare, horse and dog racing promoter of St. Louis. Everything O'Hare touches seems trasmuted into gold, insofar as his sports investments go.

"See me the afternoon of Nov. 1 and I'll tell you."

He cleaned up on the old Madison Kennel Club dog track, before it finally was closed up under the law.

He cleaned up — and is still cleaning up at the Miami Beach dog track which he and the late Phil Ball acquired from Tex Rickard's estate.

He went into Massachusetts and hand-picked himself another bonanza in the dog track at Taunton.

"What are you going to do with that merry-go-round, with tracks like Lincoln Fields, Washington Park, Arlington and other fine plants competing?" was the question derisively tossed at him.

It was expected that the racing commission would put him out of business by giving him the worst of the dates.

But Eddie went on and built his track. He got the worst—and the fewest dates. But still it turned out to be Gold Mine No. 4 for O'Hare.

This year it has started off with another splurge. It expects to average about $200,000 daily handle and would do more but its pari-mutuel facilities don't permit.

Late dates and all, it is the best track in Chicago, the amount invested considered. It's another tribute to the executive genius shown by this busy St. Louisan.

• • •

Feeling the Effects?

ROCKINGHAM, once a big racing money-maker, is in the red ink this year. Suffolk Downs and Narragansett both have suffered diminished betting totals thus far.

It may be that the tremendous drain on New England's spending surplus is at last beginning to be felt. For a time all New England tracks pointed to big profits except perhaps Agawam's first year.

But take away from 12 to 15 per cent of the public's betting bankroll year after year and you can't expect it to last. Soon or late the roll will be gone or the bettors will quit wagering.

• • •

Daily Double Out.

COL. MATT WINN of Churchill Downs and Latonia will move to drop the "Daily Double" pari-mutuel betting feature and substitute the "Patron's Handicap" as an attraction.

Reason? The handicap draws the public to the track but doesn't interfere with the mutuels. It helps the mutuel play, in fact.

The daily double weakens the normal play on the second and third races considerably. On charity days in Kentucky, the daily double was not in action. Play was on the separate pools, on the second and third races.

The Colonel noted that the volume of business on these races was far heavier than the betting on the two races and daily double combined, on ordinary days.

As the Colonel's object is to swell the mutuels, the Charity day plan will hereafter be applied to regular racing days.

• • •

Couldn't Quite Make It.

POMPOON, flying son of Pompey, rated at the top of the two-year-olds of two years ago and later thought to have a splendid chance to beat Seabiscuit in the Santa Anita Handicap, has been retired, still something of a disappointment.

Annually this speedster gives promise, and almost annually he fails to rise to the peak expected, although he has won some fine stakes.

Evidently, he is to be given another chance at that $100,000 Santa Anita prize. Or he may have a try at the Widener $50,000 handicap at Hialeah.

In either case his work will be cut out for him. If he goes to Hialeah, he probably will meet the stiffest competition of all, for the Widener is considered already wrapped up for War Admiral.

If he goes to Santa Anita he will oppose Seabiscuit, Stagehand, Rosemont and all the better handicap performers of the country, not to mention any promising three-year-olds.

PITT SWAMPS S. M. U., 34-7

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 22. — Pitt's football juggernaut, unbeaten in 21 gamesswept over Southern Methodist, 34 to 7, this afternoon before 37,500 spectators.

The Mustangs trotted out a Southwest aerial attack for its first showing in this section and the Panthers, true to Coach Jock Sutherland's promise earlier in the week, struck back with the same weapon.

Yet through the links of the chain used to shackle the visitors. Pitt threatened its unparalleled power with such skill the Methodists never had a chance.

The first of their five touchdowns came on a 30-yard pass from Harold (Curly) Stebbins to John Chickerneo in less than six minutes of the first period and the others were scattered through each of the succeeding chapters.

The Mustangs, wild as their prairie namesakes, fought every minute, including the last, but collected on their gallantry only once.

The Panthers gained 246 yards net in 66 scrimmage plays and completed nine of their 16 passes for 120 yards while the Mustangs gained only 93 yards from scrimmage and 159 from passes, of which they tried 22 and completed seven.

Pitt led in first downs, 17 to 11.

ways a Tiger in the way, or rather a field full of Tigers, and always after the early Christman thrusts, the Bears were fighting a losing battle.

It was an excellent day for an excellent game of football, thrilling all the way, even if the Bears were always the underdog and the crowd of approximately 10,000 stayed to the last minute.

Gov. Stark witnessed the game, sitting on the Tiger side of the field during the first half and moving over to the Washington stand after the intermission.

two touchdowns, both on passes from Humphrey to Bill Moody. All Michigan had salvaged was a safety, scored when Don Siegel blocked a Yale punt which rolled into the end zone.

The tide of football fortune swung suddenly to Michigan midway in the third period. Tom Harmon, brilliant young sophomore, began finding his mark with passes and Norman Purucker and Ed Phillips started catching them. Starting from their 42, the Wolverines marched to the one, where Purucker hurdled over for a touchdown.

In the fourth, the Wolverines marched 81 yards, by land and air. As the clock showed five minutes to play, Harmon's fifth pass of the drive nestled in the arms of John Nicholson, end, for the final nine yards and the winning touchdown.

So completely did Michigan steal Yale's aerial attack that the Wolverines, held to 61 yards as against 128 for Yale via the air in the first half, came back to gain 108 yards against 17 for the Elis in the second half. Michigan completed eight of 21 passes; Yale 12 of 27.

Other statistics favored Michigan, which made 14 first downs to 11 and 129 yards from rushing to 69 for the Bulldogs. And virtually all the Michigan gaining was done in the final two periods.

FORDHAM ROUTS OREGON, 26-0

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. — Fordham's mighty football team, starting off with a sensational 80-yard touchdown run by Pete (Rabbit) Holovak in the first quarter, showed a nice mixture of passes and power to score three more times in the final period and rout the Oregon Webfoots, 26-0, today before a crowd of 26,866 at the Polo Grounds.

OKLAHOMA SPRINTER JOINS ST. LOUIS CLUB

Pop Keith, former University of Oklahoma sprinter, who finished second in the Big Six Conference 100-yard dash event in 1932, has joined the St. Louis Relays Association, it was learned last night. He now resides here.

BOILERMAKERS RALLY TO GAIN 13-7 TRIUMPH

Byeline's 73-Yard Touchdown Run Wins Game—His Touchdown Pass to Krause Ties Score Earlier.

By the Associated Press.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 22. — Wisconsin's Badgers looked like winners over Purdue this sunshiny afternoon until a young man from Massillon, O., named Mike Byelene, got into the football game in the second half. Thereafter, with the Massillon Marauder at large, it was a different story, and the Boilermakers emerged on top, 13 to 7.

A homecoming crowd of 21,000 saw Purdue win its first Big Ten conference game of the current campaign.

The Badgers couldn't stop the sophomore Byelene. He passed and he ran and two Purdue touchdowns were the result. Without Byelene the Boilermakers were just another football team. With him they looked like two other teams.

Wisconsin capitalized in the first period on a fumble by Lou Brock and Howie Weiss swept wide around end for a touchdown that kept the Badgers in front until the aforesaid Mr. Byelene entered the fray.

Purdue's first tally came in the third period on a pass from Byelene to Jack Krause after a 59-yard march. In the fourth period Byelene shot off tackle and raced 73 yards for the winning marker.

The Badgers threatened as the first half ended, marching from their 46 to Purdue's 12-yard line. With only seconds to play, a flurry of passes went awry and so did the Wisconsin chances.

Soldan joined the idle Beaumont Blue Jackets at the top of the City High School League football race by defeating McKinley's Goldbugs, 13 to 12, yesterday afternoon at the Public Schools Stadium.

It was Soldan's second victory against no defeats and gave the West Enders the same record as Beaumont.

Tom (Guy) Lombardo scored the all-important point on a line plunge late in the third period when Soldan was overcoming a 12-point handicap.

McKinley scored in the second period when Paracek intercepted Lombardo's pass and ran to the Soldan five-yard line. McKinley was penalized 15 yards for clipping but two runs by Leo Milla put the ball on the seven-yard line, and a lateral from Stehlik to Martin produced the Goldbugs' score. Martin fumbled the pass from center and Stehlik had no chance to kick the extra point.

A Soldan fumble in the third quarter paved the way for McKinley's second touchdown. Lombardo fumbled, Hodges recovering on the West Enders' 20-yard line. A double lateral, Milla to Jim Glore to Pete Christy, with Christy going over the goal line, put McKinley's total at 12. Stehlik's kick for the extra point was low.

Soldan took advantage of a McKinley fumble to start its drive. Rombom recovered Stehlik's muff on the Goldbugs' 35-yard line. James and Lombardo co-operated in moving the ball up 20 yards, from where James completed the journey around the left side of McKinley's line. Lombardo plunged over with the point that was to prove the deciding one.

Soldan, encouraged by its third period score, started a drive in the final session with Lombardo and James doing most of the running. A 25-yard pass from Lombardo to James put the ball in scoring position and Lombardo went over for a touchdown after McKinley had stopped him three times on the one-yard line. Lombardo's plunge for the extra point failed but it made no difference in the final outcome.

Roosevelt, held to a tie by McKinley in its opening game, scored its first league victory with its decision over Central. The Rough Riders scored twice in the second period and once in the final quarter.

Straight line plays carried the Rough Riders down the field with Osterholt going over for the first score and Brown kicking the extra point.

Midway in the quarter, Shurnas of Central blocked Glover's kick, Heitert recovering and running 20 yards for the Red and Black eleven's only score.

A pass from Brown to Glover produced Roosevelt's second touchdown, while another from Brown to Moore in the fourth period was good for the final six points.

Wulfemeyer did a lot of throwing for Central and electrified the crowd with one—a 55-yard pass to Kloss who was downed on Roosevelt's eight-yard line as the half ended.

COLGATE PASSES NET TWO SCORES AGAINST IOWA

OKLAHOMA ENDS BIG SIX HOPES OF NEBRASKA

1930 had the Sooners defeated the giants of the north. It was the eighth straight Sooner victory, the best record in 20 years, and it marked the fourteenth year Oklahoma has not lost a home opener.

Major Lawrence "Biff" Jones, bringing a team on Owen Field for the first time since he left the Sooner coaching helm two years ago, saw his sophomoric Nebraska squad thoroughly outplayed.

Seven minutes after the opening kickoff Oklahoma had a touchdown. Howard McCarty had returned a Nebraska punt from midfield to the Nebraska 39-yard line to start the parade. A short behind-the-line pass from Hugh McCullough to Bill Jennings, good for 18 yards, was the biggest individual factor. McCullough went over the goal from the two and Raphael Boudreau place-picked the point.

With the wind at their backs in the second period the Nebraskans made their one big splurge. A mixture of running plays and passes, with a 16-yard gallop by Harry Hopp the major item, carried the Huskers to the one, but they couldn't have pushed it across with a tractor.

The Sooners, after coasting along in an uneventful third period, warmed to their work in the last quarter. A 21-yard punt returned by McCarty to the Nebraska 35, and some dazzling gallops by him and Jennings carried the ball to the four, from where McCullough drove through. Again Boudreau's place-kick was good.

It was Nebraska's second conference defeat.

The only blot on an otherwise perfect day for Oklahoma was an injury to Gilford Duggan, regular tackle. Duggan suffered a fractured jaw.

NEBRASKA	Pos.	OKLAHOMA

IOWA STATE BEATS KANSAS FOR THIRD BIG SIX TRIUMPH

By the Associated Press.

AMES, Ia., Oct. 22.—Iowa State's high-stepping Cyclones made it three straight victories in the Big Six conference race here today by defeating a stubborn University of Kansas football team, 21 to 7, before a homecoming crowd of 18,000.

The Cyclones piled up a 21-point lead in the first half, then coasted. Kansas racked up 15 first downs to 13 for the undefeated Cyclones. Iowa State's edge in yards gained by rushing was meager, 191 to 182. Rain fell during the second half.

CALIFORNIA AND TROJANS TIED FOR COAST LEAD

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—University of Southern California knocked Stanford into the defeat column today to leave the Trojans and University of California's Golden Bears tied for the Pacific Coast football conference leadership.

Thirty thousand fans, biggest crowd of the day on the coast, saw the Trojans overcome a 2 to 0 Stanford lead and smash out a 13 to 2 victory.

It was the first conference defeat for Stanford.

At Seattle, the University of California marked up a 14 to 7 decision over University of Washington. Oregon State snatched a 7 to 6 victory over Washington State at Portland, Ore., in the only other conference game.

At Los Angeles, University of California at Los Angeles bowled over Idaho, 33 to 0.

An intersectional clash shared interest with the conference encounters. At San Francisco, the unbeaten and untied Santa Clara Bronchos scored a 21 to 6 triumph over Arkansas.

In the fourth period with eight minutes to go, Sam Goldberg blocked a punt on the Madison 30-yard line. Harry Durham picked up the ball and ran for the second touchdown.

KANSAS STATE HANDS INDIANA 13 TO 6 DEFEAT

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 22.—Kansas State's powerful Big Six football machine, sparked by the brilliant passing of Melvin Seelye and the long-range punting of Bob Briggs, rode triumphantly over Indiana's Big Ten outfit, 13 to 6, here this afternoon before a homecoming crowd of 20,000.

It was a homecoming in reverse for Alvin "Bo" McMillin, Indiana's head coach. McMillin coached at Kansas State before taking over the Hoosier cause.

Seelye, 170-pound substitute quarterback, drew first flood in the second quarter when he fired a bullet-like pass into the end zone to Don Muncer, substitute end, for a touchdown. Jim Brock then place-kicked the extra point.

The sensational kicking of Briggs paved the way for Kansas State's second touchdown in the third quarter. Tim Bringle, sub Indiana halfback, tried to punt out of danger from his goal line, but the ball went almost straight up and came down on the Hoosier five-yard line. Jack Blanke, Kansas State quarterback, sped around right end into pay dirt. Brock failed to convert.

The Hoosiers rallied in the fourth quarter. Vincent Oliver, Indiana fullback, tore off 38 yards and landed on Kansas State's 15-yard line. Paul Graham caught a short pass and sped the remaining distance to score Indiana's first touchdown of the season. The place-kick try failed.

Kansas State made a total of 357 yards from scrimmage, interceptions and kick returns compared with Indiana's 325. The Hoosiers completed nine passes and Kansas State three.

CLAYTON HIGH TRIMS KIRKWOOD, 15-0 AND REMAINS UNDEFEATED

Coach George Stuber's Clayton High School football team remained undefeated in four starts by defeating Kirkwood, 15 to 0, yesterday afternoon at Kirkwood. The Orange and Blue team has had its goal line crossed only once this season and the only blot on its record in a scoreless tie with Principia.

Big Ed Gleitman, captain and fullback for Clayton, ran wide around the ends and tore through the center of the Kirkwood line in scoring both touchdowns, although playing in only part of each half.

The first score of the contest came early in the first quarter when Will Rosvall blocked a Kirkwood kick on Kirkwood's five-yard line, knocking it over the goal line where Kirkwood recovered for a safety.

Later in the same quarter Ed Donk and Gleitman carried the ball to the Kirkwood two-yard line where Gleitman hit the left side of the line for a touchdown. Stan Koenig drop-kicked the extra point.

Kirkwood's only scoring threat came in the third quarter when they registered both of their two first downs, the second one being a 16-yard pass from Faser to Nixon, which put the ball on Clayton's 24-yard line. Here Kirkwood lost the ball on an intercepted pass.

PRINCETON AND NAVY BATTLE TO 13-13 TIE

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22.—Princeton and Navy put on a great offensive show before 40,000 fans at the Municipal Stadium here today, the final count 13 to 13 after the Tigers had come from behind with two spectacular scoring drives in the second half.

Princeton's valorous lads scooted 55 yards to tie the score at 6-6 in the third quarter, and then after the Middies had pounded 55 yards for another score early in the final period, came back with a 69-yard aerial advance to make it a stand-off.

But for the worst sort of a break that enabled the Midshipmen to score their second touchdown, Princeton might have won. The Navy team had been piled up on the Tigers' five-yard line for three downs, and on the fourth they flipped a pass out into the flat zone. The pass had no chance of completion, but Dick Bokum of the Princeton defense was too anxious to break up the play. He smeared the intended receiver, the referee rlued interference, and Navy had a first down on the five-yard stripe. Clift Lenz spilled across the goal line on the second try.

In the opening period Emmett Wood ripped through the Princeton line and raced 63 yards before he was hauled down four yards from the goal. Then he quickly took the ball on over. He placekicked the extra point after his team's second touchdown in the last period.

COUNTRY DAY WINS ON EXTRA POINT FROM PRINCIPIA ACADEMY

Country Day nosed out Principia Academy, 7 to 6, by putting across a touchdown and the extra point which was the margin of victory in the last four minutes of play, yesterday afternoon in the ABC League game at Taylor Field.

In the third quarter Principia intercepted a pass in midfield and advanced the ball to Country Day's 20-yard line on successive line plays.

Howard Godwin faded back attempting to pass, but, finding all his receivers blocked, he dodged through Country Day players and cut across the field 25 yards over the goal line. Jack Hellyer's kick for the extra point was wide.

Late in the fourth quarter, Principia's defense weakened and Carl Lawton of Country Day skirted around end from the 15-yard line to tie the score. Lawton also carried the ball over for the extra point which was the decisive marker in winning the game.

Fox Hunters to Meet

Fox hunting enthusiasts from Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Texas are expected at Bentonville, Ark., for the forty-fifth annual meet of the Northwest Arkansas Fox Hunters' Association, beginning tomorrow and ending Thursday.

The organization, the oldest west of the Mississippi River, has more than 300 members from 35 states.

Henry Cavness of Bentonville, president for the past 18 years, will preside at the meet, which will feature three field trials.

Each trial, or cast, will begin at daybreak and hounds entered will be judged on their trailing abilities. Each trial will be a wide-open event, with the entries required to trace the wild Reynard from its habitat.

F. S. (Frenchie) DeLauis, member of the board of directors, announced that no fox would be turned loose for the trials, but that in each cast the hounds would scent the trails and scare wild foxes into the chase.

All dogs will be numbered, and judges will be posted throughout the territory to observe the hounds in action. At the end of each daily contest, the low dogs will be eliminated, and on Thursday, the final day, the champion fox-trailer in Northwest Arkansas will be named.

More than 300 dogs are expected to compete.

BIG HURRY, AN E. R. BRADLEY FILLY, WINS SELIMA STAKES

DINNER DATE IS THIRD IN $25,890 EVENT

Daughter of Black Toney Overtakes Inscoelda and Dinner Date in Stretch of Mile Race.

By the Associated Press.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 22.—Big Hurry, an aptly-named daughter of Black Toney, carried the white and green of E. R. Bradley to victory in the thirteenth running of the $10,000 Selima Stakes, Maryland's famous mile test for juvenile fillies. Answering the demands of Jockey F. A. Smith, the filly finished three parts of a length in front of the Woolford Farm's Inscoelda with the Milky Way Farm's highly-touted Dinner Date third.

Big Hurry, winner of two of her eight previous starts and going a distance for the first time, paid $14.20 mutuel and raised the hopes of Owner Bradley that he may have a future Derby candidate to match the achievement of Regret, the only filly to win the Kentucky classic.

Running over a good track and before a crowd of 15,000, Big Hurry was clocked in 1:41, the second slowest time for the event. The race was worth $25,890, topped only by the $26,070 that went to Tambour in 1930.

The field was away in good order with Big Hurry flashing in front only to drop back as Dinner Date gained command at the first turn. Dinner Date shook off several challenges but was still clinging to a lead as Big Hurry and Inscoelda came up to her entering the stretch.

With Jockey Robertson whipping, Dinner Date held on to mid-stretch but then began to fade before Big Hurry. The latter opened a lead inside the eighth pole but had to be kept to pressure as Inscoelda rushed up nearing the wire.

Edward Friendly's Jacola, winner over Seabiscuit here last Saturday in track record time, scored an easy victory in the $7500 added Maryland Handicap. Meeting seven other three-year-olds, the Jacopo filly was running easily at the end of the mile and a quarter while holding a two-and-a-half length margin over Ral Parr's Hypocrite. Two lengths farther back came W. L. Brann's Aethelwold to be third.

With Jockey Maurice Peters in the saddle, Jacola ran close to Nedayr's pace while under a strong grip. Nearing the stretch, Peters sent Jacola up on the outside of the pacemaker while Hypocrite, running in much improved fashion, came through on the rail.

The filly went to the front, opened a gap and was not being hurried at the end. Her time over the good track was 2:04 1-5, ordinary for the race and far off the track mark of 2:02 held by Hourless.

An odds-on favorite from the start of the betting, Jacola paid $3.10 and added $6450 to her earnings.

Bull Lea Wins Autumn Stake

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 22.—Bull Lea, one of the season's outstanding three-year-olds scored his second New England victory of the year today when he won the $5000 added Autumn Handicap, Narragansett Park feature race, in easy fashion.

Running a mile and one-sixteenth in 1:44, within three-fifths of a second of the track record, the Calumet Farms entry led Felix Spatola's Wise Prince by five lengths at the finish. Half a length further back came A. Sprow's Bow and Arrow.

The largest daily double price in New England horse racing history resulted from the victory of Squabble in today's first race and Raceaway in the second. Squabble was $176.50 to $1. The double paid $3591.30 and there were only five tickets sold on these two.

McKendree Hands Principia College Fourth Defeat

The McKendree College football team displayed a good forward passing attack to defeat Principia College, 33 to 6, in a game at Hobbs Field, Lebanon, Ill., yesterday afternoon. It was Homecoming day for McKendree.

The loss was the fourth straight for Principia which has not won so far this season.

Coach Herb Gould's players scored in the first three periods while Principia counted its lone tally in the final quarter.

In the first quarter Kelley Simmons passed twice to Stilwell and then scored from the two-yard marker on a line plunge. Stillwell hit the line for the extra point. Simmons scored again on a line play in the second quarter and Isselhardt's place kick added another point. Later in the period Isselhardt threw a pass to Edwards who crossed the Principia line for the third touchdown. Doerener's drop kick was low.

Simmons passed to Edwards and then to Martin who carried the ball to the Principia three-yard line early in the third quarter. Edwards went through tackle for a touchdown on the next play. Doerner's place-kick was good. Later Isselhardt passed to Stilwell, who raced 48 yards for McKendree's final touchdown. Handlon's plunge for the extra point was short of the goal line.

Two passes by Jim McConnochie to Laret and Palmer gave Principia the ball on McKendree's four-yard line in the fourth quarter, McConnochie then circled end for a touchdown. Laret's place-kick was wide.

The McKendree squad will depart tomorrow for San Antonio, Tex., to oppose St. Mary's University there next Thursday night. Principia journeys to Boonville next Saturday to meet Kemper Military School.

ST. LOUIS AND CHICAGO MEET IN PRO FOOTBALL AND SOCCER

RENTNER TO BE IN GAME OF TWO GUNNER TEAMS

PROBABLE LINEUPS

ST. LOUIS.	Pos.	CHICAGO.
Bidlam	L.E.	Zitko
Sandberg	L.T.	Skorenski
Bertagnill	L.G.	Donohoe
Riley	C.	Mundee
Flowers	R.G.	Schreiber
Cole	R.T.	Burnett
Dobbs	R.E.	Vairo
Sebastian	Q.B.	Lind
East	H.B.	Rentner
Kane	H.B.	Duvall
Lehnert	F.B.	Mazziotti

The improved St. Louis Gunners will meet the strong Chicago Gunner eleven in a non-league professional football game contest this afternoon at Walsh Memorial Stadium. Kickhoff will be at 2:30.

The visitors come here with the same pile-driving football machine that ran rampant Wednesday night in defeating a Michigan professional team, 66-8. In that slaughter, "Pug" Rentner, all-America halfback when he was at Northwestern University, scored three touchdowns, then retired in favor of "Red" Gleason, former Notre Dame star, who equaled Rentner's feat.

Nick Vairo, a 6 foot 2 inch end, who captained the Fighting Irish in 1934 and played with the Green Bay Packers the following year, will open at one of the wing berths. Vairo, who weighs 194 pounds, is fast, tackles hard and snares passes with regularity.

Coach Nicks Connolly of the enemy informed the St. Louis team that he intends to play Hugh Duvall, an all-Big Ten fullback from Northwestern U., at halfback. Tony Mazziotti, who played at Notre Dame, will handle the fullback assignment.

On the local side there is a new passing combination which promises to be heard from. Les Post, a 205-pound quarterback, is the starter in the aerial attack. Besides being able to pass 50 yards or more, he is adept at punting, place kicking, blocking and ball carrying.

Ernie Stidham, a tall 190-pound end, is the receiver of Post's passes. Ernie is an accomplished broken field runner and showed during the week's practices that after he snares the ball he travels in high speed. He loves to play football, which is what Head Coach Fayne Grone likes. Grone has said time-and-again that he would rather have a bunch of high school kids if they "wanted" to play in preference to established stars who played just for the money and have no love for the game.

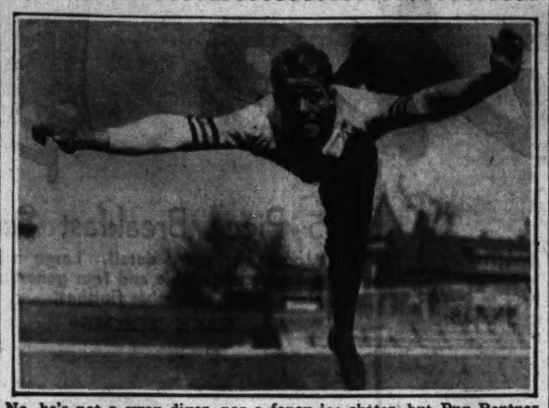
A Gunner the Gunners Must Stop



No, he's not a swan diver, nor a fancy ice skater, but Pug Rentner, former All-America back from Northwestern, who will play with the Chicago Gunners against the St. Louis Gunners this afternoon at Walsh Stadium.

FLYERS TO TRAIN AT TULSA, SITE OF FIRST GAME

The St. Louis Flyers of the American Hockey Association will go to Tulsa for a two-week period of training beginning tomorrow, it was announced late yesterday by President Ed Steffen.

The selection of Tulsa came as a surprise, as it was previously announced that the local hockey club would probably train with the Chicago Black Hawks of the National League at Champaign, Ill. Steffen explained the change in plans was made because the Flyers are scheduled to open their American Association season in Tulsa, Nov. 5, and training there would thus give the team the benefit of a few extra days for conditioning.

An exhibition game planned for Nov. 1 here, with the Black Hawks, has been canceled because the new floor at the Arena will not be ready. Hence the Flyers will not need to be in St. Louis until Nov. 8, when they meet Tulsa at the Arena in their first home game. Meanwhile, after a game Nov. 5 in Tulsa, the local team moves to Kansas City for a contest Nov. 6.

Three more Flyers arrived here yesterday. Bill Hudson and Fred Hergert, centers, and the veteran Defenseman Leo Carbol, who has played with the team longer than anybody else. The remainder of the squad is due to report today.

The American Hockey Association schedule, released for publication today, shows the Flyers have 14 Sunday night home games at the Arena. Among their 24, seven games here on Fridays, two on Tuesdays (including the opening) and one on Thursday. Minneapolis, Kansas City, Wichita and Tulsa will play here five times each and St. Paul four times.

DETROIT, Oct. 22.—The Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League announced the purchase from the New York Rangers of Charle Mason, right winger who scored 42 points last season for the Philadelphia Ramblers. Terms of the deal provide that Detroit cannot send Mason to its minor league farm club, the Pittsburgh Hornets.

BELTMARS TO PLAY SCHUMACHERS TUESDAY

The Beltmar Club, champion of the Ozark A. A. U. soccer tournament held last spring, has been selected to oppose the Schumachers in one of two games to be played Tuesday night at Walsh Stadium for the benefit of injured soccer players. Another game, previously announced, will bring the German Sport Club against the Fouke Fur team.

HIGH SCHOOL GOLF HONORS TO CLEVELAND

Cleveland's four-man golf squad of William Hrostich, Jack Behr, Edward Ruler and Robert Henry, won the Public High School League team championship by gathering 652 points for 36 holes of medal competition, the final 18 of which were played yesterday over the Municipal course in Forest Park.

Ben Blewett surprised local interscholastic golf followers by obtaining 663 to nose out the Soldan team, winners of the title last year, 665. One point behind Soldan came Beaumont with 666. Other teams and their scores are Southwestern, 719; Central, 762, and Roosevelt, 855.

Carl Reinecke of Beaumont scored the best 36-hole with a 156. He had an 80 last week and shot the Forest Park course in 76 strokes, four above par, yesterday. Henry of Cleveland was next in line with 157, while 159s were made by Warren Saunders of Soldan, Ruler of Cleveland and Clarence Hartwig of Ben Blewett.

Tulsa Defeats Aggies, 20 to 7

By the Associated Press.

TULSA, Ok., Oct. 22.—The football tricks of the University of Tulsa Golden Hurricane worked well today and it swept to a 20 to 7 victory over Oklahoma A. & M., bitter rival in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Fifteen thousand homecomers exulted as the Tulsans turned the Aggie challenge into a rout and kept clear their record of no conference defeats since joining the loop in 1935.

Tossing Tommy Thompson's passes paved the way for one touchdown and scored another and at the same time the Hurricane running attack far outclassed anything the Cowboys had to offer.

Stopped on the ground and pounded to a standstill on every scoring threat, the Aggies got a break in the final period when Pat Smith, Tulsa fullback, fumbled on the Tulsa 20.

The Aggies hurried to take advantage of the break. Portillo passed to Newman for a 13-yard gain; Poloski smashed to the four and then Halfback Herald twisted over. Lentz converted the point.

The statistics showed the weakness of the Aggie line. Tulsa gained 254 yards rushing to 163 for A. & M.

WEBSTER BEATS UNIVERSITY CITY IN UPSET, 13-9

Webster Groves, with two second-half touchdowns, overcame a nine-point deficit and unexpectedly handed the University City Indians a 13-9 defeat yesterday afternoon at Webster. It was the Indians' first loss of the season, and only the second time in 11 years that Webster has defeated a Muhl-coached eleven.

The Indians entered the game as slight favorites, and got off to an early lead when Becker blocked a Webster punt and the ball rolled out of bounds on the Webster 20-yard line.

Caldwell Funk and "Passer" Robinson then ripped the Webster line with Robinson going over for the score just as the period ended. Liebig converted.

On the second play of the second half, the whole University City forward wall surged through to throw Allen Carvell in the end zone for a safety, the Indians had a 9-0 lead.

In the waning moments of the third period, Robinson went back to kick from his own 40-yard line, but he never got the punt away. Dick Devine blocked the kick, picked up the loose ball, and raced to the University City three-yard line before he was dragged down from behind. Fuhrman sliced off tackle for the score. Dan Pacy, injured Webster back, came in to the game for the first time, but missed the kick for the extra point. He stayed in to lead the last desperate Webster drive to a touchdown.

With five minutes to go in the final quarter, Adams recovered a fumble on the Indians' 24-yard line. Pacy needed only two of these minutes to pick up eight yards around end, and then fire two passes to Winters, the second one being in the end zone for the victory.

LINDELLS PLAY MANHATTAN AT WEST SIDE PARK

By Dent McSkimming

After much stumbling and fumbling, local professional soccer promoters are ready today to get down to the presentation of a game, the first of the season, at West Side Park. They have brought the Manhattans of Chicago, one of the strongest clubs in the country, here for the opening. On the St. Louis side will be the Lindell Trust Club, a collection of stars of three of the old St. Louis Soccer League teams gathered under the direction of Andy Fredrick. The other local professional club, the Burkes, has no game scheduled today.

In the Chicago lineup are several players who hold top rank among the country's stars, including Billy Gonsalves, Art Garcia, Eddie Begley and Frank Salcedo. Others known to St. Louis fans are Hughie Davidson, Billy Ogilvie, Clem Cuthbert, Walter Ebinger, David Rarity, Werner Nilsen and Bill Rogels. Seven of the squad formerly played with St. Louis teams.

The Manhattans are in part the old Maccabee club, which tried for so many seasons to unseat the Spartas as champions of the Chicago district. Few, however, remain of the Maccabees who were at one time an all-Jewish team.

Of the Lindells, Rodriguez, Erbe and Kickham are former Shamrock players; Hilker, Nash, Wil Murphy, Simmermann, LaPosha and Fay were brought up under the coaching of John Marre; Dan Murphy, Gonzales, Greco and Flynn came from Oscar Mossmann's South Sides.

The plan of the promoters is to book an intercity match each Sunday at the West Side grounds, bringing in such clubs as Sparta of Chicago, Slavia of Cleveland, All-Scots of Detroit, Germans of Heidelberg and perhaps a Milwaukee club.

The Beltmars, Ozark A. A. U. champions, will oppose the Charles de Witt Club in a preliminary game, starting at 1:30 p. m.

Goebbels, Hitler's Mouthpiece; No. 3 Nazi, 5-Feet-4 and Lame, The Greatest Showman on Earth

Party Congress at Nurnberg His Masterpiece, Probably the Largest Crowd Ever Assembled Anywhere.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.

ONE of the pleasantries of racial orthodoxy in the Third Reich, with its cult of a warrior state composed of Nordic Siegfrieds, is that the No. 3 Nazi, yielding rank only to Adolf Hitler and Hermann Wilhelm Goering, should have sprung from a tribe which undoubtedly contributed to German mythology the dwarfish and malignant clan of the Nibelungs. It is known to National Socialist anthropology as the "Western race," and constitutes only 2 per cent of the population. Vestiges of the species linger principally in the Rhineland. Its men are the smallest in Europe. Their skin is tawny, the eyes are of varying shades of brown, and the oily hair, fine and smooth, deepens from dark brown to black.

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Reichsminister of Propaganda and Public Enlightenment, is a native of Rheydt, in the Rhineland. He is 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 125 pounds. His figure, with sloping shoulders and narrow hips, is so slight that in uniform he could be mistaken for a messenger boy. The complexion is swarthy, the eyes are dark and the hair, tightly slicked down, is raven black. Psychologically also he might have sat for the "Western man" as described in the Nazi Primer, handbook of the Hitler Youth. This type, according to the text, is lively, loquacious, excitable, passionate, mentally agile, impatient and actuated less by feeling than by reason.

God and the Devil.

Though the single doctor of philosophy in the Nazi high command, Goebbels reveals something of the mental climate of a theologian. His diary of the twelve months leading to Hitler's capture of power on Jan. 30, 1933, resembles nothing so much in texture as the writings of Cotton Mather. In each case the pattern endlessly recurring is homage to God and hatred of the Devil. The German found his deity by accident 16 years ago when he idled into a Munich hall and for the first time heard Adolf Hitler speak. The identity of Satan was fixed upon even earlier. With a zealot's terrible simplicity, he persuaded himself that mankind's eternal adversary is the Jew.

When old enough to peer about him, Goebbels discovered he was the literal exemplar of a gnomish, brown and alien race which had virtually been extinguished in Europe's millennial struggle for the survival of the fittest. To cap this tragedy, nature had visited him with a personal deformity. He was born with a clubfoot. How the self-pity engendered in talented youths by such afflictions may be perverted into demons of ambition and vengeance has more than once been illustrated in the biography of genius. There were Lord Byron, with the pride of Lucifer; and Alexander Pope, fiendishly malevolent. "When I think of the humiliations of my youth," Goebbels once remarked, "I see no reason to shrink from applying any treatment to our enemies."

Fiercely Sensitive.

He is believed to be fiercely sensitive regarding these deviations from the Aryan norm. His automobile seat is fitted with an extra cushion, to disguise his lack of stature. His principal newspaper organ is Der Angriff in Berlin. An English reporter jokingly surmised that the name was an abbreviation for "angry griffin." The correspondent was ordered out of Nazidom. Possessed of a darting and venomous tongue, Goebbels delights in wagging it publicly against the slow-witted Nordics of the Hitler oligarchy. His favorite butt is General Field Marshal Goering, monumental Minister of the Air. At a reception, following one of their clashes, a woman asked Goering: "Why do you allow the dwarf to bite you?" The huge Bavarian shrugged: "A monkey can't see a lion without chattering at it." When the tale was carried to Goebbels, he retorted: "Find out if His Excellency has bought one of my office boys. He can't have thought up all that by himself."

The tiny doctor became so harassed by taunts circulating even among his Nazi colleagues, John Gunther's "Inside Europe" relates, that he sought out an anthropologist who would consent to equip him with a classification of his own within the Teutonic genus. After long reflection, the scientist emerged with the following label: "Nachgedunkelter Schrumpfgermane." This may be translated roughly: "A gnome originally Germanic who later turned dark."

Triumphant, Savage.

Whether—as some maintain who have studied Goebbels at close range — a dwarf-crippled fixation has served as motive energy for his swift, triumphant and savage career, few will doubt him to be one of those outstanding men whom, as the Nazi Primer acknowledges, the Western race can now and then breed. He has promoted the National Socialist cause with exclusive and unflagging tenacity, and has embraced toils and burdens so herculean as to tax his fragile body with frequent ill-health and collapse. Creative power of a sort may not be denied a man who has expanded showmanship to a scale beside which Barnum's appears that of a shrinking violet; who has enlarged mass pageantry to a dimension, voltage and splendor undreamed of on Max Reinhardt's most grandiose stage; and who has elevated the despised practices of cheer leader and press agent to world-shaking arts.

A visitor entering the former Prince Leopold Palace in Berlin discovers on the ground floor a large and sumptuous chamber. In the corners are tall Chinese vases, containing orchid clusters two feet long. Behind an immense desk perches a homunculus whose mannikin legs are unable to touch the floor. Somber eyes smolder beneath a slant brow, the nose tilts forward with a gamin's impudence, and the wide slit of a mouth is etched about with cruel lines. The skin stretches so tightly across the face as to give the impression of a death's head. It is Dr. Goebbels, in his day of triumph.

The tawny troll has but to stir a finger and a thousand thousand Nordics march and countermarch in the designs of his colossal public spectacles. He lifts a dark visage to the microphone, and simultaneously, from the Baltic to the Karawanken, from Cologne to Danzig, tens of millions of Aryans shout "Sieg Heil!" and chant the Horst Wessel song in a chorus of 225,000 square miles.

Sphere of Dictatorship.

His department is construed as a dictatorship over these spheres of public life: National holidays, state ceremonies, press, broadcasting, national hymns, plastic and graphic arts, music, theater, cinema, literature, exhibitions, trade fairs and advertising. Without his consent, no play or film may be produced in Germany, no book or newspaper published, no article printed or jour-

Prodigal Boss, Sometimes Down, But Never Out, Keeps on Trying

CURLEY RUNS AGAIN IN MASSACHUSETTS

Matching Personal Appeal Against Patrician Leverett Saltonstall

Bitterly Condemned for Big Bill He Ran Up in One Term as Governor, He Now Bids for Another on 'Back-to-Work' Platform.

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

BOSTON, Oct. 22.

Undaunted by his 1936 defeat for the United States Senate by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., young grandson of the late distinguished statesman, Curley is taking on another Boston blueblood, running for Governor of Massachusetts against solemn Leverett Saltonstall, scion of a family esteemed in Massachusetts since the days of the Colonial Governors.

It will be remembered Curley attempted vainly to dismiss Lodge with the sobriquet "Little Boy Blue." Now "Little Boy Blue" has risen again to plague Curley by stumping the State for Saltonstall, even lending him his former campaign manager.

Saltonstall, an attorney and former Republican Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, is supported not only by members of his party but by others who have looked askance on Curley's turbulent public career which reached a peak during his term as Governor, 1935-36, when he engaged in a spending orgy that put in the shade his political largess during three terms as Mayor of Boston. Saltonstall's campaign is based primarily on the slogan "A Government of Honest Service." With scant ability as a public speaker, Saltonstall is relying chiefly on personal contacts and party organization.

Survivor of Scandals Enough to Down 10 Men

Curley, who started life 64 years ago as the son of a laborer, is counting on personal political assets that have kept him in public office intermittently for 38 years in the face of accusations sufficiently scandalous to have killed the career of the average office-seeker 10 times over. Jail and calumny alike have failed to stop him. Time after time he has been pronounced politically dead, but always he bobs up again.

Curley took a hard blow this week when the only major charge against him ever to reach a formal court hearing resulted in the acquittal of his accuser on a perjury count.

Briefly, a company constructing a subway had sued the city for damages caused by a broken water main. The trial court awarded the company $129,000. The case was appealed. When Curley was mayor, in 1933, the case was settled out of court for $85,000. Subsequently it was charged that Curley and a political associate received $50,000 for settling the suit. After investigation, an equity court ruled that the $50,000 should be returned to the city treasury. This decision is now on appeal. In the meantime Frederick W. Graves, self-styled go-between, who was a principal witness before the equity court, was put on trial charged with perjury. He testified that Curley received $30,000 after asking "What's in it for me?" Curley denied the allegation in open court. He said he had never seen his accuser before.

Judge Harold P. Williams, who heard the case without a jury, finally acquitted Graves on a "reasonable doubt" last Wednesday. The Judge said, however: "This case shows a miserable mess on both sides; there is an unsavory situation in Boston arising out of the settlement."

Said Curley: "This does not end the controversy."

Two Heavy Body Blows But He Makes Comeback.

When Lodge beat him by 136,000 votes in the dying days of his turbulent administration as Governor many deemed it a body blow. Unperturbed, he ran again for Mayor of Boston and was beaten soundly by Maurice J. Tobin. That rebuff, his supporters said, surely sounded his death knell politically. But he rang the bell again this year by capturing the Democratic nomination for Governor. Now he is campaigning in the face of odds as only Curley campaigns.

Of unusual personal charm, with a masterly platform manner that literally hypnotizes audiences, and a radio voice which Harvard University professors of speech say equals those of President Roosevelt and the late King George V of England, he relies on a personal following. For Jim Curley—nobody calls him by his full name—is unique among American political bosses. He is a boss without a deliverable machine. He can get votes for himself, but he can't deliver them for anybody else. In this respect he is unlike Thomas J. Pendergast of Kansas City, or Ed Crump of Memphis, whose indorsement of a candidate automatically means a large block of votes.

Curley is for Curley. He makes no bones about it. Nominally Joseph McGrath, Collector of the Port of Boston and chairman of the State Democratic Committee, is supporting his candidacy, but Curley conducts his own detailed campaign. He dines with a telephone at his plate.

An opportunist, he has a firm hold on President Roosevelt's political coattails, although there is no love lost between him and the President. Curley, who rode into the Governorship largely on his claims as one of the original Roosevelt men, has not forgotten the Presidential snub in 1936 when President Roosevelt spoke in Massachusetts but refrained from mentioning Curley's name when he sorely needed a helpful word as the Lodge campaign gained momentum. He remarked to the writer this week that he was "purged." It is no secret that he regards himself as a victim of political ingratitude.

Jobs for the Deserving And Bill for the State

But for campaign purposes he adopts the slogan "Back to Work With Curley," praises the Roosevelt social objectives and maintains a white float surmounted by glittering golden busts of the President and himself. He makes a strong bid for WPA support, banks on labor support engendered by his legislative record, endeavors to make foreign-born groups feel that he is their savior against entrenched "reactionary forces" and traditional social distinctions. With more than a third of the state's population foreign born and about 800,000 independent voters out of a total vote of about 1,800,000, he has a fertile field of campaign.

As Governor, Curley swamped the State House with his followers. He put as many as possible in key positions, loaded departments with others, created as many jobs as he could, established a personal dictatorship reminiscent of Huey P. Long in Louisiana. Expenses mounted. Payrolls were upped. The number of boards increased. In two years, the State budget, which included a public works bond issue, reached $147,500,000.

The Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Associations, contending the annual budget should be cut by $13,000,000, stated:

"State administration has become Government by dictatorial edict. Political favoritism runs riot and civil service safeguards have become a delusion and a mockery."

The prodigal tempo of Curley's two-year term as Governor was shown in spectacular fashion in contingent fund expenditures which totaled more than $100,000 and included flowers, fantastic taxicab fares, luncheons, expensive trips to Washington, loving cups and thermos jugs.

Curley, who lives so lavishly that his source of personal income is the subject of general comment, put on a show wherever he went, often accompanied by a uniformed staff and numerous aids.

The Taxpayers' Association complained that such expenditures were six times as great as an 11-year average. The Governor's secretary replied they spread "hope and joy among the people." Curley himself told the writer the people were entitled "to a good show." He gave them one.

Candidate With Great Following but No Deliverable Machine, He Rose With Roosevelt and Refuses to Fall or Be Pushed Away.

One of scores of expense items which particularly galled the thrifty New England taxpayers who footed the bill was the amazing capacity of the State limousine, called the "S-I" because of the license plate granted the Governor. This remarkable car, once taken by the Governor to Miami Beach together with uniformed retainers, used 100 gallons of gasoline a day and several quarts of oil. Sometimes, according to the expense vouchers, an anti-freeze mixture and alcohol—which don't mix—would be purchased on the same day. The upkeep of the "S-I" in 1936 was $4744—more than the car cost. Incidentally, the car figured in two accidents, one tragic.

Then, as now, the Governor promised "wages and work," but unemployment remained acute while plans for a $35,000,000 State bond issue and a $600,000,000 Federal relief program came to nothing.

Administrative Record Bitterly Condemned

On the administrative side, the Governor was attacked for packing the Governor's council, an elective board of nine designed to confirm appointments, by giving two Republican members attractive appointments enabling him to appoint his followers to their posts. This gave him a patronage springboard.

General disapproval was voiced when he advocated the notorious "teacher's oath." This developed into a storm when he attempted to retire judges more than 70, proposing to submit them to physical examinations. One District Judge, Patrick J. Duane, 74 years old, challenged the Governor to a boxing bout before the House of Representatives.

Curley protected his adherents in the past, removing two members of a finance commission which had investigated a City Treasurer when he was Mayor. The Treasurer subsequently was ordered by the courts to repay the city $131,000 after a finding that he had used his office to profit to that extent.

The vulnerable side of his administration and his public career generally was summed up in a campaign attack by former Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield, one of his enemies within the Democratic party. Mansfield, who accused Curley of being a "Curleycrat, not a Democrat," gave this version of the Curley administration:

"You disgraced the party. You violated every sacred tradition that has been treasured by Massachusetts for generations. You filled departments with your henchmen. You threw money away lavishly, even more lavishly than you did when you were Mayor of Boston. You didn't spend money. You scattered it in handfuls. It belonged to the taxpayer."

On Credit Side; Many Liberal Laws Put Through

On the credit side, be it said, Gov. Curley pushed through 28 liberal labor measures. He reduced utility rates and compulsory automobile liability rates. He reduced the eligible age for old age pensions from 70 to 65, sponsored a social security bill, established a 48-hour week for State employes who formerly worked 70 to 80 hours a week. Some liberals, who had experienced years of ultra-conservative administrations, regard his liberal program as tempering his demerits.

So much for his gubernatorial record, of interest at this time because he aspires to the same office again and hopes it may be the stepping stone, perhaps, to a position of national significance.

Jim Curley the man is a saga in itself. He is a political privateer. He has scuttled many a machine. He is bold, brazen, persistent. He has a faculty of picking a national winner and then hanging on. If he loses one office, he runs for another. Domineering, he makes party leaders shy away. Sentimental, with a personal generosity that is not always for political purposes, he is often victimized.

Above all, he is a master showman, a consumate actor. His very appearance is theatric. Burly, portly now, he wears his meticulously tailored clothes with an air. His hair is iron gray, his face florid. When he enters a room he dominates it, when he appears on the street, a crowd gathers. He is all things to all men.

His voice, naturally resonant, has been

With 7,000,000 Bales Stored by Government, Secretary Wallace Points to Declining Use; Says Tire Makers Turn to Substitute.

By SAM J. SHELTON
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

AT the beginning of the marketing season for this year's cotton crop, the Federal Government holds in its warehouses 7,000,000 bales produced in earlier years—a volume approximately half of a normal year's production. This cotton is virtually owned by the Government, since it has been pledged by the producers as security for Federal loans at rates in excess of the present market price of about 8 cents a pound.

On the cotton it held at the end of September the Government had made loans aggregating $329,651,493, and on this same cotton it had incurred overhead costs of $25,000,000 for such items as storage, insurance and interest. Through the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the Government is now increasing its stocks of cotton, making loans at 8.3 cents a pound, slightly above the prevailing market price, on the new crop, which is expected to exceed 12,200,000 bales.

In view of the seriousness of the problem apparent on the face of these facts, this writer asked Secretary of Agriculture Wallace at a recent interview in Springfield, Ill., to comment on the outlook—exports of cotton this year are running below last year's rate; today's market price is not far above the low of the depression. Did not all these facts indicate a serious situation for the South?

Economic Problem No. 1.

"The South has been in a serious situation ever since the Civil War; probably you have heard that it is economic problem No. 1," he replied. The statement about economic problem No. 1 referred to a recent report on "The Economic Conditions of the South" prepared by a group called the National Emergency Council, at the direction of President Roosevelt. In a letter of instructions to this council, President Roosevelt said: "It is my conviction that the South presents right now the nation's No. 1 economic problem."

Secretary Wallace mentioned a lessening of domestic consumption of cotton this year as something to worry about. And right on top of that, he added, automobile tire manufacturers have commenced using rayon fiber in place of cotton. Heretofore, several hundred thousand bales of cotton annually have gone into tire fabric. The use of rayon as a substitute is not yet general, but one manufacturer using it in a top-price line claims it gives greater strength and flexibility with considerably less weight.

The Secretary was asked if the present situation did not indicate the Government's losses through the AAA cotton control programs would exceed the losses incurred by the old Federal Farm Board which operated in 1930 and 1931 in an unsuccessful effort to keep the prices of wheat and cotton at a satisfactory level. When that board discontinued its buying of surpluses and disposed of stocks on hand, its loss was estimated at more than $200,000,000. This came out of the Federal treasury.

He would not comment on this, except to say that losses had been sustained on some of the cotton loans; he did not have figures with him. Data obtained by the Post-Dispatch from the Department of Agriculture at Washington show that on the 1934 cotton loans the Government has sustained a loss of $75,000,000, and at present prices a loss of about $18,000,000 is indicated on the 1937 loans. What will happen in the case of the 1938 crop on which loans now are being made is problematical.

Loans Total $640,725,140.

The policy of making Government loans on cotton was started in 1933, and has been continued each year, except in 1936, when it was not considered necessary. In this period loans in the principal amount of $640,725,140 have been made on 12,456,485 bales. The Government has disposed of 5,540,833 bales and still holds 6,915,652, or in round numbers 7,000,000, as additions to the total are being made daily.

In two of the crop years, 1933 and 1935, the Government was able to dispose of the loan cotton without loss. Average loan rates per pound by years were: 10 cents in 1933, 12 cents in 1934, 10 cents in 1935, 8.7 cents in 1937.

Besides making loans on cotton the Government in the six-year period 1933 to 1938 has paid to cotton farmers a total of $866,789,000 in subsidies of various forms. This includes benefits and rentals for reduced acreage, options to purchase cotton, soil conservation payments and price adjustment payments. The loss on loans plus the various subsidies makes a total outlay of nearly $1,000,000,000 by the Government in behalf of the cotton producers since 1933.

Secretary Wallace asserted, however, that the AAA program had definitely benefited the cotton producers. He ventured the opinion that without the AAA the price of cotton today would be only 4 or 5 cents a pound. And even the 8-cent market price, he added, does not measure the farmer's return. The Government will pay an outright bonus, or price adjustment, of more than 2 cents a pound to farmers complying with acreage allotments and soil conservation requirements, and the direct payments for acreage diverted to soil-conserving crops probably will amount to as much or more.

The farm income from cotton must take into consideration both the market price and the Government payments, Wallace said. With all these payments figured in, he estimated the total growers' income from the 1938 crop at $865,000,000, or $117,000,000 less than last year.

Control, but Big Crop.

Uncertainties of crop control were strikingly demonstrated in 1937, when American farmers raised their largest cotton crop—18,746,000 bales. This record crop was produced on a comparatively small acreage, but the season was exceptionally favorable and no doubt fertilization and cultivation were better than average. The result was an average of 264 pounds to the acre, by far the highest average in the history of American cotton farming.

That crop was harvested from 33,930,000 acres, compared with a crop, the second highest, of 17,978,000 bales from 44,616,000 acres in 1926.

In a recent speech to cotton growers at Fort Worth, Tex., Secretary Wallace said the large crop last year "was partly due to exceptional growing weather." But he attributed it partly to lack of a crop control program, following the invalidation by the Supreme Court

COST OF GOVERNMENT'S AID TO COTTON FARMERS

THE following table shows the various direct payments to cotton farmers, plus losses on loans, since 1933:

Acreage rental and benefits	$348,236,000
Soil conservation	284,671,000
Price adjustments	166,758,000
Farmers' purchase options	67,133,000
Loss on loans (to Sept. 24, 1938)	93,000,000
Total	$959,798,000

As of last Sept. 24, the Government held 6,915,652 bales of cotton as security for loans to growers. Loans now are being made on the 1938 crop.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Criticism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHEN a great newspaper like the Post-Dispatch deserts the ranks of those who are doing their best to keep America sane in a war-crazed world, it is a tragedy indeed. Yet it is hardly possible to put any other construction on the past week's output of the Post-Dispatch: Editorial praise for the stupid and vicious display of army tanks to school children, bolstered up by an absurdly disproportionate amount of space to spy hunts, and the simultaneous parading of Armstrong, Lippmann and Dorothy Thompson loudly crying "To Arms!"

This will not be without effect on the minds of your readers. You are preparing the soil, as you did in 1916-17. May God have mercy on you! PAX.

The Shovel Boys Go on Strike.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I SEE that up in New York the Shovel Boys promptly went on strike when some pusillanimous potentate had the unmitigated audacity to demand they use those short-handle picks once in a while. Thank goodness, we do not have that trouble down here on the River des Peres, where we practice the ol' adage, "Shoemaker, stick to your last."

JOHN W. JAQUITH.

In Defense of Lindbergh.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR reprint in Thursday's issue of your editorial of two years ago on the same page as your comment on Lindbergh's acceptance of a decoration at the hands of the present German Government, prompts the query: "Is this the same Post-Dispatch?"

Yes, he is the same level-headed, beloved Lindy—not influenced by Communistic propaganda and the rabble-rousers. Just as he spoke plainly to the Nazis two years ago, again it appears he has stated facts as to Russian air forces. Not "to soften the blow of the Munich settlement," as you suggest, but in the interest of peace and to prevent needless slaughter in the protection of stolen property. SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS.

A Pip.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE suggestion of Wade Bush that the people of this country elect a business man President is certainly a pip. When we contemplate the condition into which business men have got this country, all I can say is, thank goodness, we still elect politicians. Didn't this depression start under a big business man by the name of Hoover? And ever since, business men have fought every effort of the politicians to save an economic system that can't be saved. DOUGLAS BRIDGE.

—And Binder Twine.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

FAR be it from me to belittle the usefulness of baling wire! But haven't you overlooked an equally important factor in the development of our country?

What is a cigarette without a light? What is a highball without whisky? What is baling wire without binder twine? You must not divorce these two old stand-bys. You may find baling wire on the repaired harness; but the more delicate bridle requires binder twine. Wire may uphold the trousers; but you will find twine in the shoes which accompany them. Rural Ozarkians admit they would have to quit farming if it weren't for "balin' wire and string."

So maybe we can have that book on "A Thousand and One Uses" bound with binder twine! C. H. B.

He Dissents.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial entitled "An Afternoon Reception for the Cavalry" might strike a responsive chord among our munitions makers, but to one who was permitted only "to help use up" the products of munitions makers (I was a machine gunner in the Argonne), it gives no thrill. You say the public schools will be dismissed for that afternoon because the Board of Education believes that school children would be interested in this unusual spectacle.

Let us hope the school children who are privileged to see are old enough to get the right impression. We have been taught to think that similar spectacles paraded before the eyes of Nazi and Fascist children are criminal, but of course our children's minds work differently.

J. E. STAHLHEBER.
Wood River, Ill.

Thinks It Ridiculous.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IT is ridiculous to censure Col. Lindbergh for accepting an award from Germany. He has been decorated by other countries. Why not Germany? The order was bestowed in recognition of his achievements in aviation and does not imply that he approves of Nazi-ism.

It is regrettable that blind hatred of Germany is again being fostered by the press of this country, just as in 1917-18. Many Americans seem disgruntled because some European nations are not governed according to our rules; therefore they condemn the governments, the leaders, the people, without the slightest consideration of the peculiar problems which led to the establishment of these governments so different from our system. And still they have the gall to damn Hitler for his intolerance. E. D. B.

THE WAGE-HOUR LAW.

The Federal Wage-Hour Act, the first attempt by Congress to set minimum pay scales and maximum working days for some 11,000,000 workers in industries affecting interstate commerce, takes effect tomorrow. As the date of effectiveness has drawn closer, the law and its anticipated effects, both real and fancied, have been increasingly in the news. At the end of the week, Elmer F. Andrews, administrator of the law, announced that some industries seemingly had timed shut-downs to coincide with the application of the law in an effort to embarrass it. As nationally well known a business as the Western Union Telegraph Co. reported that it would have to turn off a third of its messenger boys if it complied with the wage requirement. Many challenges of the law in the courts appear to be in the offing.

The situation has its brighter side, and this brighter side is not to be overshadowed. Those who have followed the news reflecting business' attitude in general find the weight on the side of compliance. Administrator Andrews has gone about his task of preparing business for the application of the law in a common-sense manner. Business Week, one of the leading publications read by business men, gives as the best over-all advice relative to the law: "Keep your thinking on a common-sense basis and when in doubt comply."

The essential provisions of the law are simple enough. Outlawing child labor outright, it provides a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour for the first year, a 30-cent minimum for the next six years, and after that a 40-cent minimum. As wages go up, hours of work will be reduced slightly in an effort to increase employment and demand for goods. For the first year, the maximum work week will be 44 hours. The second year the legal week will be 42 hours and the third year 40. In short, the law calls for eventual establishment of a 40-hour week paying workers in interstate industry 40 cents an hour. In terms of an annual wage, it seeks to guarantee a floor of $572 during the first year of its application, and eventually a yearly wage of $832.

As the Post-Dispatch said repeatedly during the debate on the measure in Congress, a law which does no more than this is obviously no cure-all, no panacea, no self-sufficient remedy for our economic ills. It does, however, do this: 'it writes as a stated public policy of the country that no person in a business subject to the regulation of Congress through its constitutional authority to control interstate commerce shall work for less than a subsistence wage. And doing this, it brings the force of the United States Government on the side of exploited, unprotected groups.

Any employer who would deliberately time the shut-down of his plant in an attempt to embarrass the wage-hour law is beneath contempt. The law has its penalty clauses, and doubtless it will be found that they encompass any such conspiracy to evade. The probability is that some industries have been working overtime in recent months in an effort to produce as much as possible before the application of the minimums reduces their margin of profit. Similar spurts will probably precede future periodic increases in the wage minimums, but it is to be hoped that business in general will see this legislation in its larger aspects and so adhere to its spirit as well as its letter. If the law protects the bottom levels of employment, it will bulwark purchasing power and business will benefit as well as the workers.

With every interpretation of the law by the administrator subject to review in the courts, business is protected against unwise or high-handed administration. This protection, however, is no invitation to resort to the courts to hamstring the law, and any attempt to use court challenges to that end doubtless will prove a boomerang. Workers enjoy the same right to bring charges of infringement against their employers; harassing suits on their part would be as reprehensible, and no more justified.

A historic venture begins tomorrow morning. As before, there will be no limits on the standard of living to which American workers may aspire and attain. There will be a bottom level below which, under law, no one in interstate business will be forced to live. Fortunately, standards are already such that the overwhelming proportion of employes brought under the law will not be affected.

LIGHT ON ST. CLAIR COUNTY'S BOND DEAL.

How sorry a deal St. Clair County made with H. C. Speer & Sons of Chicago is revealed by its new bridge plan, to be submitted to the RFC. Under the Speer deal, which collapsed when the firm was unable to market the bonds, the bridge was to have cost $7,500,000; now the estimated cost is $6,636,364. The huge potential profit of $480,393 to the Speer company is eliminated; the contingencies item is reduced from $500,000 to $236,144; interest during construction sinks from $360,000 to $146,000, because the RFC will advance money as needed whereas the Speer contract called for advancing all the money at once. In other words, the public stands to gain $895,000, a large percentage of the bridge's cost, because of the accidental circumstance that the Speer company couldn't make good on its contract. The incident is a disquieting reminder of the need for scrutinizing public transactions.

OL' MAN RIVER DEMURS.

The proposal to build a "scenic traffic-way" along the Mississippi from Minnesota to the Gulf brings a vision of a beautiful concrete highway overlooking the stream, with fertile farms stretching in the distance. The scheme, however, deserves close scrutiny.

The Memphis Press-Scimitar, published in a Mississippi River city, may be presumed not to be unfair to the project. Subordinating community pride to a practical view, the Press-Scimitar says:

> Involving great engineering difficulties and duplicating present highways, the cost of the traffic-way would far exceed any possible benefits from it. Few tourists would want to follow it more than a few miles, preferring other and more direct routes. It would ruin many spots of natural beauty. And the Mississippi, itself one of the oldest and greatest American highways, might much more appropriately and less expensively be developed for passenger-boat traffic and small-boat recreation, if the Federal Government must spend money on a parkway there. The traffic-way-scheme impresses us as a mid-western Passamaquoddy—one that Congress should refuse to authorize.

In a letter published on this page Wednesday, a reader pointed out that the shifting channel of the river below St. Louis would make it impossible to build such a highway with any assurance that it would continue to overlook the river. The river might assume a channel several miles from the highway, or one right through the highway. Ste. Genevieve once was built on the river, but was moved because the river was eating away the townsite. Transferred several miles upstream, the town is no longer on the river, for a new channel has been cut several miles away.

Where it is convenient to route a highway along a scenic bluff, this should be done, as it has been done for several miles along the river below Chester, Ill., and again between Fort Madison and Keokuk, Ia. If the Good Roads Bureau wants to link existing highways near the river, including such stretches as these, into one scenic highway, there can be no objection. But to build 2000 miles of new highway along the river would be extravagant and impractical.

ANTI-NAZIS IN GERMANY.

To discuss the possibility of Hitler's downfall at a time when he is riding high over the European scene may seem the height of futility. Yet there are certain elements of potential danger to Nazi rule that must be considered in any objective view, even though Hitler's present strength at home and dominance in other countries be conceded. Prince Hubertus zu Loewenstein, former republican leader, who has never given up hope of Germany's ultimate return to democracy, discussed some of these factors on his visit to St. Louis a few days ago.

The mock elections held since Hitler came to power showed virtual unanimity, yet the figures of Germany's last free election, Nov. 6, 1932, cannot be overlooked. Anti-Hitler parties at that time polled 19,665,987 votes, as against 15,697,757 pro-Hitler votes. Most of the 7,250,000 Social Democrats, 4,000,000 Catholic Center and 6,000,000 Communist voters remain in Germany. The majority may hail Hitler vociferously, but they cannot have forgotten their original convictions.

The boldest of these persist in an underground movement of which little can be known abroad. Prince Hubertus reports, however, that it is active, alert and of sizable proportions. When war seemed imminent a few weeks ago, there was hope that an opportunity to act was at hand. This message was conveyed to friends of the movement abroad: "War is terrible, but thank God it is coming. It will be our chance to get rid of the gangsters. Let Hitler give us arms; we'll know how to use them."

Another important factor is the anti-Nazi sentiment in the recently conquered regions. Patriotic Austrians who supported Dollfuss and Schuschnigg in their efforts to maintain independence, and they were in the majority to the end, have not suddenly developed love for Hitler. Violent measures have been adopted by the Nazis in an effort to bring Austrian capitulation. In the newly annexed Sudeten area, too, there is a large antagonistic element, including 850,000 Czechs, who will certainly never become loyal Nazis. The recent report that the Reich will hand back the purely Czech regions doubtless indicates awareness of the danger.

The possibility of open revolt against the Nazis undoubtedly is out of the picture. But in time of war, particularly if reverses occur, the anti-Nazis may well become a factor dangerous to the regime.

EIGHTEEN PAROLES, BUT NONE FOR SEWARD.

Paroles were granted by Gov. Stark Thursday to 18 convicts in the State penitentiary. One of them was Joseph L. Huett, former Prosecuting Attorney of Reynolds County, convicted of killing a man in a street quarrel, who was freed after serving 19 months of his five-year manslaughter sentence. Paroles were granted to a man who had served seven months of a two-year term for forgery, to one who had served seven months of a two-year sentence after pleading guilty of grand larceny, to another who had pleaded guilty of chicken stealing and had completed nine months of his three-year term.

The name of James Seward is not to be found on the list of 18 paroled men. Neither did it appear on the list of 41 who were granted parole hearings earlier in the week. Seward, sentenced to life, has served 17 years for a murder which many students of the case now are convinced he did not commit. Yet his numerous applications for a parole hearing have gone strangely unheeded.

Does not Gov. Stark consider it high time, particularly in view of the many other cases which are receiving clemency or examination, that Seward's appeal at last receive consideration?

EMBARRASSING THE MISSOURI MULE.

Homer Croy is the author and Missouri the locale, so obviously a picture being made by a Hollywood producer had to have mules in it. A hasty inventory of the property man's domain failed to disclose any mules in storage, and the problem was where to find a representative collection of the sturdy hybrids. That is why the hearts of loyal Missourians were gladdened a few days ago by the announcement from Hollywood that this State was the nation's mule center, and hence had been chosen for filming the key scenes of the coming super-colossal.

Cameramen and paraphernalia arrived at the American Royal Livestock Show in Kansas City, where many mules had also gathered. The appropriate occasion came: Missouri day, which was also Mule day. Then the judges spoiled it all. They cast their critical eyes over the assembled livestock, and, above the dismayed braying of Missouri entries, announced the show's grand champion mule: one Tillie, an interloper from Kansas.

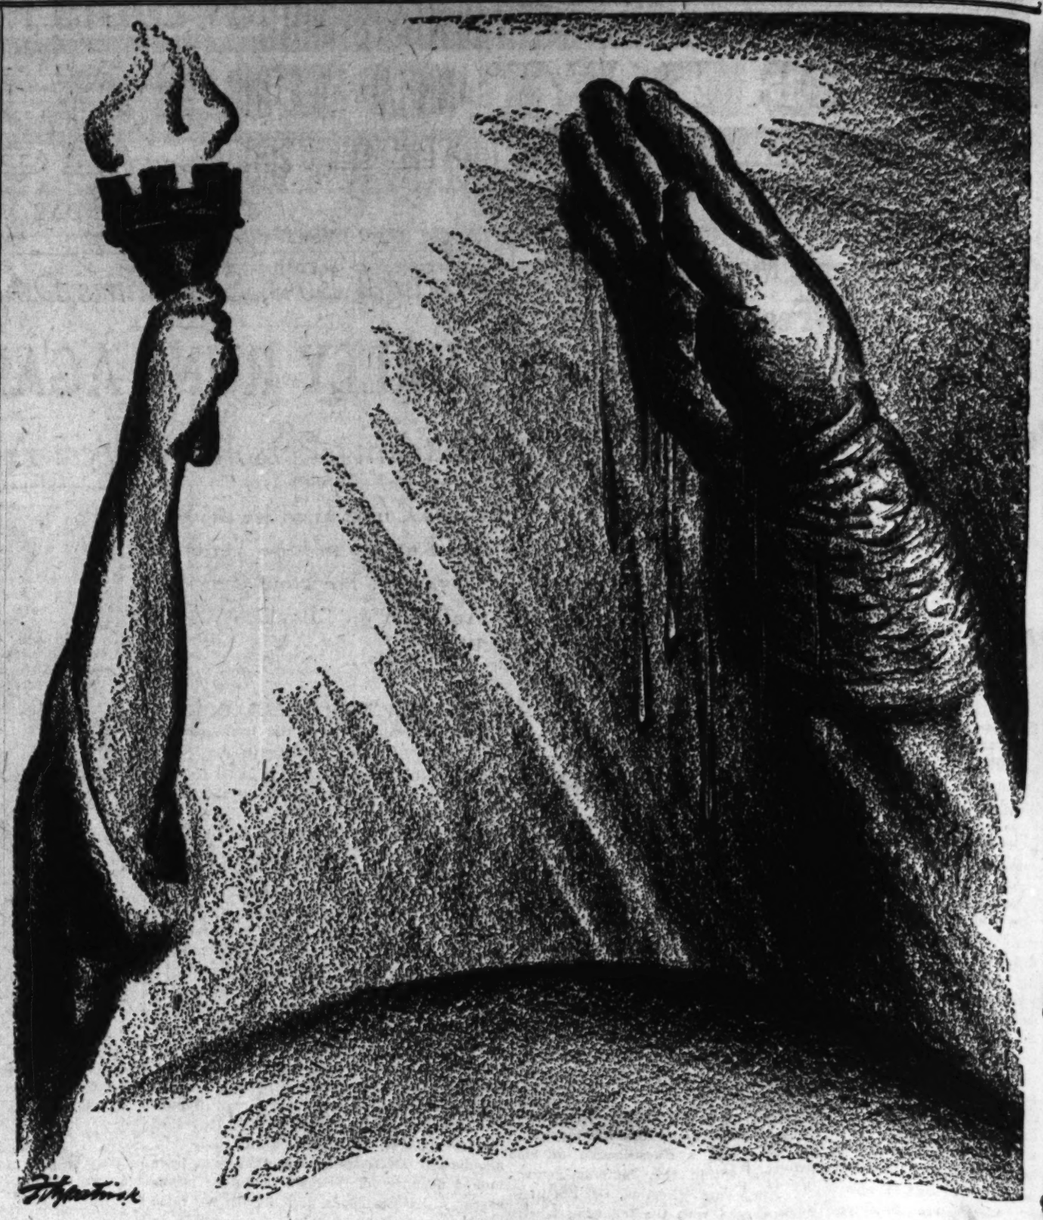
This invasion of our cherished field, this profaning of our sacred tradition, will be hotly resented by all true-blue Missourians. Let those Jayhawkers stick to their own business. How would they like it if a Missourian turned up at the next garden show with the grand champion sunflower?

NON-PARTISAN MOVE FOR DOUGLAS AND McDONALD.

A new group has entered the Missouri Supreme Court campaign; a group that lifts the race from partisan political considerations to the plane of a good government issue. It comprises 40 outstanding citizens of the St. Louis area, members of both major parties, united to advance the candidacies of Thomas F. McDonald, Republican, and Judge James M. Douglas, Democrat, for the State's highest court.

Both these candidates are fighting to save the court from boss influence. Both have been overwhelmingly indorsed by the St. Louis Bar Association poll. But party machines cannot cross party lines, so only an independent citizens' organization can give these men the joint support they deserve in their common battle against Pendergastism.

Headed by Luther Ely Smith as chairman, the committee hopes to use its non-partisan campaign as an object lesson for support of the Bar Association plan to take judgeships out of politics. Pending adoption of the proposed method, the people may still exercise discrimination in their choice of Judges, as this committee urges. Its program is a constructive effort of good citizenship, which should spread throughout the State and receive abundant support.



"WE OR THEY?"

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

The Role of Mr. Kennedy

THERE are very serious things afoot in this world. We do not know exactly what these things are, for most of Europe today is governed by secret societies, operating in darkness, and with a muzzled press. This now holds, not only for the totalitarian states, but for England and for France.

However, from the unparalleled observation point which this country still has, we can observe the effect, even if we are uncertain of the origins, of new policies. Mr. Lippmann was not overstating in any sense when he said the other day that Munich "must be regarded as one of the decisive though bloodless battles that shape the history of the world."

Since Munich an independent state has to all intents and purposes vanished off the face of this earth. New alignments in Eastern Europe are following each other with dizzying rapidity.

At a blow, France has been reduced to the position of a third-rate Power. The German dictator presents demands which completely reverse those that France, through Versailles, made upon the Germans. Yesterday terms were dictated to Czechoslovakia; today France is asked to renounce her pact with Russia, return to Germany colonies in Africa, assure Germany a free hand in the East and agree to permanent inferiority in the air.

Great Britain is backing down in Arabia, where the Arabian masses have been agitated for years by Italian propaganda. The weakness of Great Britain in the Far East is notorious.

* * *

The shifts in national power are pushed forward not only by the threat of war from two nations which are completely on a war footing, but by revolutionary propaganda employed on a scale absolutely unprecedented in all history and by trade policies ruthlessly designed to further imperialist aggrandizement in unremitting war against the freer economies of the non-totalitarian nations.

This hardly masked warfare goes on in the Western Hemisphere no less than in Europe.

In Mexico the product of expropriated British and American oil wells is given to Germany in return for goods. In all the South American countries, colonies of Germans and Italians are centers of revolutionary activities designed to change the existing governments of South American republics and switch new Fascist governments into line with the international aims of Italy and Germany.

And in our own country, a spy plot is being uncovered which is unique in peacetime.

This country suddenly wakes up to its appalling military, aerial and naval weakness in the world as it exists today. The facts about our weakness are well known to the intelligence officers of other Powers, but not to the American people.

Having comfortably relied for generations upon the might of the British Empire to collaborate in protecting mutual interests outside our own boundaries, we must—and very soon—will realize that we are not by ourselves capable of protecting even the Monroe Doctrine, the one item of our foreign policy which has been consistent from our beginnings.

We observe that the shifts in power carry with them radical changes in the internal policies of the so-called democracies.

Not only is national power sacrificed; the liberties of the people are sacrificed also. In Britain and France, the parliamentary systems do not function. The people are kept by direct and indirect censorship in almost complete ignorance of what is happening to them.

There are serious apprehensions among well-informed people that a new world-wide settlement is being contemplated in the secret conclaves of uncontrolled governments which will be largely at the expense of the United States; that we will be asked to abandon the Monroe Doctrine, and as a price of "general appeasement" sacrifice vital interests on this hemisphere.

* * *

Now, what in all this is the policy of our State Department, and what is the role of Mr. Kennedy, United States Ambassador to Great Britain?

Throughout the whole crisis which culminated at Munich, Mr. Kennedy was in closest touch with Mr. Chamberlain. He has been warmly—though not publicly—thanked for his useful advice. He was also in close touch with the President, and there is reason to believe that it was on the basis of the information received from Mr. Kennedy that the President sent his "peace" telegrams to Hitler, Mussolini and the other heads of Powers.

Last Wednesday Mr. Kennedy, who as Ambassador to Great Britain is the official spokesman in London of the United States Government, made a most remarkable speech. He suggested collaboration with the dictatorships and again raised the question of general limitation of armaments to be arrived at by general agreement. The whole speech seems to indicate that the President has not abandoned the idea he had many months ago, and launched again in his second note at the time of the Czechoslovak crisis, of some sort of international conference in which we also would participate.

But it would seem that if ever there was a time in history when the United States should keep its hands free and eyes strictly on its own interests, that moment is now. This country should sit down at no conferences with anyone until we have put our own house in order, until our capacity to defend the totality of our interests is unquestioned, and until whoever sits at that conference is backed up by the authority of arms and the support of a free, informed and united people, with a very clear policy of exactly what it is that we are prepared to defend. Every meeting so far with the dictatorships has meant unequivocal surrender, simply that and nothing more.

Peace on the terms of the dictators is a Carthaginian peace, and the price is our vital interests, our national and individual liberties and even our form of government.

Rescue of Poor Richard

Books in the News

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN was an apostle of thrift, the embodiment of prudence, a paragon of proper behavior, a shrewd and canny trader; a great man and a great patriot, to be sure, but on the whole a stolid, plain and preachy character; a blend of the two Carnegies, Andrew and Dale, plus a dash of Thomas Edison. That is the legendary Franklin as built up in the minds of many, doubtless because of too exclusive attention to the "Autobiography" and the bare outlines of history in the public schools.

The real Franklin was a wholly different figure. The full outline of his character and his career has long been available to historians, and to those who read the various biographies which research has made possible. Even so, it is still necessary "to rescue him from the dry, prim people who have claimed him as one of them," which is the purpose Carl Van Doren sets forth in the preface of his "Benjamin Franklin" (Viking Press, New York).

It is a lengthy work (845 pages) that Mr. Van Doren has produced after 10 years of labor, but he is writing after all about no ordinary single individual, but about "a harmonious human multitude." The book could easily have been three times as long, its author explains. From Franklin's beginning as an apprentice printer at 16 to his retirement from public affairs was a crowded and active span of 66 years. It is hence not surprising to be told that this biography was "cut with hard labor to the bone."

Any one of Franklin's careers would be a complete story in itself, could it be isolated from the close-knit fabric of his remarkable life. As business man and philosopher, inventor and diplomat, essayist and statesman, soldier and scientist, Postmaster-General and educator, publisher and philanthropist, he left his mark. Mr. Van Doren makes few critical appraisals and no psychological analyses. The facts are sufficient eulogy.

* * *

The facts alone rescue Poor Richard from the more celebrated of his maxims. He preached thrift, but Franklin admitted he could never acquire that virtue, and abandoned the effort when poverty no longer made it necessary. The exemplar of prudence took the greatest risks in co-leadership of a revolution at the age of 70. The ascetic of the "Autobiography" came to love the companionship of the tavern group and the gay women of the French court. The sober philosopher relished a good joke and a racy exchange of repartee.

Said Poor Richard in his almanac of just 200 years ago: "If you would not be forgotten as soon as you are dead and rotten, either write things worth reading or do things worth the writing." Ben Franklin met both requirements. Mr. Van Doren does, as he set out to do, "herewith give him back, in his grand dimensions, to his nation and the world," in a monumental study that will certainly be a strong contender for the next Pulitzer Prize in biography. THE 3000 closely printed, hard-to-read pages of the ordinary Bible have been reduced to 300, clearly legible, in Peter V. Ross' "A Digest of the Bible" (Prentice-Hall, Inc., New York). The long genealogical tables and wordy repetitions are cut out, leaving interest centered on the important episodes from the story of creation to the imagery of Revelation. It is not a rewriting, for the language is the King James version. The editor is a Bible lecturer. I. D.

EIGHTH INSTALLMENT

"WE OR THEY"

TWO WORLDS IN CONFLICT

By HAMILTON FISH ARMSTRONG
EDITOR OF "FOREIGN AFFAIRS"

MR. ARMSTRONG, in today's installment of this republication of his book, goes on with a discussion of America and the League of Nations. In yesterday's installment he clinched his evidence that the dictator countries refuse to be bound by any agreement. He then launched into the United States' refusal to join the League. He underlined the fact that most isolationists (in the United States) "neither in 1920 nor today" have faced realistically "the doubt whether the American people would not again fight if during another protracted war between great nations a number of American citizens lost their lives on the high seas and the whole American economy collapsed as a result of belligerent interference with American commerce." The text continues:

V (Continued).
INSURANCE.

THE plea to sabotage the League had a strong appeal—strong proportionately as the public was tired of responsibility and idealism.

Many leaders of the campaign against it were too old to care or too ignorant to understand that the world had changed—still was changing—and with it the foreign problems even of the mightiest nations. They had no inkling, even after the Russian revolution and the toppling over of so many old thrones and powers, that a new era of social and economic experimentation was beginning, and that it was bound to color political procedures and the relationships of governments.

Nothing to Them.

It was nothing to them that the war had hurried science ahead to plow new channels of attack under the seas and through the air, to devise new and immensely deadly instruments for spreading death and destruction, and to catch all the peoples of the earth together in a new network of communications. So much of this would have been beyond their comprehension even if they had stopped to notice it.

And they did not do so, any more than they noticed that the sapping of European financial and material resources and the stimulation of American production had reversed our former relationship to other countries, that we no longer were a debtor but a creditor nation, that now we must reorganize our foreign trade, import as well as export, and gradually revamp our domestic economy to protect our enormous new interests abroad and to maintain our standard of living at home.

All this was beyond the comprehension of those who overrode the sober and experienced statesmen of both parties, smashed the proposal for American participation in the League (incidentally ending the League's hope of becoming a universal system), and gave the country the Harding-Coolidge era and sky-high tariffs and a self-contained prosperity which was as specious as the comfortably restored sense of political isolation in which everyone again began basking. War? "Never again!" "Forget it!" "We're busy!"

Surviving Sense of Idealism.

Despite all the frenzy and confidence of the post-war era there still existed an American sense of idealism which felt frustrated and which kept on demanding that "something be done" to help stabilize world peace. But after the gleaming heights of Wilson's trajectory the plans with which surviving "internationalists" busied themselves seemed rather flat compromises with the isolationist viewpoint.

As time went on they put their principal energies (apart from educational work about the activities of the League) into the agitation in favor of joining the World Court and the movement to "outlaw war." The Court is a higaly valuable institution, though is not likely in itself to prevent great wars; membership in it would not constitute a political entanglement or involve the compulsory submission of disputes involving vital national interests. Every President and Secretary of State since the Court was founded has urged that the United States join. But Congress has never agreed.

The movement to outlaw war was more successful. It produced the Kellogg Pact, signed Aug. 27, 1928, by 15 governments and afterwards extended to include practically all the nations of the globe.

International Mystification.

In the light of experience we are entitled to believe that the Kellogg Pact was a contribution less to world peace than to international mystification. And today we probably would be encouraging the nations to adopt a more realistic attitude toward aggression if we admitted that Japan and Italy had shown the Pact to be useless, and if (since we still are unwilling to help equip it with "teeth") we gave formal notice that no American riposte was to be expected to states which flagrantly violated it. We would, moreover, remove ourselves from a rather invidious position. (See Footnote 1 at end of installment).

Similar considerations arise in connection with instruments like the Anti-War Treaty signed at Rio de Janeiro Oct. 10, 1933, which in general terms commits its signatories not to recognize the fruits of aggression (Footnote 2). Does its generous phraseology imply obligations which we would hesitate to carry out in all circumstances? Can anyone conceive of its tangled provisions for ad hoc conciliation commissions being in the least effective in a serious crisis? If there is doubt on either point we probably would be acting in the interest of unambiguous international relations, and hence of peace, if we disassociated ourselves from the undertaking.

Not only should the United States avoid giving any impression of undertaking responsibilities which it will not execute; it should also refrain from saying it will not do things which it might do, and where possible it should make clear the things it definitely stands for and will uphold.

Important Ifs.

If, for example, we can imagine conditions in which the American people would be stung into fighting for a cause less direct than the defense of their own shores, then we should not give anti-war pledges which might have the effect of encouraging other nations to take actions which would in fact precipitate us into war.

If we have not yet found a comprehensive definition of our neutral rights which promises to withstand the strain of practical application in the event of a major war abroad, then we would be helping the cause of general peace as well as increasing the likelihood that we could ourselves escape becoming involved if we took great care that in relinquishing untenable or unessential "rights" we did not weaken any which in actual practice we might have to defend.

If we are determined to maintain the principle of "America for the Americans" against any European or Asiatic attempt to acquire political power in the Western Hemisphere, then we should put the Monroe Doctrine on a multilateral basis (Footnote 3) as soon as possible and suggest to Canada that she associate herself with it on that basis.

Although the great 1920 argument over America's proper relationship to other nations still continues the isolationist viewpoint still prevails. Are there any indications of its being either more or less complacent and invincible than it was at the start?

U. S. Directly Concerned.

Two of the great post-war crises revealed that although the United States Government had refused to join in the formal collective effort to protect international law and promote international security it nevertheless realized that those general objects concerned it directly. On both occasions the State Department tried ad hoc to harmonize its efforts with the procedure of other nations possessing similar interests and aims.

Thus in February, 1932, Secretary Stimson offered the British Government to proceed under the Nine-Power Treaty in an effort to preserve Chinese territorial integrity, a problem with which the League Council was then vainly grappling; it was Sir John Simon who held back. (Footnote 4).

Again, in the autumn of 1935 Secretary Hull hastened to clear away possible American impediments to Geneva's projected action against Italy, only to find that Great Britain and France, the Powers chiefly responsible for League policy, had no real intention of making their threats effective. (Footnote 5). The American Government's effort to throw its weight on the side of treaty enforcement failed in each case; but so far as the American public understood these efforts it apparently approved them. American opinion had at any rate become less blindly isolationist than it was in the days when the State Department was afraid even to acknowledge letters bearing the Geneva postmark.

An Instructive Reaction.

The popular reaction to the Roosevelt administration's course on the second occasion was particularly instructive. So long as the League gave an impression of sincerity and firmness (i. e., before the Hoare-Laval proposals of Dec. 9, 1935) there was every evidence that the American public, represented by "isolationist" as well as "internationalist" members of Congress, were ready to support the Roosevelt administration energetically in requiring American exporters and shippers to avoid any activity which would put the United States in the position of interfering with or being involved in the League policy of sanctions.

For once an American President found something like agreement among the main groups of American opinion actively interested in avoiding war (Footnote 6).

The volte face of Hoare and Laval put a stop to this harmony. And American chagrin over what was considered as Franco-British repudiation of the League (leaving the United States Government out on the limb) was not in the least assuaged when British public opinion forced Hoare into a humiliating resignation or, not long after, when Premier Laval also fell.

The upshot was that Americans tended to draw back very far indeed into their shell. But until Dec. 9 America was closer to Europe than at any time in 15 years.

The ninth installment of this republication of Mr. Armstrong's book will be printed tomorrow.

The United States ratified adherence June 27, 1934. Italy, incidentally, adhered March 14, 1934, though she did not ratify adherence.

3—In 1925 Secretary Hughes suggested a compromise between the view that the Monroe Doctrine should be multilaterally enforced and the view that we must continue to consider it as a unilateral declaration in order that we may act under it independently in case our interests are jeopardized by European or Asiatic imperialism. He proposed that each American republic announce the Monroe Doctrine as its own individual policy, safeguarding thereby the dignity and freedom of action of each state, yet giving the Doctrine a Pan-American sanction. And what information did the British Embassy in Washington give the British Foreign Office to justify Prime Minister Baldwin's statement on June 20, 1936, that it had been found impossible to impose oil sanctions for "the plain reason" that there were no grounds to suppose that the United States would refrain from supplying Italy with all the oil she needed?

DENTISTS' 80TH ANNUAL MEETING OPENS TOMORROW

About 6000 Members of American Association Expected to Attend Sessions Here.

The eightieth annual meeting of the American Dental Association, which is expected to bring about 6000 dentists to St. Louis, will open tomorrow morning with general registration at Municipal Auditorium and the first session of the association's House of Delegates at Hotel Statler.

Although the general meetings and the scientific sections will not be open until Tuesday morning, most of the more than 300 scientific, commercial and individual exhibits will be in place at the Auditorium. The House of Delegates, governing body of the association, will meet twice tomorrow, principally to consider reports of officers, the introduction of new legislation and the recommendations of committees.

Advance meetings of the association's Board of Trustees and sessions of several allied dental organizations began Friday. First meetings of several groups, including the American Association of Dental Editors and the National Association of Dental Examiners, began yesterday at Hotel Statler.

Mayor to Address Meeting.

Mayor Dickmann and representatives of the Missouri State Dental Association and the St. Louis Dental Society will speak at the first general meeting Tuesday morning, and will be followed by Dr. C. Willard Camalier of Washington, president of the association. Scientific sections, including sessions on operative dentistry, dentures, oral surgery, orthodontia and children's dentistry, will begin at 2:30 p. m.

Many of the papers presented will carry out the meeting's theme, "Dental Health for American Youth." Announcement will be made of the winners of a poster contest in which several hundred thousand school children participated, and a large part of the exhibit area will be given over to exhibits devoted exclusively to oral problems of children.

Convention speakers will include Major-General Charles R. Reynolds, Surgeon-General of the United States Army; Miss Katherine F. Lenroot, head of the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor; Dr. F. C. Cady of the United States Public Health Service. Dr. E. Wilfred Fish, London, physician and dentist, will speak on "Bone Infections" at the second general meeting Tuesday night.

Field of Developments.

An extensive clinical program, covering all recent developments in the field of dentistry, will begin Thursday with sections on operative dentistry, dentures, oral surgery, pyorrhetic ailments and orthodontia. Virtually the entire program for Friday will be devoted to clinics.

The House of Delegates will elect new officers and trustees at its meeting Thursday. Several dentists said yesterday that the house probably would consider some legislation designed to restrict the practice in specialties to dentists qualified by special training. The 259 delegates represent dentists in all the states, the army and navy, Puerto Rico, Panama and Hawaii.

Curley Running Again in Massachusetts

carefully trained. It adds to the warmth of his personality. In conversation it is low, sympathetic, at times dramatic. In a speech it may play softly upon the strings of sentimentality, rise suddenly to a challenging bugle call.

The Jim Curley of today uses the traditional Boston accent—broad A and all—but in times of stress he sometimes relapses into the vernacular of the hard-bitten ward in which he got his start when he was a young ward politician trying to get along. Fatherless at 10, he aided in supporting his mother and brothers, worked by day, studied by night. Today he is urbane, suave, fond of quoting Shakespeare, usually citing play, scene and act, has observed that "you can generally get something from him (Shakespeare) to put on an opponent."

Up the "Escalator."

His political career was up what is known here as the "escalator," from the common council in 1900, to the State House of Representatives two years later, through two terms as Congressman in 1911-15 when he gained national attention by his vehement espousal of Champ Clark for the presidential nomination. He is the father of four sons and a daughter, by his first wife, who died in 1931. He married again in an elaborate ceremony two hours before his retirement as Governor, Jan. 7, 1937. He is devoted to his family, pays pilgrimages to the grave of his first wife who was his "balance wheel" during years of struggle.

His hospitality is fabulous, akin to that dispensed by "Diamond Jim" Brady, host of the gay nineties. Drinks, meals, cigars, are always on Jim. Even in his lavishly furnished home he is as generous. He has sponsored huge charitable dinners, contributed to welfare activities, made dramatic political exhibitions of personal largess. He also has performed many a private deed of kindliness known only to himself and the recipient.

He loves pomp and pageantry. During the 1936 senatorial campaign he marched in a parade, appeared to be overwhelmed as pretty girls thrust bouquets upon him. It developed later that the girls and flowers were provided in advance—by Curley. Usually he marches in political parades, but when forced to use a car, as at the annual Bunker Hill day celebration, is prone to pass out icecream and flowers as he goes along.

Some of his conceptions are naive, to say the least. While Mayor he had occasion often to present the key to the city to visiting dignitaries. Staid Bostonians were shocked when it developed the key had concealed within it a corkscrew and bottle opener with a pencil and match scratcher to boot. He sent a city flag to Mussolini, whom he admires because, as he remarked to the writer, "he put courage into the hearts of his people."

Leaves Trail of Dollars.

He used to keep a drawer of silver dollars in his desk, generally carries them now, leaves a trail of them wherever he goes. When a woman approaches, especially if she is elderly, homely, needy, or all three, he exclaims: "Ah, a woman should have both beauty and money—now you have both," handing her a dollar.

With a heritage of Irish blarney he is never at a loss. Once the widow of a Civil War veteran introduced him as "Mayor Frank Curley," then became overwhelmed with embarrassment. Instantly, the Curley arm was flung about her shoulders, the Curley voice, mellow as an organ, soothed: "No, mother, you made no error, you paid me a compliment. I have been called many things in my public career, but no one ever could say Jim Curley wasn't frank."

His hand is always in his pocket although he sometimes embarrasses mendicants by taking them to a barber shop and seeing to it they get a bath, shave, haircut and manicure. Frequently he will encounter a shabbily dressed child, take him to a store, outfit the youngster from head to foot. And at Christmas time, without disclosing his plans, he journeyed to the humble flat where the Curley family was brought up, and gave the present occupants a dinner.

Packs a Punch on Occasion.

As has been indicated, he isn't always suave. He can bluff and call a bluff. When necessary he may deliver a lusty punch at an opponent. He has done so on occasion. In 1931, during his last term as Mayor, a bank refused a $5,000,000 loan to meet the city payroll. Curley threatened to have the Department of Public Works break the water main and flood the bank's vaults; he added that he would cause a run on the bank by withdrawing city funds, make out relief checks on it, and tell the populace over the radio the bank was "unfair."

The astonished officers remonstrated such a procedure would be illegal. Curley retorted tartly that he had looked up the law, was prepared to go to jail, if necessary—he had been there before. He got the loan—at a lower interest rate than he first asked for.

His jail term was in 1903, when he served two months for impersonating another man in taking a civil service examination. With his knack for turning adversity into victory, which has clung to him all his life, he capitalized the incident. He told the writer, "I took the examination for a poor man with a houseful of children who couldn't have passed it, but would have made a much better letter carrier than I would have been."

One of the many times he has been counted out politically illustrates this happy faculty. In 1932 the Massachusetts Democratic delegation was for Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York for the presidency. Curley, who had ingratiated himself with Roosevelt after striking up an acquaintance with him on a train the year before, wasn't for Smith. So he wasn't even a member of the delegation.

On Roosevelt Band Wagon.

But he went to the convention, left this city, his political stronghold, discredited, a mere spectator. But he emerged a conquering hero, marched between crowds five deep. Why? A Puerto Rican delegate had become ill; Curley obtained his place; acted as spokesman for Puerto Rico; cast the delegation's vote for Roosevelt; was acclaimed as picking a winner; feted there; known as "Senor Curley." Then he stumped Pennsylvania and the Midwest for Roosevelt.

He hastened to capitalize. He asked the nominee for post of Secretary of the Navy, he told the writer, asserting it was promised him, but went elsewhere. Then he tried to be Ambassador to Italy. The President tried to put him off, but he literally camped at the White House doorsteps, presented representations he would be acceptable to the Italian Government, he said, when the President indicated he would not be.

Finally, in 1933, he was offered the Ambassadorship to Poland. He declined, giving as his public reason that there were 125,000 persons obtaining aid in Boston "without a bread line" and his first duty was to "those people who have kept me in public office 33 years." It is betraying no confidence, however, to observe that Curley felt he was being shelved by President Roosevelt.

Some Anecdotes.

This correspondent traveled with Curley, visited him in his home, watched him in action. He speedily evidenced his human qualities. Once, a beggar asked for "a dime to buy a glass of beer."

Again when walking to court, a sweatered supplicant pressed close. Curley espied a Saltonstall badge on him. He tore it off, dashed it to the sidewalk, exclaimed: "Sure, you're lucky not to get a bust in the jaw."

Curley, who is president of a savings bank but whose business activities are nominal, is aware of the gossip concerning his income, dismisses it as inspired by envious enemies. The writer remarked that it was common report he would "take the fillings out of a man's teeth" and the former Governor replied: "Well, I put them in."

So personal is his organization and so persistent are ward-heelers of the garden variety that he obtains a series of unlisted rooms at a downtown hotel—and is besieged even then. His home is no longer his castle. Campaign posters mar the effects of Oriental rugs, on which he has become an authority, aids are constantly arriving or telephoning.

Recipe for Political Success.

Claiming to have formulated the major social concepts of the New Deal prior to its inception, Curley gave the writer his recipe for political success. It is: "Work harder than the other fellow and devote as much time as possible to economics."

Like Pendergast and Crump he feels that politics is a business, but he also deems it a science—the science of government and the science of human nature.

"It is not a vocation for amateurs," Curley remarked, "for no experienced public official finds difficulty in attending to his duties. The reformer is imposed on. Usually he succeeds only in increasing taxes with nothing to show for it."

Although feeling that jobs are legitimate rewards for political activity and admiring the machine organization perfected by his friend, Frank Hague, New Jersey boss, Curley feels that civil service requirements are limiting political rewards. Also he thinks they lead to mediocrity.

"I wonder just how much longer people will continue to do active work without any chance of reward except for the candidate himself?" he mused ruefully. An awakening social consciousness, he thinks, may stimulate workers, envisioning a desertion from "Republican reactionary ranks." Younger Democrats, he thinks, are "more progressive" in their ideas than the Socialists 10 years ago.

Curley thinks the day of deliverable machines is passing. He observed that "people are thinking and voting as they please; the radio is changing votes all the time."

"The day of delivery whether by money or politicians has gone," he remarked, "and the day of changing votes at the polls with money, liquor, that sort of thing, has gone by. For the first time in my political career I had no paid workers at the polls at the last primary."

Rewarding Political Allies.

Political allies are entitled to State contracts, he continued, other things being equal, adding:

"The loyal member always has got it. He always will. It would be hypocrisy to say otherwise. It would be misguided altruism to expect otherwise."

Curley thinks the man who hopes to succeed in politics must "study economics." In the past, he said, organized labor drafted "humanitarian laws." Now, with an increase in labor's ranks and the general population, "it is too great a task to delegate."

"The majority in control for 300 years," he said, "has become a minority. The only way it may control is by controlling the channels of information, the press, the radio, even the pulpit, and by dividing foreign-born factions, adhering to the Roman adage of 'divide and rule.'"

Curley, who told the writer he would never "quit" because politics "got in the blood," exemplified one of his methods later in the evening when he told Italian Society delegates that "one group of control had controlled the State for 150 years," treating them as "scum." He promised a "fair shake" for the "newer races," and received a tremendous ovation.

Later, at a town hall meeting at Danvers, he spoke of social problems, praised Roosevelt, advocated increased old-age pensions, said families would then regard a jobless father not as the "old man" but "father, dear."

No matter what his campaign, Curley pays a visit to each of the 22 Boston wards the day before the election. And he invariably winds up in the ward where he got his start. It has become a political rite.

Such a man is contradictory Jim Curley, impetuous, calculating, sentimental, brazen.

in 1936 of the first AAA law. He said the farmers had planted about 7,000,000 more acres than they had been planting under the old AAA. Acreage for 1934, 1935 and 1936, respectively, under the original AAA, was 26,987,000, 27,640,000 and 30,028,000. Before 1932 around 40,000,000 was an average acreage, with usual production of 12,000,000 to 14,000,000 bales.

At one point in the interview at Springfield, Secretary Wallace suggested that the South's serious economic problem would remain as long as that area insisted on making cotton its principal crop. He was asked what the effect would be on farmers of other areas if the South turned to corn and wheat. He did not think this was even remotely likely, dismissing it with a wave of the hand and the question: "Have you ever been in the South?" He told an audience of Illinois corn farmers that acreage of corn in the South this year was less than in 1933.

Taking note of the fact that domestic consumption of cotton fell off this year by about 2,000,000 bales, Secretary Wallace said in his Fort Worth speech, "the real reason for the decline, of course, was the business recession." He sees signs now of a rise in consumption.

AAA Between Two Fires.

The current low prices of cotton and other farm products have led to a double-barreled attack on the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. On the one hand there is a cry for complete abolition of all crop control plans, permitting the farmers to return to a production system whose only limitations would be self-regulation, and on the other hand is a demand for price-fixing, guaranteeing a definite return above the cost of production for that part of crops consumed domestically. There has been a demand, too, especially from Southern Congressmen, for an increase in the loan rate of cotton.

Wallace takes a position between the extremes, holding that fixed prices would inevitably lead to great over-production, and that a loan rate substantially higher than the market price would keep American cotton out of the export market.

"For one thing," he said, "what if the loan makes it impossible for cotton growers to keep the export markets they now have?

"As we found out in 1934, at the time of the 12-cent loan, our foreign competitors may undersell us if we do not let our cotton flow freely into export trade. And a foreign market once lost is difficult to win back.

"For another thing, are cotton growers not simply piling up future agony for themselves if the Government takes their cotton at the loan value and accumulates a big supply which must be got rid of sometime?

"If the scheme of making loans at high rates should be combined with the encouragement of unlimited production, cotton growers would find themselves in no time in a fix that by comparison would make the Farm Board mess seem like a Sunday School picnic."

New Uses for Cotton.

Wallace discussed methods by which cotton consumption might be increased, with benefit to the producers. The AAA was trying to find and encourage new uses for cotton. He mentioned experiments in use of cotton for reinforcing highway surfacing, as a substitute for jute in certain kinds of bags, as a fabricated lining for irrigation ditches, as a principal material for construction of houses, especially for roofing and siding.

Use for purposes already well established might be expanded, he said. He mentioned the millions of families unable to buy sufficient clothing, bedding and other household goods, principally of cotton.

"The existence of this potential market waiting to be filled is a fact of vital importance to the cotton farmer," he said.

He mentioned the "chemurgic" movement as possibly opening up new industrial uses for cotton through chemical treatment. But in the next breath he restated the unsolved problem of cotton. He said:

"But not all chemurgic developments are in the direction of increased use of cotton. One new process was patented recently by the great chemical interests sponsoring the chemurgic movement and is already being used on a big scale by one leading tire manufacturing company. This process apparently will mean the substitution of rayon for cotton in tire manufacture. . . . This single development is likely to reduce the market for cotton more than the total increase from all new outlets I have mentioned."

GERMANY WITHDRAWS PERMIT FOR JEWS TO GO TO AFRICA

Group's Passports Canceled at Last Moment Because Colonial Question Is Unsettled.

WINDHOEK, Southwest Africa, Oct. 22.—German authorities have forbidden a party of Jews to travel from Germany to Southwest Africa because they were unwilling to allow Jews to settle in the former German colonies until settlement of the colonial question, it was reported tonight.

German authorities were said to have canceled the passports of the Jews at the last moment after the party previously had obtained authorization for the trip from both Berlin and Southwest African authorities.

Southwest Africa now is mandated to the union of South Africa, a British dominion.

The speaking engagements of United States Senator Bennett C. Clark, Democratic nominee for re-election, will include two appearances in Illinois. At the request of the Illinois Democratic Committee, he will speak at Peoria next Saturday and at La Salle on Oct. 31.

Senator Clark's Missouri engagements include speeches Tuesday at Lebanon, Wednesday at Nevada and Thursday at Clinton.

ONLY TWO WAYS TO AID RAILROADS, SURVEY DECLARES

Twentieth Century Fund Says Roads Must Reorganize or Government Must Rescue Them.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—In a survey of the debt structure of the railroads, the Twentieth Century Fund, in a report made public today, forecast that "unless some unexpected change for the better soon sets in, it is virtually certain that we must have either wholesale reorganization, or some sort of Government rescue party."

Other public utilities, except electric railways, the report added, "appear to have maintained a fairly liquid position through the depression."

The railroad report of the Twentieth Century Fund—an independent organization for social and economic research endowed by the late Edward A. Filene—is part of a three-year study of the nation's post-war debt structure by the fund's committee on debt adjustment.

"Economic Old Age."

Declaring the incomplete revival of railroads during the recovery period "suggests strongly that there must be some fundamental change in their operating conditions before they can hope to earn a reasonable return on their present capitalization," the report continues:

"Over 28 per cent of railway mileage is already in receivership as compared with 2 per cent in 1928, and ultimate losses to creditors are likely to be heavy. The assumption that railroads have perpetual earning power is not as credible as it used to be, and the financing of railways on this assumption has reached the point of breakdown.

"The feeling of stockholders is shown by the fact that prices of railway stocks fell in June, 1938, to one-third their level of March, 1937, while industrial stocks stood at nearly two-thirds of their 1937 peak. Certain officials are on record as believing that revenues can be increased only by raising rates—a counsel of despair, since higher rates will discourage shippers. At least one critic suggests that the railroads are entering their period of economic old age, and that their failure to pay off debts while they had adequate earnings may make it necessary to write off many debts later on."

Default on Bond Interest.

Referring to the "wholesale default" on railway bond interest, the report said that at the end of 1936, matured unpaid interest on debts of class 1 railroads amounted to $630,000,000, of which $400,000,000 had accumulated since 1929.

With low prices for railroad bonds in lean years, it became difficult, if not impossible at times, to sell new bonds for refunding purposes.

"However," the report continued, "in 1936, railway bond prices rose and market conditions for new issues were relatively favorable. Over $700,000,000 of railway bonds were floated, principally for refunding, though again the weaker bonds were unable to take advantage and the amount of past due principal rose to $580,000,000. But early in 1937 bond prices turned downward. By October, railroad bonds were priced below the 1935 average and at the low point in June, 1938, they stood at less than half their high level of 1937. This development checked refinancing. Down to the end of 1937, however, this apparently did not lead to any great increase of past-due principal. . . .

"The barrier to reorganization is, of course, precisely the desperate condition of railway finance which make reorganization desirable."

Other Utilities Hold Their Own.

In contrast to the plight of railroads, the Fund's report commented that other public utilities as a group—telephone and telegraph companies, gas and water companies, electric railways and a miscellany of motor transport firms, pipe lines, broadcasting companies, etc.—"seem to have kept their positions fairly, liquid during the slump."

During the depression, the situation as regards bonds of this group paralleled the experience of high-grade railway bonds. The situation, however, has shown rapid improvement since 1933, with the exception of electric railway bonds.

Negligible Changes in Stock List in Absence of Determined Leadership With Profits Being Taken on Upturn

Rail Division About Only Group to Hold Gains Steadily During Week—Average Up .41 Point.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The stock market churned within reaching distance of the year's high level this week, but profit taking and absence of any determined group leadership held net changes in most cases to negligible figures.

To some followers of the chart theories, prices seemed to be forming a base near the tops set Oct. 13 from which to make eventually a new line up or down. Traders who have been waiting all this month for a "corrective reaction" failed to find it as volume dwindled on the dips.

The week's budget of news likely to affect security transactions was about as favorable as any since the "peace of Munich" ended the European war threat. The standard bellwethers which usually point market action, however, were superseded in their leadership by lower priced shares, specialties and "bargains" among stocks usually more or less inactive.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .5 of a point at 53.1, a new top since Oct. 7, 1937. On the week the composite was ahead only .2. The Dow-Jones average of 65 stocks was .65 higher for Saturday and .41 up for the week.

Heavy buying in aircrafts and steels touched off a brisk upswing among other industrial leaders in today's market and enabled the list to finish the week with a modest net advance despite earlier setbacks.

Aircrafts Lead Rising List.

Gains for the day ran to more than 3 points, but best marks were chipped down in most cases near the close as profit takers put on a little more pressure. Numerous issues hit new highs for more than a year in the two-hour upswing which, for a while, put the ticker tape behind.

Although aviation issues were popular throughout the week on further expectations of a huge national rearmament program, they found fresh stimulation in the action of Douglas Aircraft directors after yesterday's session in voting a $3 dividend, the first since September, 1935, when 75 cents was paid. The board also announced nine months' earnings were the best in the history of the company.

Steels, inclined to hang back in the forepart of the week, leaped forward today. Motors were in the van following word from Chrysler that salary cuts instituted last March had been restored.

Oils Give Ground.

Most utilities and rails held to a slim groove and oils gave ground slightly.

Transfers for today were 1,126,530 shares.

Bonds pushed upward, but commodities were uneven. Wheat at Chicago was off ¼ to ⅝ of a cent a bushel and corn unchanged to ⅜ lower. Cotton gained 5 to 65 cents a bale. Sterling and the French franc were down moderately in terms of the dollar.

Sales, closing price and net change of 15 most active stocks today: United States Steel, 27,300 shares, 65⅝, up 2½; Reo Motors, 27,000, 3¼, up ½; Gen. Motors, 23,600, 51½, up ⅝; Loft, 22,900, 7¾, unchanged; Beth. Steel, 22,200, 67, up 3; United Aircraft, 19,000, 35, up 1½; Republic Steel, 17,900, 20⅝, up ⅞; Interlak. Iron, 16,800, 13⅞, up ⅞; North American Avia, 15,300, 14⅝, up ½; Radio, 15,100, 8⅞, unchanged; Int. Paper & Pow., 14,300, 11⅞, up ⅜; Nat. Lead, 14,200, 28¼, up 1¼; Curtiss-Wright, 13,900, 7, up ¼; Youngst. Sh. & T., 13,500, 49½, up 2⅝; Douglas Airc., 13,000, 61, up 2⅞.

About the only group to hold gains steadily throughout the week was the rail division, stimulated by hopes the pending wage controversy would soon be settled, that remedial legislation to help the carriers out of their difficulties would be ready for the regular sesison of Congress, and a jump in carloadings to the highest level since last November.

Bonds, Too, Go Sidewise.

A dip of 2 points in the steel mill operating rate, bringing it to 49.4 per cent of capacity, depressed the steels, and while cancelation of recent price cuts on sheets for the automobile trade induced a brief rally, it failed to restore the division to its top rank in the list. Aircraft, rubbers, mail orders and specialties were in demand, but achieved little progress as buying dried up near the high resistance point. A report the President favored extension of regulation in the oil industry to refining gave the oils a brief ride.

Bonds, like stocks, were inclined to go sidewise. Rail liens benefited in line with the big board action but utilities lost some of their buoyancy and industrial and foreign obligations ended about where they began. U. S. Government issues registered slight gains in rather dull trading. New financing totaled the best since July, 1937, to small premiums.

Third Quarter Earnings.

The nation's industrial activity quickened during the week. The Associated Press index, with 1929-30 equaling 100, advanced to 80.7 from 79.7, due largely to a big boost in automobile output to a new high for the year, a more than seasonal increase in electric power production and the jump in freight carloadings. Steel and cotton mill operations declined slightly. Employment in the automotive trades increased as General Motors, Chrysler and a number of smaller units announced revision upward of production schedules.

Third quarter earnings statements, which appeared in a flood, showed considerable improvement over those for the second quarter and narrowed the spread under last year. A compilation by the Associated Press showed that net of the first 64 companies to report was 42 per cent under the 1937 comparative against 62 per cent under for the second quarter and 50 per cent for the first nine months.

Despite failure of the price level to advance or retreat definitely, stock market transactions for the week were in about the heaviest volume for any similar period since last July. There were a number of days when sales approached the 2,500,000 mark, with the aggregate figure for the week running close to 12,000,000 shares compared with 8,981,000 in the preceding six days.

As volume increased brokerage houses began installing time clocks in preparation for the effective date of the Wages and Hours bill on Monday, when overtime must be recorded and paid for. Most houses were represented as feeling present clerical staffs could handle the current amount of business without much overtime, taking into consideration the fact that since reorganization of the Exchange, only two settlement days a week are provided for.

COMMODITY PRICES IN MODERATE RISE

Farm Staples Set Pace—Index at 66.99 Per Cent of 1926 Average.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Commodity prices advanced moderately this week, with farm staples setting the pace.

Improved sentiment toward agricultural items stemmed largely from talk in the trade of increased Government support for the major crops, rather than any betterment in the statistical position of grains, cotton and livestock.

Although the Department of Agriculture has not definitely exposed its hand in the case of particular commodities, the feeling has grown that further curtailment in production and some form of loan to keep grains off the market have been under consideration.

Corn, wheat and rye prices continued the slow advances started the week before, while oats fell back slightly. Cotton moved up to a new peak for the current rally.

Rise in Index.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 important wholesale commodities rose to 66.99 per cent of the 1926 average this week from 66.50, and compared with 82.09 in the like period last year.

The index continued to swing within the same narrow range that bounded it since late June. Sharp gains in industrial staples during the past three months have been offset by equally precipitous declines in livestock and other agricultural items, holding the index within the 66-67 level for 28 weeks.

Hides were up sharply to 14 cents a pound, the best price since early in the year and 55 per cent above the 9-cent level prevailing in June. The fast tempo of shoe production and well-maintained retail shoe demand were listed as reasons for the rally.

Other industrial staples were mixed: Turpentine and silk picked up, while rubber, steel scrap and linseed oil slipped back a bit.

Market-basket items drifted lower; sugar, cocoa, flour and lard concurring.

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY INDEX CONTINUES RISE

Reaches Highest Level Since November 1937—23 Pct. Above 5 Months Ago.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Industrial operations this week rose to the highest level since November, 1937.

The rising volume of fall business lifted the Associated Press seasonally adjusted index of industrial activity to 80.7 per cent of the 1929-30 average in the latest week for which data are available. This compared with 79.7 a week earlier and 94.4 last year.

In less than five months this measure of the business pulse has risen 23 per cent, one of the widest gains for a comparable period on record.

Freight carloadings continued to move in heavier volume as inventory-poor concerns released orders. The adjusted index again reached a new peak for the year.

Automobile assemblies advanced sharply as dealers reported smallest stocks of old models in six years. Retail demand was said in the trade to have been larger than expected.

Electric power output recovered further from the hurricane-born slump of last month.

Steel mill operations, however, dropped as price uncertainties curtailed demand. Cotton manufacturing activity also was down again, extending the declining trend to more than two months.

The index, with its seasonally adjusted components based on latest available statistics and with 1929-30 as 100, compared as follows:

Sterling Exchange Shows Stronger Trend in Terms of Dollar for Week

U. S. Government Gold Stocks Cross $14,000,000,000 Mark, 58 Per Cent of World's Total.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The British pound sterling tended stronger in terms of the dollar most of the week, although heavy selling, said to have been speculative in character, hit the currency on Thursday.

The French franc day by day generally followed the course of sterling.

The Swiss franc and the belga also tended higher. The Netherlands guilder, however, displayed easing tendencies.

During the week the United States Government's gold stock crossed the $14,000,000,000 mark for the first time in the nation's history. The end of the week saw this nation holding in its vaults over 58 per cent of the world's $24,000,000,000 monetary gold stock.

The flight of gold from abroad to the United States, which reached its height during the Czech-Sudeten crisis, showed tapering tendencies. Gold engaged abroad for shipment here during the week totaled $19,263,000, of which all but $800,000 was engaged in England. In the preceding week $30,872,000 gold was engaged abroad for shipment here.

A week-long wobbly rally in the British pound and French franc sputtered out in today's quiet foreign exchange dealings.

Most other leading foreign monies turned moderately lower in terms of the dollar. Sterling lost nine-sixteenths of a cent, and the French franc .00¼ of a cent. The Swiss franc was off .02 and the guilder .03 of a cent. The belga remained unchanged.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Foreign exchange closing rates follow: Great Britain in dollars, others in cents. LONDON, Oct. 22.—Improvement of ¼ cent in sterling terms was made by the United States dollar in foreign currency trading today. Closing 4.75⅝ to the pound, the rate contrasted with sterling at $4.76 7-16 in New York over night.

New York Bank Statement.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The weekly statement of the New York Clearing House today showed: Total surplus and undivided profits unchanged at $913,814,700; total net demand deposits (average) increased $160,308,000; time deposits (average) decreased $750,000; clearings week ending today $3,419,182,937; clearings week ending Oct. 15—(x)—$3,338,393,270.

METALS GENERALLY LESS ACTIVE IN WEEK

Steel Prices Threaten for Time to Be Disturbing Element in Industry.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. — Metal markets were generally less active the past week, although steel prices threatened for a time to be a disturbing element in the revival of that industry.

Copper, electrolytic, was unchanged at 11¼ cents a pound, valley, but scrap prices were reduced in line with the drop in export to around 11.15 cents. Easiness abroad followed withdrawal of all restrictions on foreign production, which was estimated to increase world output around 25,000 tons within the next several months.

Larger motor car production, building construction and general industrial demand kept the domestic market firm but business quieted. Sales of copper for the month so far were around 70,000 tons.

Recent shading of some strip and sheet steel products brought forth general cuts of $4 or more a ton early in the week which later, however, were rescinded. Production was off to just under 50 per cent of capacity for the week but late advices pointed to better schedules next week. Export demand was good.

Lead was unchanged at 5.10@15 cents New York and $4.95 East St. Louis. Sales last week were reported best for the year.

Zinc also was unchanged at 5.05 cents a pound East St. Louis. Although there was some buying, and the backlog of unfilled orders was the highest in some weeks, the market was quiet. Ore prices were up $1 a ton.

Tin dipped early in the week to 45¼ cents a pound but toward the close was firmer again at 45½ cents. Business was moderate despite the reported gain in galvanized sheet business due to the temporary price cut in that product.

Antimony, Chinese grade, was unchanged at 14 cents. Business was quiet.

COMMODITY MARKETS

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Most basic industrial raw materials tilted upward in major commodity markets.

Higher at New York were copper, lead, tin, rubber, hides and wool top futures, also cocoa and sugar futures. Zinc forward contracts held unchanged. Coffee futures moved unevenly. Cottonseed oil contracts tended easier. The silk market was closed.

RAILROAD BOND RISE IS FEATURE OF WEEK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A late lift in rail loans helped the bond market's tone last week after considerable aimless action in the earlier sessions.

Gossip in trading circles indicated the sellout was facing resistance in profit selling inspired by the sizeable rise that followed the Munich peace pact.

Nevertheless, quotations generally held to a steady range aided in part, no doubt, by an impressive run of business news, topped by General Motors announcement of important re-employment and restoration of salary cuts instituted last February.

Also helping to supply a good investment background was a revival of activity in the new security market. Sharing the spotlight were offerings of $55,000,000 Ohio Power 3¼s and $50,000,000 of Public Service Co. of Northern Illinois 3½s. Underwriting circles reported both issues were well taken.

The revival of buying interest in rails followed a week or so of reactionary movements in which prices backed down quite a little from the early October highs. The downturn was accompanied by reports of selling by holders who were pessimistic on the changes for an amicable adjustment of the long drawn out wage controversy.

On the recovery, however, sentiment veered toward the idea the matter would be worked out on a basis acceptable to managements and labor. As a further stimulus to demand for carriers' issues trading circles pointed to new gains in carloadings and estimates of a considerable rise in revenues over the next few months.

United States Government issues were traded in lightly in the listed market and prices moved on an even line, showing little change on the week.

Foreign loans fluctuated widely in some instances, but the pivotal groups were well supported.

The bond market maintained its forward drive with more vigor today, under leadership of a group of low-priced rails and selected industrials.

U. S. Governments were content to take a back seat, with trading almost at a standstill. Closing prices ranged from a gain of 5-32nds of a point to a drop of 4-32nds, with the majority on the losing end.

Brisk demand for Japanese Government and private bonds on the heels of a fresh Nipponese victory in the war with China featured the foreign division. The Government 5½s pushed up 2 points to 64, and the 6½s were 3 points higher over 82. With few exceptions, Central European obligations moved a shade upward.

The Associated Press average of 20 rails advanced .4 of a point to 60.5, reflecting new demand for carrire loans, following overnight digest of the favorable carloading news published yesterday.

Indeed in that fresh upswing for gains of major fractions to around 2 points were Nickel Plate 4½s at 45¼, Southern Rail's way 4s at 54¼, Alleghany stamped 5s at 38 and Illinois Central 4¾s at 54½.

Other domestic corporate loans boasting modest plus signs at the close included; Great Northern 4s of 1977, Union Pacific 2½s of 1975, Northern Pacific 4s and Erie 5s of 1975.

Volume cf $4,594,400, face value, compared with $4,684,500 in the short session last week.

FOREIGN DEMAND FOR DISTANT POSITIONS IN COTTON MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Foreign demand for distant positions lifted cotton prices today but near months lagged owing to December liquidation. December sold up from 8.45 to 8.48 and closed at 8.47, with final prices 1 to 13 points net higher.

The market opened evenly with the effects of steadier Liverpool cables balanced by hedge selling and liquidation. Early changes were irregular but next October deliveries soon developed firmness on persistent Bombay buying and on exchanging of long contracts from nearby positions forward. The late month strength imparted a generally steady tone, although December almost doubled the 8½-cent level. October showed the maximum gain of 13 points.

Commodity Credit Corporation reported 452,011 bales had been pledged to the cotton loan this week, making 1,391,604 for the season thus far. Amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the close of the week indicated at 83,000 bales against 223,000 last year and 113,000 two years ago.

Spot nominal; middling, 8.75.

A false move CAN STIR UP PLENTY OF TROUBLE!
THERE is only one right way to build a home. That way includes, among other things, the use of dry, on-grade lumber. Ask your builder about this. He will tell you that after the house is up, unseasoned lumber will shrink, and often cause plaster cracks, uneven, squeaky floors, and loose joints, and that these troubles are likely to last indefinitely. He will also tell you that dry, on-grade lumber saves time and expense during construction, and, therefore, costs no more than cheap lumber.

Two Pretentious Residences In County Are Purchased

H. S. Jamison Buys House in Southmoor and Edw. W. Morris Home in St. Louis Country Club Grounds.

The week in realty was featured by purchases in Southmoor and the St. Louis Country Club Grounds in St. Louis County.

H. S. Jamison has concluded negotiations for the purchase of the pretentious residence at 30 Southmoor drive, in Southmoor, Clayton, owned by interests represented by the First National Bank in the negotiations. Standing at the northwest corner of Big Bend boulevard, the house is one of the most striking in this development, which lies south of Wydown boulevard. Mary Potter Love, Inc., represented the purchaser.

The first floor consists of reception room, living room, dining room, breakfast room, with marble floors, kitchen and pantry. A marble stairway leads from the first to the second story.

On the second floor there, are two bedrooms, with two baths, master bedroom with bath in black Italian marble and gold, and two maids' rooms, with bath. A library mentioned as an attractive feature of this floor.

Additional rooms, including a billiard room, are on the third floor. There are also six cedar closets on this floor.

Much of the material entering into the construction of the house, including the marble, was imported. The reported cost of construction was $85,000, exclusive of the site. The price involved in the present transaction was not disclosed.

The grounds, comprising approximately an acre, are embellished with a sunken garden, shrubbery and exotic plants.

A substantial amount is to be expended by the purchaser in refurbishing and redecorating the house. Constructed of brick and concrete, with steel frames, the building is virtually fireproof.

Jamison was formerly a director of the International Shoe Co. with which he was connected for 25 years. Mr. and Mrs. Jamison will take possession of their new home as soon as the proposed improvements have been completed.

John S. Swift Inc. Acquires Two Three-Story Structures at Southwest Corner of Its Own Occupancy.

By Berry Moore

John S. Swift Co., Inc., has purchased two three-story adjoining buildings, occupying 69x155 feet, at the southwest corner of Twenty-first and Locust streets. The property was an asset of the Lafayette South Side Bank and Trust Co., which is being liquidated through the Manufacturers' Bank and Trust Co.

The Breitt & Naumer Realty Co. handled the transaction. No intimation as to the price paid was given. The property is assessed for tax purposes at $68,800.

Comprising approximately 40,000 square feet of usable floor space, the two buildings are available as a whole. Both structures were formerly owned and occupied by the Lambert-Deacon-Hull Printing Co. Enhanced by French facades, the buildings are among the most striking in this district. In 1929 the property was acquired under deed of trust for $80,000 by the Lafayette South Side Bank and Trust Co., the seller in the present transaction.

The Swift company has allotted a large amount for remodeling and equipping the buildings, which will replace its present quarters in the seven-story Von Hoffman Building at 105 South Ninth street. John S.

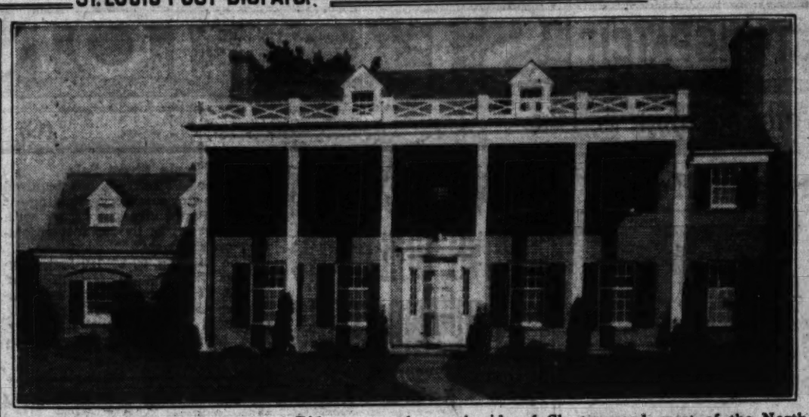
NOTEWORTHY DEMAND FOR LOTS IN HANLEY DOWNS

A noteworthy demand is reported for sites in Hanley Downs on the west side of Hanley road, south of Clayton road, Richmond Heights, on the part of prospective home builders. Five houses are now being erected in this addition by recent purchases of lots, while plans are under way for others.

The tract, comprising 35 acres, is being developed by the Roseton company of which Mrs. Helen R. Wickman is president and treasurer, and Miss Tonette Benson is vice-president. It has a large frontage on both Hanley and Eager roads, and extends along the southern line of Lake Forest. There are 72 lots, with a uniform frontage of 60 feet, in the subdivision.

The tract was originally part of the Gay estate, which also included Lake Forest, a development of 70 acres, adjoining on the north. The Ralston company purchased the property in 1937 from Fred E. Bausch.



Newly built Colonial residence at 4 Ridgetop on the south side of Clayton road, west of the North and South road, acquired by Harry Blanke from the Fred Ahlemeier Building Co. The Dimmitt-Rickhoff-Bayer Real Estate Co. effected the sale.

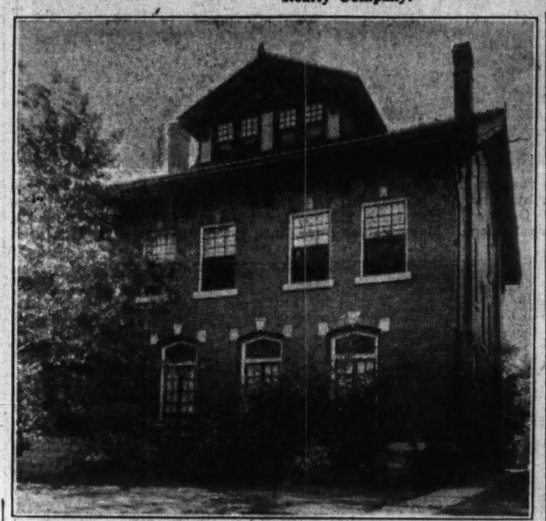
Residence of Colonial design at 6204 Marwinette avenue acquired by Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Bockrath from Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Monahan. M. A. Rust & Sons Realty Co. represented both interests.



Residence at 6310 Waterman avenue, purchased by Henry Stern, attorney, represented by Edward L. Bakewell, realtor, Inc. Mrs. Elizabeth Musick, the seller, was represented by Cornet & Zeibig, Inc.

NORTH GLENDALE PARK, SUBDIVISION, OPENED

Three of Eleven Houses Under Construction in New Addition Sold From Plans.

As an addition to Glendale Park, Arnold H. Maremont, president of the Fairfax Construction Co., announces the opening of North Glendale Park in Glendale, just north of Kirkham road, which runs east from Sappington road in St. Louis County.

Three of 11 medium priced houses under construction in the addition have been sold virtually from the plans. Colonial in design, and of brick construction, the houses are replete with attractive features.

The new development is subdivided into 60-foot lots. Building restrictions have been drawn, governing the style of architecture with a view to a harmonious whole.

The natural scenic beauty of the tract has not been altered in the subdivision. The houses stand against a background of trees. The development is within two blocks of the new Glendale School and is within walking distance of both shops and transportation facilities. It is served by a central sewer system.

The primary object of the developer is to build attractive country houses with all city conveniences for discriminating families. No lots will be offered for sale in the subdivision, which will be developed exclusively by Maremont.

The houses are being built under the supervision of the Federal Housing Administration, and will be available under its housing provisions.

In Industrial Center.

The purchase is in a center of large industrial interests. The extensive building of the Lambert Pharmacal Co. stands at the northwest, the seven-story factory of the Curlee Clothing Co. at the northeast corner and the seven-story building of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. at the southeast corner of Twenty-first and Locust streets.

The Swift acquisition is expected to revive speculative interest in realty on Locust street, west of Twelfth boulevard, which, prior to 1929, was one of the most buoyant sections of the real estate market.

Attention was focused on this center several months ago, when interests represented by the Kempland Realty Co., of which George Kempland, purchased the seven-story commercial building at 1723 Locust street. The purchase was made as a speculative investment, predicated on the possibilities of this section. This building has been remodeled at a large outlay.

Olive Street Purchase.

Ostensibly as a site for a new big building, John S. Swift, Inc., in 1936, purchased a quarter of a block of vacant ground at the southwest corner of Sixteenth and Olive streets from the Loop Realty Co., a holding company of the Franklin American Co., now being liquidated through the First National Bank of St. Louis.

Now used for parking purposes, the lot has a frontage of 153 feet on Olive street by a depth of 69 feet, extending to the east and west alley of the block. It is regarded as constituting a highly eligible site for a building on a pretentious scale.

Negotiations are said to be progressing for other available buildings in this section.

APARTMENT BUILDING ON CATES AVENUE SOLD

A 24-unit apartment building at 5815 Cates avenue has been acquired by interests represented by the Wenzlick Sales and Management Organization. It was owned by the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, represented by Franciscus Maginn, Inc., its loan correspondent, in the negotiations.

The building consists of 18 bedroom units, six efficiency units, with electric refrigerators and other modern appliances. Constructed of brick and concrete, the building is described as fireproof.

The title to the property was taken in the name of Jesse Anne Ridgeley. Annual rental aggregates $14,000.

The Wenzlick concern also reports the sale of a 12-unit apartment building at 3704 Hereford street to interests represented by the Harry M. Fine Realty Co.

But God knew what was best,
And took you away to peace and rest.
Sadly missed by the UNGER FAMILY.

WRIGHT, MAGDALINE—Died Oct. 18, 1937.
A year of sorrow, lonely and blue,
Life is so empty, dear wife, without you.
It was sad indeed the way you died
Without a chance to say goodbye.
Gone, but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by HUSBAND.

"LOOK—LOOK"—For real comfort and ease in firing choose from the greatest parade of sensational low cost and high heat coals in St. Louis. Tropical Heat Lump at $4 is a high grade coal coming in from the South by rail. Southern Pride Lump at $5 is Washed and Waxed Egg at $4.90, closely resembles Franklin County in heating performance. Asia Coal from out East at $4.95 for Washed and Waxed Stoker, $5.35 for Egg, $6.10 for Lump, and $6.35 for 8" Block closely approaches Appalachian Mountain coal in its sensational heating power and labor-saving, once-a-week ash removal from under grate bars. Hardracite Eastern 8" Block at $7.95, looks like Anthracite, rings like steel and brings you unequaled Appalachian heat value with semi-monthly ash removal. Aberdeen Virginia lump up to $1.75 to dealers and 50c per ton to bona-fide salesmen. Wildermuth, 1138 Carr st. Phone GArfield 1137 during business hours or Sunday and evenings, phone STerling 1211.

DISCIPLINE AT STATE'S PRISONS TO BE REVISED

Inmates to Be Classified by New Board for Individual Attention.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 22. — Creation of a "board of classification" to revise the "entire system of discipline and punishment" of Missouri convicts was announced today by Prison Director James E. Matthews.

The announcement was made after Gov. Stark began a study of convict treatment following reports of floggings at the penitentiary and the Algoa reformatory.

Matthews said a psychologist and a psychiatrist, to be selected later, would serve with prison officials on the new board. Its first task will be to classify all convicts.

"This is an entirely new idea in penal institutions in Missouri," Matthews said. "We believe it will go far toward enabling us to make our penal institutions more educational rather than solely correctional institutions, and turn the inmates out as useful members of society.

"We fully expect that when this board begins to function our entire system of discipline and punishment will be changed, since we will deal with individual groups rather than the entire population as a mass. Furthermore, we will have trained, experienced and expert guidance for handling the individuals. . . .

"More than anything else, we believe this board will render invaluable service in handling first offenders and I am confident the board will go far toward enabling us to carry out our purposes, particularly at Algoa, which was designed as an educational and not a corrective institution.

"This will be true of the penitentiary as well as the Industrial Home for Girls at Chillicothe, Industrial Home for Colored Girls at Tipton, and the Missouri Training School for Boys at Boonville.

OIL OFFICES EXPROPRIATED DESPITE MEXICAN COURT

Ambassador Daniels Protests and Is Told Matter Will Be Taken Up Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 22.—The Mexican Government today expropriated downtown rented offices of two American oil companies despite a temporary injunction granted by the Second District Federal Court and served during the seizure.

As a result United States Ambassador Josephus Daniels made representations to the Foreign Office, and was told the matter would be taken up "the first thing Monday morning."

The offices are those of the Titania and Mercedes Petroleum companies, affiliates of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey. Five agents of the Ministry of National Economy entered the offices soon after noon and presented a brief document saying the Government "needs the offices" to carry on its petroleum business, and that the Government's decree of March 18 expropriating foreign-owned oil properties was applicable.

Within an hour the agents, while sealing the doors with Government-stamped adhesive tape, were served with an injunction. After hurried telephoning, the agents said they would continue the expropriation since the Court order had arrived after they were actually in possession.

HEARINGS OPEN TOMORROW ON DISPUTED TAX CLAIMS

About $1,500,000 Involved in This Area; Half Likely to Be Settled by Stipulation.

Hearings will open tomorrow on disputed tax claims of the Government against taxpayers of the St. Louis area, involving $1,500,000. Clarence V. Opper, member of the Federal Board of Tax Appeals, will conduct the hearings in Room 516 of the Federal Building, Twelfth boulevard and Market street.

It is expected that the cases will be heard in the course of two weeks. Hartford Allen, representing the chief counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and three assistants, W. H. Schwatka, Charles Reilly and Frank Schlosser, with Arthur Clark of the bureau's technical staff and three assistants, have been here about two weeks conferring with attorneys representing taxpayers in an effort to settle the cases by agreement.

Allen said about half of the cases on the docket would probably be settled by stipulation and announcement of most of these settlements would be made on the first call of the docket tomorrow. Opper came here yesterday from Kansas City, where similar cases were heard last week.

RED CROSS TO DRAFT PLAN FOR REFUGE TOWNS IN WAR

Proposal, Decided on at Geneva Meeting, Will Be Submitted to Governments of World.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Oct. 22.—A convention for creation of "sanitary towns" where wounded and civilian populations might take refuge in war will be drawn up by the International Red Cross for submission to the governments of the world.

The decision was taken today after a meeting of a committee of 40 military and legal experts from 18 countries under auspices of the Red Cross.

The United States named no representative on the committee which was called to meet some weeks ago amid the acute Central European situation. Among those nations represented were Germany, Italy, Great Britain, France, Spain and Brazil.

HEARING ON BARGAINING AGENT AT LITCHFIELD PLANT CLOSES

NLRB Examiner Takes Dispute Between CIO and Independent Union Under Advisement.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LITCHFIELD, Ill., Oct. 22.—A National Labor Relations Board hearing on the petition of a CIO union for certification as the bargaining agent for production employes of the American Radiator Co. plant here closed today, after sessions lasting three days.

The petition was opposed by the Litchfield Radiator Workers' Association, an independent union, which signed a contract with the company last Tuesday, to go into effect Monday. Labor Board officials said the contract could be set aside if it was found the CIO union, Local 1770 of the Amalgamated Association of Steel, Iron & Tin Workers, was the proper bargaining agent.

Trial Examiner Earl S. Bellman took the case under advisement with a stipulation in the record, agreed to by all parties, that the CIO union had a membership of 38 of the plant's 239 workers. John Cavallo, independent union secretary, testified his group had a paid membership of 124, but the CIO contended about 30 on the payroll worked in departments not connected with production and hence should be excluded from membership in either union. It was stipulated also that 10 employes were members of both unions.

U. S. STUDYING IDEA OF SEPARATE ATLANTIC FLEET

Vulnerability of Panama Canal to Air Attack Makes Revision of Defense Plans Necessary.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The vital importance of the Panama Canal in American naval policy and its vulnerability to air attack are prime considerations in the restudy of national defense needs which President Roosevelt announced recently.

Two solutions of the problem have been proposed. One is the construction of a less vulnerable sea-level canal via the Nicaraguan route; the other is the building of a separate fleet to remain in the Atlantic.

There has been no word from the President or any other administration spokesman as yet to hint at an impending change in the basic idea of American naval policy—a single fleet.

Such a fleet must be able to shuttle from ocean to ocean via the Panama Canal to meet any threat of attack either directly on the United States or upon its South American neighbors, whom this country has long been pledged under the Monroe doctrine to shield from European aggression. The Panama Canal was built primarily for that purpose. Until post-world war developments in the air changed the situation, it was the foundation stone of naval policy.

The recent creation of a temporary Atlantic cruiser squadron, by withdrawing some of the components of the Pacific battle fleet marked a distinct departure in policy. There were intimations in Congressional committee hearings last session that naval opinion opposed such a course as a permanent policy because it tended to weaken the battle fleet.

Naval experts place the cost of a separate fleet for the Atlantic at around $3,000,000,000. The cost of the Panama Canal was $525,000,000.

Army engineers have estimated the cost of a Nicaraguan canal would be $722,000,000, and the time required to build it 10 years.

A third proposal is to construct new and larger locks on the Panama route at an estimated outlay of $200,000,000. The strategy underlying this proposal is to increase the canal's commercial and naval traffic capacities and to diminish the danger that a single bombing raid might close it entirely.

What the two-fleet idea really spells is a change from the navy-second-to-none policy to one of maintaining sufficient fleet strength to cope with any three navies, not including the British, which might be combined for action in western hemisphere waters. And that means the Germa-Italian-Japanese group already united in ideology and "power politics" tactics.

CAULFIELD SAYS NO ECONOMY CAN BE EXPECTED OF CLARK

Calls Senator Extravagant New Dealer Who Never Failed to Vote for Blank Checks for Billions.

By the Associated Press.

UNIONVILLE, Mo., Oct. 22. — Former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield, Republican Senatorial nominee, charged tonight his opponent, Bennett Clark, was "among the most extravagant New Dealers," and promised, if elected, to stop "this senseless extravagance without reducing actual expenditures for unemployment aid."

At a Putnam County rally, Caulfield termed New Deal extravagance one of the most serious obstacles to recovery. Clark, he said, has never failed to vote for "blank checks for billions," and "no economy can be expected of him."

Caulfield asserted that although the Democratic 1932 platform promised to reduce expenditures 25 per cent, the New Deal had more than doubled them.

"Each year the extravagance of the New Dealers mounts higher and higher. Each year the Government runs deeper into the red."

LACLEDE GAS MAKES FIRST LICENSE TAX PAYMENT

Turns Over Check for $33,397 to City; Ordinance Was Enacted Last May.

The Laclede Gas Light Co., making its first payment of the 5 per cent license tax imposed by an ordinance last May 17 on its gross business, turned over to the city yesterday a check for $33,397, 5 per cent of its gross receipts of $667,947 between May 17 and July 1. Quarterly payments are required under the ordinance.

E. L. White, secretary-treasurer of the Laclede company, did not affect the pending litigation over the city's right to collect a 5 per cent occupational tax on gross receipts of the company before May 17. In resisting the city efforts to collect that tax, the company contends its State franchise gave it the right to use city streets without occupational tax. The city passed the license tax bill in lieu of the occupational tax law.

BELLEVILLE CONGRESSMAN'S SON ELOPES WITH CLASSMATE

Edwin M. Schaefer Jr. and Miss Zenith Audrey Cox, Students at Washington U., Married.

Edwin M. Schaefer Jr., son of the Democratic Congressman of Belleville, and Miss Zenith Audrey Cox of Belleville eloped and were married at St. Charles yesterday after a campus romance at Washington University, where both are students. Both are 21 years old.

The pair attended the Washington University homecoming celebrations and then went to St. Charles, obtained a license and were married by the Rev. George E. Poole, Methodist minister. After the ceremony they returned to Belleville and informed their parents. They will continue their studies at the university, the parents said.

GETS 3 LIFE TERMS, YAWNS

Robber, 27, Won't Be Eligible for Parole for 24 Years.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 22.—Claude E. Bryant, 27 years old, yawned today as he stood before Criminal Court Judge Lorraine Mix and heard himself sentenced to three life terms in prison. Bryant confesses a series of night holdups netting him $307 and pleaded guilty to three indictments.

The life terms are non-concurrent, which under Kentucky law prevents a parole board from considering his case for at least 24 years.

FISHING SCHOONERS' THIRD RACE SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

Weight Removed From Bluenose to Bring Its Waterline Within the 112 Feet Permitted.

By the Associated Press.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 22.—With weight removed from high within its hold the Canadian championship schooner Bluenose was ready tonight to meet the American challenger, Gertrude L. Thebaud, tomorrow in the third race of a series for the international fishermen's trophy.

Capt. Angus Walters ordered the fuel and compressed air tanks and lighting plant removed from within the Canadian defender after it was found that the Bluenose was five inches more on the waterline than the 112 feet permitted.

Sailing enthusiasts said that removal of the five or six tons, brought about by a protest made by the Americans regarding the waterline, gave Bluenose an advantage in tomorrow's race, twice around an 18-mile course. Each schooner has one victory in the three-out-of-five series.

DUKE OF KENT GETS NAZI SALUTE AT AUTO RACES

King George's Brother Smiles and Shakes Hands With German Sports Leader.

DERBY, England, Oct. 22.—Nazi salutes greeted the Duke of Kent, younger brother of King George VI, today when he arrived at Donington Park Racecourse to wave the starting flag of the International Grand Prix Automobile Race.

Among those who saluted him was German Motor Sports-Leader Huhnlein, here with the German entries. The Duke smiled, bowed and shook hands.

An Italian, T. Nuvolari, won the 250-mile-race, driving his German auto Union Car at an average speed of 80.49 miles an hour.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

DRAMA WOMEN'S SUNDAY MAGAZINE RADIO

PART FIVE — ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 23, 1938. — PAGES 1—10G

This NEW YORK
By Lucius Beebe

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.

TO this department no show in town is as continuously fascinating as watching an expert at the business of running a night club. There are many competent proprietors, managers and waiter captains, perhaps the smoothest in the latter category being Carino, at Morocco, but the granddaddy of them all is boyish, reserved, almost mousy, Sherman Billingsley, who controls the tempo, temper and tension of the Stork as an engineer at the throttle of a highliner controls his train. Sometimes even people looking for Billingsley can't at once discover his presence, so expertly unobtrusive is he; but he's there just the same surrounded by a staff of field officers who make things click like precision machinery.

LUCIUS BEEBE

Usually he sits at an end table near the door, chatting with a newspaper man, but he is in constant communication, seemingly, with Joe Lopez, on the door; with Leonard MacBain, his publicity chief, sitting three or four tables away; with Chick Farmer, the house camera man, who is on the floor with the head barman, and with all the complex hierarchy of maitres, head waiters, captains, wine stewards and waiters. All these expert functionaries are informed by a pass of the hand, a scratch of the ear, the raising of an eyebrow, of Billingsley's least whim. On the door, Joe's own discretion is usually the standard of admission, but if there is a question as to a supplicant's propriety of behavior, sobriety or costume, Billingsley at once settles it with a jerk of the hand or a nod of the head.

It's a system that combines the exquisite perceptions of a court chamberlain with the direct toughness of a Bowery bouncer, and it is one of the several contributing factors in the Stork's perennial vogue. Billingsley's generosity with champagne and orchids has, of course, become legendary, and his memory is so exact as to recall the favorite mark, blend and size of a patron's cigars and to see that he gets a handful of them when he returns a year later. This kind of old-fashioned hosting, supposed to have vanished with Peacock Alley at the Waldorf, actually is a flourishing fact in 1938 Manhattan.

● THE MOST AUTHENTIC HALLMARK of sophistication, it has always seemed to this department, is the technique of the accomplished traveler, who, wherever he may find himself, knows the right people and the right places and who is as comfortable and well provided for in Elko, Nev., or Arkansas Pass, Tex., as he is in Gramercy Park. The reason for the nomination of these two particular locales is that we have recently been in both of them, and like to think about the fun we had in the Town House Saloon, in the first, and the enormous craps game which has been going on in the basement of the jail in the other since 1923.

Traveling in Europe is a stereotyped business. One is always in a Ritz if for no other reason than that one never visits any but Ritz cities, and only by looking at the bath towels is it possible to differentiate between Paris, London, Madrid, Milan or Rome.

—o—o—

But it takes experience and wisdom to journey abroad in the United States, to know that when one is in Fort Worth he should surrender himself immediately to Amon Carter and John North, to be aware that the one rendezvous in Cleveland in which he is sure to find his friends in the Vermont Club, and that in San Francisco the person who can make life most agreeable for him is Mme. Margaret Chung, who knows as much about the town, past, present and possibly future, as even old Mr. Charles Coldwell Dobie. He must know that in Boston the best restaurant north of the Rio Grande is Locke Ober's Wine Rooms in a difficult mews called Winter Place, and that in Kansas City if Bill Kemper doesn't ask him to the Wigwam for the week-end he might just as well shoot himself.

● IN CALIFORNIA he should be smart enough to pass up Palm Springs and stay at Last Quinta, which is within seltzer squirt of the Jackhammer Cafe in Indio, and in Houston he should know that Jesse Jones is not the real headman, but Robert L. Blaffer, of the Humble Oil Co., who brought home with him the chief saucier from the kitchens of the Cafe de Paris, in Monte Carlo, and sets a table second to none extant. In Houston, too, he should be privy to the existence of the most exclusive club in Texas in the back room of the Buckaroo Cafe, run by Grover Burge for the edification of the executives of the Police Department. Luncheon customarily ends just in time to go home and change for dinner, and the company is, in a word, fabulous.

Whatever he may want anywhere in the Southwest, he should know that the person who can get it for him is the division superintendent of the Southern Pacific, and in Portsmouth, N. H., he is out of his wits if he doesn't eat at Hams. In St. Louis the native drink is an arrangement of apricot and bourbon, called Southern Comfort, and the finest collection of champagnes (notably Bollinger and Cliquot) on the Pacific coast is at John's Rendezvous, in San Francisco. All of which is a sort of survival of the days before hotels were always available or desirable, when the accomplished traveler had access to the first citizens wherever he went and was aware of the best taverns when there were any.

JOHN BYRAM, the Paramount executive, is sporting old-fashioned tiny ruffle evening shirts these nights . . . No lace at the wrists, you understand, but very conservative and Old World. . . . Homer Croy's latest fancy, on the other hand, is a bright red satin four-in-hand with a six-inch, no fooling, red crepe boutonnaire with which he made a crashing entry into Bleeck's bar last week. . . . Charles Goodspeed, dean of Boston booksellers, tells us that, contrary to modern notions of the leisured ways of yesteryear, browsing in bookshops is a very recent institution, and that 50 years ago it was not tolerated.

Talking with TALLULAH

By Virginia Irwin

TALKING with Tallulah Bankhead is something like trying to carry on a nice quiet little chat with a cyclone. You pin her down to some subject like the St. Louis Playgoers' Association and the first thing you know she's off to the races—telling you how she bets the horses on hunches and gnaws on hot dogs to save her nails when her nag ends up out of the money. You take your eyes off her a minute to jot some remark in a notebook and when you look up she's no longer sitting on the couch but lying on the coffee table with her feet on the sofa.

But you can't help liking her. She calls you by your first name and tells you about her nervous indigestion and within 10 minutes you feel that you know her well enough to ask her if she wears a girdle and is it true that Tallulah means "terrible" in Indian.

In other words, ladies and gentlemen, Tallulah is my idea of a swell girl—and that in spite of the fact that interviewing her is like tussling with a tornado. Success has fallen just a little short of making a lady out of her and left her instead one of those rarities—a famous actress with about as much affectation as Fanny, the File Clerk.

Opening tomorrow night at the American for a week's run in "I Am Different," Tallulah has with her the handsome John Emery, her husband of a year and leading man of her play. And the two of them are still enough in love—after a year— to want to talk about their wedding. John does an hilariously funny takeoff on his meeting with Tallulah's famous father, Speaker Will Bankhead of the House of Representatives, but Tallulah likes to talk of the night they left New York in a chartered plane after a broadcast during which she had the chance to tell the world that she was about to be married.

"There I was in front of the microphone with a swell chance to yell 'Hey, everybody, I'm being married in the morning,' Tallulah laughed, "But I wanted the news to come from Daddy, so I kept quiet until after the wedding."

"And that's the only time she's kept quiet and didn't tell everything she knew before or since," John Emery chided.

Before Tallulah handed her heart over to John Emery at the Bankhead homestead at Jasper, Ala., a year ago last August, her activities in the realm of romance were as much in print as her labors in the theater, for Tallulah has always maintained, and lived up to the statement, that "not to be in love is the greatest bore on earth." During her eight years as reigning favorite of the London stage, her list of suitors read like a page out of Burke's Peerage, and her press clippings read like a publicity man's dream. And, as a matter of fact, all of Tallulah's doings have made good reading, because with her fine and extravagant flair for living, she has kept both America and England slightly scandalized but thoroughly fascinated for years.

Born with a thick Alabama accent, a Senator grandfather, a Senator uncle, and a sympathetic father, ash-blonde Tallulah is the first of the Bankheads to tread the theatrical boards. And she didn't have her start toward the spotlight handed to her or wangled for her by wire-pulling political relatives. To begin with she won a motion picture magazine beauty contest, only to be turned down by Hollywood. Undiscouraged, she fought her way to Broadway and in a short time was thumbing her nose at the statisticians who say they can prove that children of famous people rarely achieve fame. On the tide of her Broadway success, the determined Tallulah went to London. England went wild over her. On Bankhead first nights the audiences screamed themselves hoarse and one London critic in a story attempting to explain the fascination of "the swamp-rose of the Alabama bayous" offered the following description of a Bankhead opening: "A first night in London of a Tallulah play is a wild orgy of emotion. The devotees, who have probably stood for hours in a queue outside the theater, cling to the barriers in a sort of delirium. They squeal at her like overwrought guinea pigs. Tallulah eats audiences. The whole energy of an audience is dragged out of it and drawn into Tallulah. Her physical strength must be considerable."

OF all her 16 London successes, Tallulah pow picks "Fallen Angels" with Noel Coward as the play she most enjoyed doing.

"But the play that was best for me was 'They Knew What They Wanted,'" she admits. "And I'd like to have another like it."

With rare honesty, Tallulah admits that her present play is not a great play "but an entertaining one" and she's bent on finding a play that will give her a good comedy role.

"Doing comedy is a challenge," she explained. "As somebody once said 'An onion can make me cry, but show me a vegetable that can make me laugh.' Well, any little gal from a ham stock company can make an audience cry if she's got a tragic role like Camille, but comedy roles don't always make people laugh and comedy lines don't always go over. It's a tougher job to make people laugh than to make them cry."

As for Hollywood, the volcanic Tallulah admits volubly and frankly that she got a bunch of bum roles and that her three years there between her London glory and her return to Broadway didn't add much to the Bankhead name.

"The nicest thing about the movies is the money," she laughed. "But it doesn't do you much good when you're as nutty as I am. I made plenty and spent plenty but now I have to lie awake nights worrying about income tax. The Government claims I charged off too much to entertainment."

That the beauty from the bayous should have her financial worries is to be expected. She spends her dough as she lives—with a free hand. She buys clothes that she forgets to wear, is a natural for a touch for anybody with a tear in his eye and a half-way convincing story about a sick aunt, dog or cat, and carries her money as most people would carry a bunch of old waste paper—all wadded up and without any indication that she might find it occasionally useful.

More successful from the viewpoint of fame if not from the standpoint of cash, Tallulah's return to Broadway and her tour last year in "Reflected Glory" have once more established her as capable of standing on the top rung of the drama ladder. On last year's tour, to be repeated with her present play "I Am Different," the husky-voiced star took in her home state of Alabama and the same folks who once were harsh in their disapproval of the "wild ideas of Mist' Will Bankhead's play-actin' daughter" paid her amazing homage.

AT the Temple Theater in Birmingham the audience duplicated the antics of Tallulah's London audiences and stomped, hollered and carried on so that she had to make a curtain speech. With misty eyes ruining her mascara, the 36-year-old star stumbled through her thank-yous and then said: "I am one of you. I haven't forgotten because my father would never let me forget. No matter where I've been —in New York, London, Hollywood —in every letter he writes me he tells me to remember that I am still an Alabama hillbilly—just one of the Bankheads who owe a debt to Alabama we can never repay."

The same night, after Tallulah had made her curtain speech, and all her old friends were crowding back stage, one old-timer took her by the shoulders, held her at arms' length and after looking at her closely for some time snorted: "Well, I guess you're beautiful all right. But you're not a patch on Ada."

The Ada to whom the old gentleman referred was Tallulah's mother, Ada Sledge, a Montgomery belle who married Will Bankhead and died at her daughter's birth.

Tallulah delights in relating such incidents and when she is telling such tales you realize that for all the glamour with which the theater has endowed her, she is essentially a simple person. Her tornado-like way of living and her bundle-of-nerves behavior obscure the real Tallulah who pops out incongruously in a mink coat eating a hot dog.

"You know my home town is planning on building a theater for me," she grinned. "Isn't that swell?"

And that is typical of the real Tallulah who is more delighted over some genuine gesture no matter how small than she is over honors heaped upon her as a star.

MISS BANKHEAD WITH GLEN ANDERS, LEFT, HER HUSBAND IN THE PLAY "I AM DIFFERENT," AND JOHN EMERY, HER HUSBAND IN REAL LIFE.

Girl about Town
By Clarina Start

ONE of the cheerier bits of mail that came to our bill laden desk last week was an invitation to a football rally, reminding us that, despite the lawn and linen weather of the past few weeks, the brave boys of the gridiron are again out doing and dying for Alma Mater and the little blonde number in the sorority house next door.

Although we thought the exhortation to "meet again with your alumni friends" was slightly on the optimistic side, it nevertheless put us in the proper frame of mind, and we've been going around ever since, muttering scraps of school yells sotto voce, and exuding more school spirit than we have since high school days, when we exercised our lusty larynx in that mild mannered anthem that went, "Sons of Cleveland, choke 'em."

Although our football attendance goes way back to the days when the bulging South Side double deckers carried screaming and writhing packs of humanity to the Public School Stadium on Saturday afternoons instead of nights, we still bow our head before the shining record of Judge Eugene Tighe, who, local enthusiasts have told us, has not missed a football game played in St. Louis by his college, St. Louis University, since his freshman year in high schol, 25 years ago.

Judge Tighe, when confronted with his record, admitted all, and said he had no intention of missing any games this fall, come high water or anything else for that matter. That is the true spirit of the record maker.

So there you are—25 years of huddling in cold grandstands—war years excepted by the way—which at least deserves a hand embroidered heating pad. We admit we're licked. Besides, the Judge actually played football, whereas our only actual contact with a football was with the neighbor boy's which landed in our white candlewick bed spread, drying on the backyard clothesline one Saturday. And even then, it would be more exact to say that our contact was with the neighbor boy.

—o-o—

STILL ON the pigskin path. At a recent football game, we listened in, uninvited, we're afraid, to the lament of a fresh-faced youth seated directly in back of us. It developed that he was bemoaning the fact that he had not gone to a different college where his own football feats might have been more appreciated by the discerning coach.

"But what's the use?" he mourned. "I'm too old to play football anyway."

"Ah," the youth sighed gustily, "but how I've lived these last four years!"

A NEW NOTE in architecture has permeated through to our usually conservative South Side. A certain flat on the main stem, which was previously hidden behind the anonymity of a red brick front and conventional stone steps, has had a chin lifting, and now gleams proudly and sleekly on the world with a sort of glassy black tile facade, huge modernistic windows, and a line of gold trim. The side and back, however, are still red brick. Chic, no doubt, but a bit startling to the passerby.

A FRIEND relates that her nephew celebrated his fifth birthday last week and that the family noted a certain similarity of reaction as he graciously acknowledged each birthday present. As new groups of aunts, uncles, and cousins arrived, he displayed his previous acquisitions and said with smiling aplomb and sublime confidence, "See—I wanted this, and I got it." Such a state of affairs, we pointed out, is bound to lead to nothing but grief and disillusionment in the future when the lad learns that not only does one not get what one wants, one gets a depressing share of what one doesn't want. But why should we be an old killjoy. He'll learn the truth soon enough.

LATEST report from the fashion frontier: One of the beauty salons is now featuring a band of crocheted webbing to wear around the head so that the hair will grow upward in the latest skinned coney style. A description of this soul searing invention begins, "Feeling that women MUST train their hair to grow upward—" This brings forth one pertinent query—Why?"

Letters to MARTHA CARR . . . Turn to Page FIVE

Social Battle

BY Inez Robb

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.

THE social battle of the century is forming here and in Washington, D. C., in connection with the contemplated American visit of the King and Queen of Great Britain.

Although no one is yet certain that their majesties will pay a visit to this country in May or June, the Four Hundred in New York and the cave dwellers in the Capital are already girding themselves for a titanic fray.

INEZ ROBB

A state visit of the British Empire's King and Queen will provide America with its greatest social opportunity. Although the announcement that such a visit might be made was published in the newspapers less than a week ago, the wire-pulling has already begun in certain quarters to insure attendance at any glittering state function planned in honor of the royal visiting firemen.

One thing is certain: Society's most highly publicized segment, the cafe branch, won't have a ghost of a show if their majesties pay a state visit to Washington, followed by a week in Manhattan. And night clubs will be taboo. The vast majority of persons who charmed the present Duke of Windsor when he visited America in 1919 and 1924 as Prince of Wales won't be able to get within shouting distance of his successor, the present King, George VI.

If it pleases their majesties to see anything of New York society, it will be such old guard generals as J. P. Morgan and Mrs. "Brigadier General" Cornelius Vanderbilt who'll probably do the honors. While the Duke of Windsor has a multitude of acquaintances in these United States, the present King and Queen are well acquainted only with a comparatively few.

THE PROPOSED royal visit to Washington, D. C., is expected to result in a politico-social shambles, since it is a foregone conclusion that every Congressman will bring pressure to bear to see that his important and socially-ambitious supporters from back home are included in any state function.

If the President and Mrs. Roosevelt give a state dinner and ball in the White House as part of the program of the state visit, informed sources in Washington say the White House secretariat will need a machine-gun squad to keep the social climbers and importuners at bay.

Doubtless the King and Queen, the first reigning British monarchs to visit this continent, will make the journey to Canada which they will tour before coming to America, on a British battleship. When, as Duke and Duchess of York, they made their long journey to Australia in 1927, they went in the battle cruiser Renown.

SHOULD THEY DECIDE, however, to cross on one of the de luxe passenger liners, the scramble of other passengers to get aboard the royal ship is too fearful to contemplate. To cross with the King and Queen would be a decided feather in one's social bonnet. Even when the Duke and Duchess of Windsor planned to come to America last November, the rush of passengers to get aboard their liner resembled a gold-rush stampede.

Many Canadians in New York are hopeful the Canadian Government will not neglect the provisions of the Hudson Bay Co.'s charter when the King lands in the Dominion. When Charles II gave the Hudson Bay Co. the great northwest territory in 1670, the only payment demanded in return was the presentation of two black elk and two beaver to any reigning British monarch who should visit the domain. George VI will be the first reigning monarch ever to get near enough to collect.

Chronic Adolescents

By Elsie Robinson

THIS craze for staying young . . . These people who insist on acting like and thinking of themselves as irresponsible infants, even though they're wearing "Stylish Stouts" and toupees.

What's really behind it? Are they actually young? Or are they just yellow . . . playing at being kids because they are afraid to be mature and face the music?

Time was when Youth wasn't regarded as a particular treat. Most folks counted on growing up . . . didn't expect any medals until they had. Then came the World War. And, after it, a tremendous yen to forget front line trenches—and just play. So, overnight, everyone went ga-ga. Bald headed bozos cavorted around like campus cut-ups. Doddering dowagers became glamour girls.

—o—o—

ALL OF WHICH is very fine—in theory. It's a great thing to have a young heart, whatever your rating on the calendar. There's no spectacle more cheering or inspiring than a frankly aging human being, who has managed to surmount his varicose veins and 36-inch waistline and retain his lively interest in the human scene.

But those others . . . those chronic adolescents who are so furiously determined on never being anything else but . . . frankly they give me an extreme pain.

—o—o—

NO, THIS ISN'T sour grapes. I'm not sore because I was wearing aprons and black taffeta at the age when they're running around in one-piece bathing suits . . . and making mustard pickle and piccalilli where they are now jitterbugging to Benny Goodman's hot music. I'll even admit that I infinitely prefer the playing, prancing parents of 1938 to the Sourpuss models of 1899.

But the knicknacks to which I refer—and strenuously object—are not parents. These Giggling Gerts and Rah-Rah Ronnys of 35 and upwards who refer to themselves as us kids, are of no recognizable mature pattern. They're just a hangover from the nursery—something that didn't jell.

And who do they think they're fooling? Maybe themselves. Maybe the other kids. But certainly not life!

Boy Writes to Girl First

By Emily Post

DEAR MRS. POST: Who writes the first letter—the boy or the girl? We've been arguing this question and I said that I thought the girl might write first just as she is supposed to speak first to a boy she doesn't know well.

Answer: Between old friends the one who goes away is likely to write first because his (or her) surroundings suggest subjects to write about. On the other hand, any particular happening at home is an even better excuse. When a new friendship starts it is better that the girl wait for the boy to write her the first letter just as she waits for him to ask her to go out with him.

THE WORLD AS WOMEN SEE IT

STOP! GO!

SAFE Conduct

By MARGARET FISHBACK

Kindness in women, not their beauteous looks,
Shall win my love.—Shakespeare.

DON'T tell the waiter what you want. Tell me and I will do the ordering.

Don't tell the taxi driver where we are going. If I don't know, tell me quietly and I will relay the news to him.

Don't try to make me spend more money than I can afford. I don't like gold diggers any more than my friends do.

Don't try to make me spend less money than I want to, even if I can't afford it. That's my business, and you sound as though you had designs on me when you worry, audibly, about my finances. Besides, the girl who constantly demands too little is not the sort I get excited about. I like to think of you as something rare and worth fighting for. There's a challenge that's stimulating in the girl who makes demands. Not just demands on the pocketbook, of course, but on my chivalry and ingenuity and thought.

I don't mean that I want you to pursue me or nag me, or ask for explanations about where I have been, and why you haven't seen me this week. Possessive women make me panicky.

Don't talk or laugh noisily indoors or out. I hate being made conspicuous . . . well, maybe if people stared at me because I walked into a theater with Joan Crawford, I wouldn't mind. I might rather enjoy it. But as a steady diet, and with regular girls, I prefer no spotlight. Don't think I'm not proud of being seen with you; I'm very likely to marry you, and there's hardly a ghost of a chance that I'll ever marry Joan Crawford or Mae West or Myrna Loy, so that crochet has nothing to do with honorable intentions. It's a tough point to explain, but there it is, please don't make me conspicuous.

Don't ever smoke walking along the street. Some day this will sound old-fashioned—as dated as the volume called Advice to Young Ladies from columns in the London Journal of 1855 and 1862. One item in it read: "Miranda. Two of your young lady (?) acquaintances smoke, do they? Depend upon it, they have been keeping company with a couple of fast young men, and are themselves going too fast either for their health or reputations. Having fallen so far, remonstrance would be useless. Of course, you have cut their acquaintance? Women who smoke must drink something stronger than tea." That is, perhaps, a little strait-laced. I don't mind your smoking—much—but I do think you look cheap and affected when you do it on the street.

Don't drink more than you can handle. I may laugh and pretend I think it's funny, but my laughter covers an aching heart.

Let me see that you like me, but not that you like me too much, until I've said a few words myself. Don't gush or drape yourself about my neck. This gives me gooseflesh. Here's more from Advice to Young Ladies on this delicate subject: "Diana R.—All the poets and the prose-writers who have written upon love are agreed upon one point, and that is that a delicate reserve, a rosy diffidence and sweetly chastened deportment are precisely the qualities in a woman that mostly win upon the attention of men, whether young or old. The moment she begins to seek attentions, she sinks in the esteem of any man with an opinion worth having." I don't hold with that 100 per cent, but the idea is sound, though the verbiage is 1855.

I don't say you shouldn't talk at all. Too much rosy diffidence and sweetly chastened deportment would chill the blood in my veins. I like to hear you prattle; it puts me at my ease to feel I don't have to bear the brunt of the conversation. If you want to talk about me, and make me talk about myself, that's all right. I don't mind a bit being drawn out on the subject of my work and my hobbies and my favorite newspaper and my politics. Just ask me leading questions without sounding noisy. In other words, don't be too concerned about the rest of my women. Maybe there aren't any, but I wouldn't want you to know that. After all, a man likes to appear dangerous and mysterious to his public.

Don't ask inquisitive questions about what really isn't your business. Please confine yourself to comfortable questions that don't embarrass me or put me on the spot or make me self-conscious. Ask me questions that I can answer at great, tiresome lengths. You may be bored, but if you let yourself in for listening to my idea for a play, you'll endure it for the sake of my companionship, and I'll enjoy talking and never even suspect you're not enthralled.

TRY to keep your parents in hand. A solicitous mother hen can scare me off permanently, when I might be interested in her product if she let me make my own advances. But when Mama greets the with, "Why haven't you been out?" and "When will we see you again?" I look around for the nearest exit. It puts you in bad light to have Mama clucking around anxiously as though she were afraid her chick would never get a man.

Maybe you don't even want one, but maybe you do, and she may drive a great deal of good material away before indomitable Mr. Right comes along. And it's quite possible you'd like to have some good times with the boys before you settle on your mate, anyways. So keep her on the leash when the Timid Soul drops around to call.

A reasonable amount of chaperonage is all right, even in this swift century, if you are very, very young. But on the other hand, men don't like to be viewed with suspicion and alarm, as though fraught with evil. As for petting, necking, mugging, or whatever you wish to call it, no man respects an easy mark, or the girl who substitutes kissing for conversation. She gives me an uneasy notion that she isn't bright enough to be companionable in any other fashion.

"Should you kiss him goodnight?" asks the Ladies Home Journal in a recent Manhattan newspaper advertisement. This girlish question is flanked by copy which elaborates thus: "It's a question not answered in any university course." I should hope not. The professors would probably be taking courses from the girls instead of the other way around. Besides, cluttering up the curriculum with unnecessary courses like that wouldn't leave a girl time to go out nights, much less hang around the front stoop of an evening, getting herself properly kissed. Unless, of course, the front stoop comes under the head of field work. But the Journal continues: "If you ask an older person, the chances are they'll just laugh—or think you're silly." Foolhardy is the word for it. Let the Journal go on, however, in the same varicose vein:

". . . It's tremendously important. It's a thing you've got to know. Should a girl kiss a boy goodnight when he takes her home? And that's only one problem—out of the thousands that confront a girl when she begins to face society—and boys." Hurray, she's at least beginning to face the boys. But here's what'll burn you up:

"It's the most trying age in the world—the age from 14 to 15 to around 20." Now I call that an outrage. To imply that old hags of 21 and up have no plaza problems. Do they think that once you're out of your teens nobody's going to make a pass at you.

"Fourteen thousand girls," they boast, "wrote personal letters to Elizabeth Woodward, the sub-deb editor, last year, and received personal answers from her." That must be fun for them. And for the boys, too, stalling around in the chilly vestibule, while little Eva runs inside to see if there's a letter giving her the signals. The Journal spokesman, hot with curiosity, adds: "If you happen to have a problem of your own—go ahead and write to her, too." Well, go ahead. All I want to caution you about is this: Don't delude yourself that we men never kiss and tell on the girls who kiss promiscuously. We are shameless gossips about the girls we know are shameless neckers.

How Writer's Husband Avoids Domestic Rows

He Merely Walks Out the Door When Firing Gets Too Heavy.

By Alice Hughes

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.

MY poor bedraggled spouse, whose name is Leonard Hall and who also writes pieces for the papers when he is not answering my telephone calls or going to fashion shows or escaping from professional cocktail parties—which, alas, is seldom—has long been a very active partner in this modest enterprise, and is generally accepted as one of the leading living experts on that weird modern phenomenon, The New York Career Woman.

He has, in fact, written several very snippy essays on us for various magazines and newspapers, and while the shoe blistered when I put it on, I really had little or no grounds for a court suit, for breaking up the home or even for modest scuffling on their account. Often the charges were only too true. Moreover, after a decade of suffering in a home that is half residence, half office, half playground and half Bargain Basement Sale, he is a specialist in keeping the peace in a house where loyalties may seem divided. His recipe for avoiding domestic brawls is the simplest and best in the world—he simply walks out the front door and remains way until the dust settles. Nothing can more infuriate a woman.

Not without a certain sinister charm, he has wormed his way into the affections of some of my girl friends, including numerous big shots in practically all fields now infested by women. Once he complained about the superficiality of these affections, to a famous and cunning French milliner on whom he has long had a playful crush—I hope. She drew herself up primly, and replied, "Ah—but ve are all so fond of Aleeece!" It was the perfect answer. He howled.

—o—o—

SECOND CHILDHOOD now has me. No doubt about it. With a few leaves still on the trees, old Aunt Alice has already begun her skating exhibitions for the winter amid tremendous public apathy. The truth is that we have a wonderful new rink called "Gay Blades," thanks to the great upsurge in skating popularity recently. The place is a city block long and half as wide, and the ice is fine.

—o—o—

JOSETTE DE LIMA, one of our clothes designers, has just redone her apartment—and for a clothes horse in the entrance hall she has a real wooden horse from a Coney Island merry-go-round. Ducky idea—but not very hot for the coats of the early comers, with the garb of the tardy ones tossed on top. Ever think of that, Joe old kid?

JEAN THORNTON, lovely blonde wife of Willis Thornton, Cleve- newspaper man, and my spouse's best pal, came to town the other day for a purely social visit. At my house, one evening, she played and sang some cute, clip little songs she had written for her own amusement. One of the hearers, enchanted, rushed to the phone and called Vincente Minnelli, the musical show producer. He, in turn, went mad over one of the numbers, called "Psychiatry." And now, after a little social call on pals, taffy-haired Jean will probably have a number in a big Broadway show!

GRETCHEN GREEN has just started a shop here with a name that slights nothing. She calls the joint "The Whole World & Co.," but what it really vends is a complete list of world-wide books on cooking, travel, mystery and biography. Just let The Whole World, and Co., tell you, ladies!

JUST AS THE modern Broadway show girl gives an imitation of a lady rather than a hoyden, so do the Fifth avenue window mannequins assume ladyhood this fall. New mannequins by Grafstrom and Lester Gaba are not hussies, but amply made, dignified and proud-faced women with gentility in every ounce of plaster. Well, it's a pleasant change. Most of the mannequins last year were so catty, mean and arrogant-looking that I almost winced as I passed their windows!

—o—o—

WE'RE ALWAYS hearing about the lovely, sinful old days when handsome men drank wine from the petted dancer's slipper. Now Alex Tarzaidze, the perfume man, has combined this pretty thought with a hint of stuffing the Christmas stocking by putting a bag of his best bath salts in a life-size pink satin ballet slipper.

—o—o—

NOTES FROM new feminine gadgetry: I've just seen a new lipstick, in two shades, which is applied with a small brush—thus keeping the fingers all sweet and clean. And no fall passes without the appearance of a provocatively named perfume. The scent, this season, is called "Danger." This must be largely potential, as I won't believe there's any harm in a gallon jug of it. But, like all perfume names, it sounds kind of cute.

Talking With Tallulah Bankhead

Typical of the real Tallulah, too, is the way she now dresses. At one time she held the position of best-dressed woman in the theater, but she tired of the empty honor and now she dresses to suit herself, usually in something comfortable and old, and more often than not, in unpressed slacks.

Apparently the opposite of Tallulah, husband John Emery was immaculately, though casually dressed. A member of the oldest theatrical family in England, Emery has played in America with Katharine Cornell in "The Barrets of Wimpole Street," "Romeo and Juliet" and "St. Joan." He has appeared in "Parnell" on Broadway and with John Gielgud in "Hamlet" and last season combined romance and work in "The Circle," in which both he and Tallulah appeared with Grace George.

Now after the pattern of the Lunts, Tallulah and Emery are teamed up for a long and serious siege upon the theater.

"And I have just heard of your St. Louis Playgoers' Association," Tallulah explained excitedly. "The idea is marvelous, and the least any of us can do is not miss St. Louis when we go on tour. It is marvelous to think of people signing up for tickets for a whole season even before they are sure of what plays they will see. Certainly they deserve the thanks of actors and actresses."

With that, her longest speech with a sustained thought, except the tirade against income tax, the inimitable Tallulah bounced into a comic account of her tortured life as a sufferer from nervous indigestion, and blamed her present attack on a hot-dog and a traffic jam.

St. Louis Fashion Trends

By Sylvia Stiles

VELVET, ostrich and chenille dotted veiling form an alliance that is typical of the handsome trend in millinery. One little dinner hat that combines the three is made of purple velvet shirred into a high turban. The ostrich lies flat on the crown, but curls toward the forehead. The veil is draped into a snood arrangement that covers the back of the hair, then falls gracefully to the shoulders.

Another hat of velvet using ostrich and veiling as trimming is designed in the manner of an old-fashioned poke bonnet. Two ostrich tips are tucked into the front of the crown. The veiling forms the ties, ending with a stiff bow under the chin.

—o-o—

THE PEG-TOP SKIRT is back again—not in any great numbers, to be sure, but sufficient to start some rumors as to its coming popularity. Designers are using it most of soft fabrics such as velvet so that its exaggerated hip line isn't so apparent. One dress created with this silhouette has a long-sleeved basque blouse ending at a rather low waistline. The skirt fullness is concentrated at the front and the sides.

—o-o—

IF YOU aren't certain whether you like the fullness that is featured in so many of the winter dresses but want to give it a trial, look for a frock that has loose panels or an apron front. Many of the dresses have the shirred panels at either side of the front, while others have very full apron overskirts. A simple, basic frock is revealed when the overskirt is removed.

—o-o—

BOOTS that are revivals of grandmother's day are appearing in the shops. Some of these are made of the elastic suede so that they pull on and fit snugly without fastenings, while others have the old-fashioned button theme. Cuffed insteps are a feature of one model designed with very high heels and toes sufficiently pointed to imitate those of another era.

—o-o—

THE VOGUE of comfortable looking dresses which have full skirts and draped blouse fullness extends to every hour of the day. You see these frocks of tweeds and feathery woolens for sports occasions, of crepes and sheer woolens for daytime wear in town, of lame and velvet for the cocktail hour and of slipper satin for dinner and formal evening wear.

The dirndl influence is apparent in these dresses, some of which introduce aprons that are shirred on to wide, fitted girdles. Others that are made in the one-piece mode have shirring marking the waistline. One interesting model designed of black and silver lame is made along princesse lines with gored fullness at the back and rows of shirring giving excess fullness to the front. Sleeves are short and the neckline is V-shaped.

A full-skirted dinner dress has shirring all around the waistline. This shirring extends to yoke depth with a point at the center front. A wide belt that is studded with gilt enhances the beauty of the shade of the frock, which is wine red. A low draped cowl neckline, sleeves shirred over the top of the arms and also shoulder shirring contribute to the very comfortable, loose-fitting emphasis of this dress.

A NEW HAIRDRESS has been designed for wear by those who refuse to follow the upswept movement at the back of the head but are willing to push the hair high from the forehead. This consists of brushing half of the hair in front of the ears and swirling it into high curls fare foreward on the head. The other half of the hair is brushed back and curled into two soft rolls at the back of the neck.

—o-o—

A FISCHU of chantilly lace or tulle is the smartest trimming you can add to a formal frock this season. If it drapes off the shoulders and is caught at the front with a cameo brooch, then it introduces the picturesque quality that makes it more popular. Contrasting decorations are being worn most and it is not surprising to see a black lace scarf draped around the shoulders of a cream satin dress or a deep purple one added to a gold-colored metal dress.

—o-o—

A LONG-SLEEVED dinner dress made of black velvet and enhanced by a black marquisette yoke is the type of demure fashion which is regarded as sophisticated this season. If the yoke is appliqued to the bodice with black jet beads, this is another sign of its chic. Shoulders are high and a skirt fitted snugly at the waistline are other important features.

Black Costumes Win Popularity

IF YOU know your latest fashions you will have observed that this fall is a costume and suit season and, notwithstanding all the ballyhoo about color, there's an excellent crop of black costumes to choose from. Here's our suggestion for a smart wardrobe that will carry you far into the winter:

A three-piece costume that consists of an untrimmed black wool coat, matching skirt and contrasting blouse. The coat, a beautiful model of this type, has new hip pockets, moderately flared skirt and a slight blouse to the back that is quite flattering. The blouse has matching pockets, and in this particular suit, was lovely in violet jersey. You'll wear it, as is, for town, business and countless every day occasions.

Add a white satin blouse and dressy velvet hat—not too elaborate, for the coat is definitely tailored—and suede bag and gloves for special occasions. Wear colored gloves matching the blouse for a change. For the football games, get a bright felt and a sweater to team up; or if you are more conservative, try a tailored gray felt and a big muff of shaggy gray fur, and you'll be among the best-dressed women.

The Bias Effect

The newest theme in the development of plaid costumes concerns bias lines. Most of the skirts that are made of Scotch plaid woolens are cut so that the design follows a bias effect. If the skirt is part of an entire suit, then the jacket is cut on the straight of the material but has bias trimming. The trend is apparent in pleated as well as gored models and serves to accentuate the swing of the hemline.

MANY WOMEN ARE INCAPABLE OF SAFEGUARDING THEIR MONEY.

"Before You Invest—Investigate"

By Ruth MacKay

This is the last of a series of articles on feminine finance.

BETWEEN the ability to earn money and the ability to conserve it there is all the difference of a tropical night and an arctic day, as many a wealthy family has discovered a generation too late. And, even though it may be repetitious, we want to emphasize again that by conserving money we haven't in mind the idea of hoarding it, or hiding it in a hollow tree. We have in mind only conserving it so as to put it to its best use for the present and for the future. Once more we must rely on the dictionary for the true meaning of the word; it defines "conserve" as "to keep from loss, decay or injury; supervise and protect."

How many women are able to do this with their money? The answer is, all too many are still being "taken in" every day.

Take Betty. She was a hard-working little girl if there ever was one. He had all the delightful earmarks of an Eastern college graduate when he strode into the office where Betty was employed. He was good-looking well-mannered, pleasantly at ease. Betty was sure he could do the rhumba beautifully. Life took on a new and rosier hue. He was interested in her. And her welfare. How nice! His smile was engaging. And what a voice! It inspired confidence.

It was lunch hour and most of the office force were out. He drew up a chair and they had the nicest chat. "Do you mind if I smoke?" Not at all, in fact she wished he had brought along his pipe. On account of that English suit of his she imagined he must smoke a Dunhill. She could picture him drawing on it lazily and making amusing little observations on life. She wondered idly if he were married. (It wasn't such an idle idea at that—he was, but it didn't bother him.)

The two of them talked about things in general and Betty in particular. First thing she knew she was telling him—she didn't understand why—that she was a bit fed up with her job and didn't feel she was getting much of anywhere and frankly was almost ready to break down and marry the boy friend who wasn't exactly exciting but sort of Old Reliable.

Her noon-hour visitor was shocked. Waste herself? A lovely creature like her?

Under the spell of his sympathetic conversation she discussed other personal problems, her finances. She had to dress pretty well because—well—he could see—she was right out in the front office. Then she had to help out somewhat at home, too, and that was about all she spent money for except her insurance.

—o-o—

INSURANCE! That's it! His face lit up. Why didn't she do something about it? Why didn't she use its cash value? After all, a woman needs to have capital to invest the same as a man. Therein lay one of the advantages of insurance. Now, what she should do was to borrow on her life insurance and invest in a cemetery lot. A cemetery lot! Of all things, why that? He explained. A good cemetery lot is an investment. There are companies that recognize this. He ought to know. That was his business. Of course, he hadn't come to see her. He had dropped in the office to see Mr. Vice-President. Yet, there was no reason why she shouldn't benefit too, especially when he had taken such a fancy to her. Lovely! That's what she was.

Alas! Betty was cursed with a listening look and it took no more to encourage him. But about these cemetery lots: here was the plan. She should borrow on her insurance. Then buy a couple of lots. The company would reserve the right to rebuy and resell the lots at any time within two years at a profit to her. In return for this privilege (which would be to her advantage) the company was willing to pay her dividends. Not large dividends, granted, but something as a return on her investment. She would be ahead the dividends, plus the profit when the lots were resold. A good proposition, he assured her. She was foolish to limit herself to nothing but her salary. Many people bought these lots right along and cleared a nice, neat amount, too. Only last week a friend of his doubled his money.

Maybe it was the smile and maybe it was the voice, but anyway Betty fell. And she did borrow on her insurance. And she did buy the cemetery lots. And they were never worth an extra dime. She couldn't afford to hold to them, but when she tried to resell them she discovered disconcertingly they wouldn't bring anything even approaching the price she had paid for them. She reminded the company that they were to buy them back at any given time within two years, and they said, "Oh, no, little girl, you're mistaken. We only said we wanted the right to buy them back. We didn't guarantee we would buy them or resell them for you. Too bad; things have kind of slumped."

But Betty wasn't listening. She had nothing with which to pay back the loan on her insurance. She was stuck. Exactly like many, many others who have been led into the same folly. She thought wistfully of the insurance. And wistfully of the boy friend who called her "monkey." And she went home and had the very best cry she'd ever had in her life.

Just because you've got that shiny new desk and were given an unexpected raise you probably think you wouldn't be so readily taken in. But Jane, another bright little girl, was getting along nicely, too, when she got caught on this one:

Jane taught modern piano music, harmony and composition. Things were beginning to break for her every way. In the first place the man who was head of the studio suddenly became the rage and acquired more pupils than he possibly could teach. Many of these he turned over to Jane. And then Jane, herself, came to be in demand to play at cocktail parties and suppers and for that she could ask—and get—a good-sized fee.

The winter before, when things started to pick up for her, she had bought a fur coat. It was a more expensive coat than she had dreamed of buying, but she justified it by deciding it would be good for years without any alteration. However, it didn't wear as well as she had hoped and the second winter it needed a little work on it. You know how things like that go. She hated to wear so stunning a garment when it obviously needed to be put in condition. Better to spend a little more on it. Besides she wanted to wear it in the cold weather in place of an evening wrap when she had engagements to play.

So she took the coat to one furrier and he gave her an estimate that looked to Jane like the national debt. She took the coat home again. The next day at lunch a friend of hers told her about a new furrier who had recently opened a shop and did good work dirt cheap. The two girls decided he was their man. They both took coats there and got an estimate that was a mere song.

Jane hastened to tell her mother about it, as long as her mother wanted some work done on her coat, and advised her not to delay until the furrier became better established and raised his prices. Mother ran over there like a blue streak. The man was a find.

A week later in the midst of a lesson Jane's friend telephoned to say there was something phony about the company and to get over there in a hurry. Which Jane did. They had had a robbery. Her coat was gone. Her mother's coat was gone. And so was her friend's.

Yes, Jane had a receipt, but it was meaningless. She eventually located it in her desk and read it through. It promised nothing and guaranteed nothing. She had accepted it automatically, thrust it into her bag and presented an unscrupulous furrier with a gorgeous wrap. For weeks Jane beat a path to the district attorney's, to the Better Business Bureau and to her lawyer's and found her only recourse was to bring suit. She was lacking in funds, in time and strength to fight so slick an outfit. So she gave up. It comforted her little to know the furrier had been run out of three or four other cities for the same offense. She bought a plain cloth coat and shivered through the zero weather like a shorn young lamb. The beautiful skins that had given her so much joy were on goodness-knows-whose back that winter.

Of course, you would have sensed the gentleman in the woodpile in that one. But, smart as you are, would you in this one:

Mildred did fashion drawings for rather hard going. Her sister and her husband tried to be nice about her staying with them, but it wasn't the same as when she had had a little hideout of her own. She began to be discouraged.

In the mail one morning she received a letter about a vast estate of an early settler in Philadelphia whose name was the same as hers. From the letter she gathered there was an effort being made to locate the heirs and that it would be well for her to look into the genealogy of her family to see if some of these undistributed millions were not her rightful claim. Mildred was all agog. She fumbled around in the public library for a few days and then wrote back to make further inquiry. She didn't recall any great-great-grandfather who had received a huge land grant in the early days, but there was no harm in investigating.

Her note brought a prompt answer. There was an association being formed of the claimants to the estate and a genealogist was to be employed. For the consideration of a certain fee, with dues to take care of expenses, she could join and rest assured that her claim would be advanced.

Then she was excited. She didn't tell her sister and her brother-in-law though she knew all this would include them, once it was sure. She'd just wait until the litigation cleared up and stagger them with the news. She figured it over and over and although she could not spare the money, she decided to join the association. Such a lot was at stake! When she received her inheritance she could go to Paris and study at the Beaux Arts and think of all that would mean!

She joined. She waited anxiously for news and willingly paid the extra assessments for court proceedings. But what court and what proceedings she never learned because the first thing she knew she woke up one morning to read in the paper that 25 men had been indicted for an estate fraud and with sinking heart she read the name of the estate. It was hers. And there wasn't any gigantic fortune coming her way at all. The only fortune was made out of her—and others'—credulity, which netted a group of swindlers millions of dollars.

We have cited these instances because, much the same as it takes two to make a quarrel, it takes two to make a fraud. In each one of the three cases there was a reason why the fraud worked, and these reasons are so common to us all that the entire spider web of fraudulent deceit is spun around them.

The Better Business Bureaus use an excellent slogan—"Before You Invest—Investigate"—and that's the whole story.

These three feminine failings make fertile ground for swindlers: taking the verbal assurance of the salesman as part of the deal, neglecting to read a receipt or a contract, wanting something we have no rhyme or reason to expect from life. Without these, we'll bet a cookie, fraud would suffer such a slump that swindlers would have to go back to horse thieving.

It isn't always easy to spot a crook. Like the small neighbor of ours who heard his parents discussing a holdup and begged, "Show me a burglar, Mummy," we can't tell from the cut of their clothes and the tilt of the brim of their hats which ones are up to no good.

But we might, at least, be forewarned, if we had at hand a Dictionary of Deception like this:

Association of Heirs: There is a long list of these, operating under different plans, but most of them lay claim to valuable property in the large cities of the United States, as, for instance, the Emrich Estate, the promoters of which modestly claimed a good share of the business section of New York City, including the area where Trinity Church is located.

Bogus Bond Salesmen: There are the miracle workers who guarantee that your bonds can be brought back to par by an investment of a small additional sum. Baloney!

—o-o—

BORROWERS by profession: You never met them until this auspicious moment, but they know someone intimately at the "home office" and are temporarily stranded. They work this overtime on insurance firms. Also you may meet borrowers from the country who will pay back your loan of money by keeping you in fresh wholesome eggs and butter the rest of your natural days. There may be a farm, but there are seldom any eggs and butter forthcoming for you.

Cash Bond Employment Agencies: A fraudulent means of getting a girl, or a man for that matter, to post a cash bond as evidence of good faith. When the agency fails to secure a job for the poor job seeker, the bond is forfeited and she, or he, is out a few more square meals.

Charity Rackets: You are sent merchandise which you didn't order and for which, if you are foolish enough to send payment, the commercial promoter gets the major part.

Dear Deceased Schemes: Highly successful. Someone appears in person, or notifies the family by mail that the member of the family who has just died has made partial payment upon, or placed an order for anything from worthless stock to monogrammed pencils. The family sentimentally continues the payments and the promoter continues in business.

Distress Sales: Bankruptcy and fire sales. Upon investigation 90 per cent of them have been proved fraudulent.

Encyclopedia Salesmen: The ones who are eager to place a few sets of the new edition in the hands of discriminating people (you are so complimented) at a special low price so as to introduce it. You later discover, however, you are paying the regular price and that all the copies are sold by the same flattering method.

English Sailor: He's just off a ship and has some homespuns and tweeds for sale which he figures in English pounds instead of dollars. The truth is it's a long time since he's been to sea, and you're at sea if you buy his merchandise which you can duplicate almost anywhere for less money.

Fake Stockbrokers: They mail you an analysis of several standard and well-rated securities, with an analysis, inconspicuously inserted, of an unknown stock, praising it to the blue skies. A day or so later you receive a long distance call urging you, pressing you, into buying this particular stock immediately as it is due for a sudden rise. The salesman may even have forwarded a certificate to your bank, so imperative is quick action. The stock is worthless, and so is the salesman's word, for he isn't a member of a legitimate brokerage firm. He's a phony.

Yes, heaven is a nice place, but what with wars, crop failures and other disasters, they're probably pretty busy up there, so it's up to you to protect yourself from the ruses and the hoaxes that would pick your pocket of your hard-earned dollars.

'INTELLIGENT WOMEN BEING SWINDLED EVERY DAY'

IT is one of life's curious contradictions that the woman who is most capable of earning money is oftentimes most incapable of safeguarding it. Perhaps the reason is that it just doesn't seem to be in the cards for a woman to be too calculatingly shrewd. When she is, she loses charm. The very charm that makes her valuable as an executive or as one of these take-care-of-everything secretaries is essentially feminine. (It makes not a particle of difference whether she orders the groceries or orders the office supplies; whether she fusses over a man's desk or his top bureau drawer—it's the same impulse.)

The smart business girl, and we mean "smart," is the one who looks as though heaven will protect her although she knows perfectly well it will not. But she doesn't let on. She keeps it strictly under cover that she is depending, not upon heaven, but upon her own level head.

She is astute enough not to be caught on a promising—too promising—chance to double her money or get something for practically nothing. Yet, every day women, intelligent ones, are being taken in just like mock turtle soup by slick schemers who are unbelievably adept at putting over fast ones.

Doctor Tells How the Body Utilizes Fat

"Fat Deposits First Ones Called on When Food Intake Is Diminished."

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

FAT is found so universally distributed in foodstuffs that it would be next to impossible to eliminate it from a balanced diet. But it is possible that if we could do so, we would be better off.

Fat can be converted into energy, in which its role in nutrition is similar to the carbohydrates—starches and sugar.

It also takes its place as part of the tissues of the body, in which its role in nutrition is similar to the proteins—animal foods. Some of the very important structures of the body, such as the nerve sheaths, have fat as a necessary part of their composition.

—o-o—

AS AN energy producer, fat is sluggish compared to the sugars. It has been described as wet gunpowder. But it is a good source of potential energy, and our fat deposits are the first ones called on when there is starvation, or when the food intake is for some reason diminished.

The fat stores in the body are mostly those immediately under the skin, specially the abdomen, the buttocks, under the arms and breasts, and around the face.

It has been estimated that the fat in the body is distributed as follows:

Under the skin, 50 per cent.
Inside the abdomen, 13 per cent.
Around other organs (kidneys, heart), 12 per cent.
In the muscles, 5 per cent.
Other places, 20 per cent.

The deposit of fat is increased by the increase of fat in the diet. More is stored with a diet rich in fat than on a diet rich in starches and sugars.

—o-o—

FAT CONTRIBUTES much to the gaiety of life. Most of the pleasures of the table are due to the use of fats—gravies, sauces, whipped cream, salad dressings. A medical friend of mine gave me a graphic illustration of this. He had a gall-bladder operation, and for a while all of his bile drained outside his body and none entered his intestines. It is well-known that fats are not digested except in the presence of bile. He told me of the dark melancholy that oppressed him in those days, and rhapsodically he described his joy when the bile began to go through into the intestine and he was once more digesting his fats.

This is the real keynote to the two diseases of fat nutrition—underweight and obesity. The overweight is usually an epicure; he likes fat in his food and fat is the food which best produces fat. For most overweights, the remedy is simple and obvious, if they will only take it. There may be an endocrine factor in some cases, but very few.

The underweight is somewhat more complicated; he may have a chronic disease, such as tuberculosis. Barring that, it is likely he does not enjoy the good things of the table and has little appetite.

Let Me Suggest

By Josephine Walter

LAST week, in her column, "Girl About Town" described the decorating course and contest conducted by a St. Louis department store, whereby the contestants took a mediocre room and, with supplies that were furnished, developed a smart interior in miniature scale. It was my privilege to serve as one of the judges and, after viewing the results, I was not only pleased by the high level of taste displayed but quite amazed by the many ingenious decorative schemes that were worked out.

Not only were a large percentage of the rooms livable, well-worked out and in good taste, but many of them reflected some of the very newest and most modern decorative features. For instance, the combination of blue and plum was used over and over again and certainly that is a color scheme that has been popularized by decorators. Then again, many of these tiny rooms boasted wall treatments with the fireplace wall done in a different or deeper tone than the other walls of the rooms a very new idea which the decorators themselves are just beginning to try. Over and over again, in rooms where a figured fabric was used as the drapery material, the same material was repeated on more or more pieces of furniture in the room. All in all, it was a most gratifying exhibition, I thought, of the knowledge and taste of our St. Louis women.

—o-o—

Equally interesting is the display of minature rooms in the window of one of our large furniture stores. These rooms, complete in every detail and executed with excellent taste, display a living room, dining room and bedroom, each furnished with exact reproductions of actush furniture which in turn has been reproduced from fine old Colonial models. The miniature furniture, one-fourth the size of the actual pieces from which it has been copied, and the backgrounds cost $18,000 to reproduce and required 35,000 working hours of labor. I am not trying to act as a ballyhoo artist for this exhibit, but I do think it well worth a trip downtown, not only to see with what skill the furniture has been made but with what artistry the rooms have been created.

● NO WOMAN for one moment would care to be accused of having a single track mind and therefore I mention this next item with fear and trembling. Yes, it's needlepoint again and I will probably soon be christended "The Needlepoint Nut." This time, however, it's a rug I want to talk about instead of chair seats. You may now buy a canvas with your three initials stamped on it, to be worked in coarse needlepoint for a throw rug. Such a rug would be charming before a fireplace, in a hall, or beside a bed. I may be slightly "teched" on the subject of needlepoint, but I still maintain that it's not only interesting and relaxing work but it also makes it possible for many of us to obtain far handsomer things than we could possibly afford to buy.

Another decorating pet of mine has long been the photomural, which is a greatly enlarged picture of a small photograph, used instead of wall-paper on one or more walls of a room. It is an extremely decorative medium and one that also permits a very personalized type of decoration. In the past these photomurals have been far beyond the reach of most of us but now, I understand, it is possible to have one made at a price that is not prohibitive. So, if you want a room that completely expresses you, consider the possibilities of having one wall of your room done with a photomural that represents your favorite sport, hobby or garden view.

● AS THIS seems to be old home week as far as my favorite topics are concerned, I could not bear to slight that perennial pet, the outdoor barbecue pit. But here is really news on this topic. A St. Louis landscape man has designed an efficient, attractive outdoor fireplace suited to the average home. He will, of course, build it for you if you desire but he will also sell you all the equipment, plus plans as to how to construct it for considerably less. Thus, you can be sure of building an attractive oven and yet be sure that it will work, too, when you gather your friends around for a barbecue on a brisk fall evening.

CUTEST TRICK of the week is the cocktail glass which announces when its liquid content needs refilling. It is made with a base which forms a little bell which may be rung as soon as the glass is empty. No fear, either of your guests ringing the bell before the glass is empty for then they would spill the contents.

—o-o—

YOU WOMEN who strive to make your dinner table attractive, even for the folks at home, don't despair because there isn't a single bud left in the garden to pluck for a centerpiece. There are marvelous possibilities all about you. Too often, I think, we are prone to forget what pleasing and decorative affects may be obtained with autumn leaves, sumac, berries and such. Don't forget, it's still time that the "best things in life are free."

Defense of Child Psychology

By Caroline Clark

THE HAIRBRUSH COMES OUT SECOND IN THIS ROUND.

Modern Method of Handling Children Not Infallible, but It Really Works, Successful Contestant Writes in Answer to Blast Against Present-Day Practices

THIRTY years ago I knew a little boy who filled up the tufts in his mother's davenport with cooked oatmeal and who, when the pastor's wife came to call, marched through the house with the flour sifter, leaving a trail of flour in his wake and chanting: "I want that lady to go home!" Thirty years ago—why, that was before grandmamas and maiden aunts had such a high-sounding phrase as "child psychology" to toss back and forth and bounce off the head of an exasperated parent. But there's nothing "modern" about problem children. Even in those days, when hairbrushes and castor oil were considered the backbone of civilization, there were good children and bad children, good parents and bad parents, and well-meaning critics who picked out a few outrageous examples and cried gleefully: "Yoo hoo! Look what I have here!"

If you will stand back just a little, Virginia, so as not to get in the way of flying splinters, I shall endeavor to get in a few telling whacks on your Back-to-the-Hairbrush platform. Take away the funny pictures and the studied whimsy of your article, and one has left the following: "I know a handful of children who are being raised by modern methods. They aren't very nice children. Therefore, the system doesn't work." And you add, quite irrelevantly it seems to me, that the Glory of Motherhood is a gross exaggeration and that it bores you to hear mothers boast of their offspring. Poor Virginia! Your hardboiled pose would be much more convincing if these little springs of wistfulness didn't keep peeking out around the edges.

"CHILD PSYCHOLOGY WORKS, BOTH INDIVIDUALLY AND COLLECTIVELY."

YOU SAY: "I like kids, even mean ones; but modern mothers get on my nerves." I don't like mean kids any more than I like mean grownups, but I DO feel sorry for them; and mothers who spank their children make me mad enough to fight. The old "mow 'em down" system (whether applied to one child or a whole nation of people) may seem to work like magic for the moment, but the ultimate results may not look so pretty. The mother who treats her child with lack of respect usually gets the same kind of treatment in return. It DOES do something to a child to have things snatched out of its hands—it makes him a snatcher. And the child who is struck will strike back unless he is sufficiently cowed. No, Virginia, it doesn't work; not because I could name specific instances wherein I saw it fail, but because it isn't reasonable—it doesn't make sense. You may smile with superiority after you've spanked your child into submission, but you won't feel very proud of yourself.

On the other hand, I could cite you dozens of cases where the spare-the-hairbrush method is turning out happy, well-mannered, and altogether delightful children. I could even mention my own 8-year-old, who I think could be trusted not to chop the leg off your piano. Moreover, consider the thousands of nursery schools throughout the country, all run "by the book." (Will you ever learn to use that phrase without turning up your nose?)

To illustrate my point, suppose that you, Virginia Irwin, are a teacher in one of these schools. You see before you this morning an assortment of children between the ages of 3 and 5, washed and unwashed, spanked and unspanked. And don't you dare call them "brats"! You have muddled through the morning somehow and now it is noon and the children are having their lunch. What's this? Little Johnnie refuses to eat his spinach? "I don't like this nasty old stuff and I'm not a-gonna eat it!" Quick, Henry—the hairbrush! No, no, Virginia; it can't happen here. You simply favor Johnnie with a look of strong disapproval and say nothing to give him a chance to prolong the show. And then, when Johnnie comes up for his apple tart you say: "I'm sorry, Johnnie, but little boys who don't eat their vegetables can't have dessert." Johnnie may set up a howl, but the chances are he'll bring you a clean plate when he walks up for his ice-cream tomorrow. . . . A simple little instance, to be sure; but it's typical.

YES, Virginia—it works! Not infallibly, not without a certain amount of friction, but it works—both individually and collectively. If you don't believe it, visit one of these schools—tell them you're making a "survey." Go home with Johnnie and ask his mother whether or not he's snapped out of it since he started to nursery school. Quite possibly she'll tell you: "Honestly, I don't see how they do it. Goodness knows, I've whanged on him regularly enough, but I couldn't seem to do a thing with him."

As for the Nobility of Motherhood and whether or not my child is under obligation to me because I gave her birth—well, I'm a "modern mother," but I've never given these things much thought. Neither have I ever worked up a martyr complex. Maybe I've been too busy trying to work out our relationship on a wise and loving and understanding basis. This job of being a mother takes a lot of patience and tact and self-control—but it's the swellest job in the world!

THUMBNAIL SKETCH OF WINNER

CAROLINE CLARK

TWO weeks ago the Women's Sunday Magazine published an article, "Modern Mothers Give Me a Pain," by Virginia Irwin, in which present-day mothers were chided for sparing the hairbrush in rearing their children. Readers were invited to reply; $25 was offered for what the judges considered the best letter. It is published on this page today.

The winner, Mrs. Howard R. Clark of Springdale, Ark., is 35 years old, has been married 15 years. Mr. and Mrs. Clark have a daughter, Carol, 8. Mrs. Clark writes:

"I was born in Neosho, Mo., 35 years ago. Educated at the University of Arkansas where I majored in languages and music; but at present I play the piano by ear in the key of G only, and wouldn't be able to order a meal in French or Spanish if I were starving. For the past few years I have been taking extension courses in journalism and occasionally bursting into print.

"...My husband is a hardware merchant with a dash of amateur photography on the side. With our daughter, we constitute a sort of mutual admiration society but we try not to be too obvious about it. I am a member of the Chi Omega Sorority, the P. E. O. Sisterhood, the Parent-Teachers' Association, and the usual small-town literature and bridge clubs."

Table Manners; How One Boy Acquired Them

Detailed Descripton of Stormy Session Between Parents and Son.

By Angelo Patri

"HERBIE, don't make that noise with your soup. Do you hear me? Eat quietly. And take your elbows off the table. Who'd you ever see sitting at a table like that?"

"Uncle Ralph."

"Then don't imitate him. I've told you a hundred times about table manners."

Herbie finished his soup without too much ado, then took a piece of bread and wiped the plate as if scouring it, stuffed the bread in his mouth so that his whole face bulged and gulped it down.

"Herbie, either you eat properly or you'll finish your meal in the kitchen. I won't sit at the table with you if you behave like that."

"All right. Can I have the first slice of meat, pa? I hate the piece that isn't brown."

"Eat what is given you. How many times must you be told not to ask for the piece you like best at table?"

"If I didn't pa wouldn't know and I'd get the inside, and I can't eat insides. Thanks, pa. Give me another potato."

"I didn't hear you say please."

"I didn't say it. I said thanks, though. Didn't I, pa? You heard me say it, didn't you, pa?"

"Yes, yes. Don't talk with your mouth full. You might choke, and anyway it isn't very nice. Now eat your dinner, and let's hear no more from you."

Herbie, the first edge of his hunger dulled, managed to eat without further correction until dessert was served. His mother gave him two plums and a slice of sponge cake. Herbie lifted one plum on his spoon, held the whole slice of sponge cake close to his mouth, ready for the bite, both elbows on the table.

"Herbie," screamed mother. "What do you mean"——

There was a stone in that plum and Herbie was rolling it about in preparation for its ejection when his mother startled him with her scream of rage. The stone slipped, Herbie choked and spluttered.

"Spit it out, spit it out," pa shouted.

Herbie spluttered and grew redder in the face. Pa jumped and grabbed him, turned him upside down and gave him a resounding whack on the back. Out came the plum pit. Herbie sagged into his chair, pa into his. "Twasn't my fault. You hadn't any business to yell at me," said Herbie, tears standing in his eyes. Mother was too overcome to speak.

"Never mind, Mary," said pa, later. "He'll learn. He's just at the age."

"No. He'll never learn. And he's going to the party Friday. I won't let him go. I won't be disgraced."

But when Friday came Herbie went to the party. The hostess met mother a few days afterward and said, "My dear, I wish you would tell me how you managed to teach Herbie such delightful table manners. He was then best-mannered child at the table. Everybody spoke about it. How do you do it?"

Mother didn't know that all the time she had been teaching and preaching Herbie had been acquiring understanding that would come to the top when it was needed. That is the way ALL children grow.

Case Records of a Psychologist

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE K-136: Alice W., aged 16, is a brilliant high school senior.

"But things don't seem real to me," she quietly admitted, after I had chatted for a few minutes about her school work.

"I often feel as if I am in a different world. The people passing me on the street seem as if they are from a distant planet.

"Sometimes I imagine that the houses are changed into old castles. At least they don't seem familiar. Again, I wonder if I am somebody else.

"Dr. Crane, what in the world is wrong with me? Am I losing my mind? My mother is getting worried because I sit around and dream so much."

—o-o—

MANY PERSONS of all ages experience this same sensation of unreality. Young people of high school age are probably most likely to report such experiences. And these people are usually the shy, timid persons who don't get along well with their associates.

Why should the world appear unreal to them? Because this is a psychological mechanism by which they try to gloss over an environment that is unkind or unfriendly.

Timid wallflowers are likely to weave an imaginative glamor about the commonplace situations of life. The world seems unnatural to them because they don't like the world as it is. They are simply trying to dress it up, or disguise it, so it will fit into their moods more pleasantly.

—o-o—

IN A MODERATE degree this reaction simply indicates an attempted escape from reality. It is one example of flight, and therefore is a cousin to the use of alcohol, dope, vagabondage, and other avoidance reactions.

In an extreme degree this withdrawal from life may even continue to the state of schizophrenia or a total denial of reality.

—o-o—

THE SECRET of happiness and emotional balance consists of doing something constructive, instead of fleeing into a dream world or into an alcoholized unconsciousness.

Learn the habits which make you happy or a winner, instead of cowardly fleeing from life. You can be joyously happy in living with your asosciates if you simply learn how.

But happiness must be earned. You must work for it. It takes a great deal of energy and effort, as well as courage and cold sweat. For a time you may feel timid or blush or tremble with fear, but keep plunging into social contacts, and you'll finally become adept and delighted with people.

Prince Charming doesn't ferret you out from the thousands of other girls in your town or city. Competition is so keen today that you must know how to entertain him charmingly, or he'll never give you a second glance.

Sheer Wool Fabrics

With the constant increase in the acceptance of synthetic fibres for all costume purposes, the wool manufacturers are smartly turning their attention to creating new and lovelier sheerness in wool fabrics. Many new and interesting weaves have resulted. Among them such fabrics as sheer alpaca, one of the new wools that already looms large on the cruise horizon. For immediate wear there are new sheer worsted crepes that look as sheer as the sheerest silk crepe and drape as beautifully.

Multicolored Stones

Necklaces and bracelets that are made of strands of multicolored stones are an example of the colorful trend in costume accents. Three or more strands are used together. Each may vary the stones and combine several different jewel tints or be confined to a single hue. If the later style is used there will be one green circle, one garnet circle and a third that is topas tinted around a throat. Gold leaf decorations often are introduced to soften the color contrasts.

Belt Trimmings

Brilliant trimmings are glittering on the belts which St. Louis stores display. Sometimes the entire belt is adorned with metallic leather flowers, cut steel beads or nailhead trimming. Or, again, the embellishment may be confined to a spectacular front section. Naive themes are introduced, including the one suede belt which has charms dangling from it, and another which has sentimental script written on it. Clanking belts made of heavy gold or silver chains continue to adorn many autumn dresses.

Dress Clips

Match your dress clips to your hat, if you want to bring out a new color harmony. The hat may be of ruby red velvet, and the clips repeat the same tone in their setting, thus looking very regal against the black background of a dress. An emerald colored hat with gold clips set with emerald shaded stones, topas clips with an amber colored hat, and amethyst shades similarly ensembled offer other striking accents against any dark frock or suit costume.

Cook's Tour

By George Rector

WHY are there so many women engaged in the restaurant business? That question has been asked of me scores of times. I may or may not have the answer, but first I can state that there are more women restaurateurs than ever before, and they are increasing in numbers each year.

Let's take for example a young woman who has just completed a course in domestic science—and there are many schools and colleges throughout the country offering this course. There are also plenty of restaurants and hotels that are eager to employ trained women in their establishments, which is fine all around, as it enables the school graduate the perfect opportunity to get practical working knowledge of cooking and service.

Many of these young women look forward to the day when they will own their own tea rooms, cafeterias or restaurants. Others are content to remain in the field that employs them to manage experimental kitchens or manage lunch rooms or restaurants of large manufacturing plants, schools and other public institutions, as well as hospitals. All these jobs, I am told, pay good salaries.

—o-o—

Young American boys associate the idea of cooking with the fair sex. This is only natural, as the home atmosphere is founded on these lines, and he is seldom encouraged to learn or assist in any of the family cooking. This situation does not exist in European homes, where boys as well as girls are taught to cook. It is this early training that decides many a young chap on cooking as a profession.

● WHEN THIS DECISION is made the boy finds himself working in the kitchen of a famous hotel or restaurant, having apprenticed himself to the task for little or no money. This apprenticeship includes training in every department of the kitchen. The next step places the boy or young man as chef in complete charge of a kitchen of perhaps lesser proportions.

The thought that I want to convey is that the field and opportunity for young people in the commercial food world is unlimited, provided they apply themselves in a serious manner. There will always be food and there will always be people, also 365 days in the year to conjure with, so there must of necessity be cooks.

—o-o—

It has just occurred to me that we haven't included egg recipes in the column lately. Here is a classic which has been in the Rector portfolio for years. The first time I saw this dish prepared was when I was serving my apprenticeship in the kitchen of the Cafe de Paris, Paris, France:

EGGS AU BEURRE NOIR

Four eggs, one tablespoon butter, salt and pepper, one and one-half tablespoons butter, one and one-half tablespoons vinegar, one teaspoon chives, finely chopped.

Melt one tablespoon of butter in small frying pan and cook eggs over low heat until set. Remove to hot plates, taking care not to break the yolks. Season with salt and pepper and sprinkle over with finely chopped chives. Add remaining butter to frying pan, let it turn brown, remove from fire and add vinegar. Pour over eggs and serve immediately. The vinegar combining with the hot butter makes a delightful sauce for eggs cooked in this manner. If chives are not available you have my permission to scrape a few slivers of garlic over the eggs; but remember, this is off the record, as it isn't strictly a la Rector, but good.

—o-o—

● HERE is a dandy luncheon egg dish, especially nice if garnished with broiled sausages, grilled lamb or veal kidneys or bacon.

EGG TIMBALE

Two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one and one-quarter cups milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-eighth teaspoon celery salt, few grains cayenne pepper, six eggs, two tablespoons parsley, finely chopped.

Cream the butter, add flour and pour on gradually scalded milk. Add seasonings and cook in top part of double boiler for five minutes. Separate eggs, beat yolks until thick and lemon colored and add them to the hot milk sauce. Beat egg whites until stiff, then fold them into the egg yolk and milk mixture, along with the finely chopped parsley. Turn mixture into buttered timbale molds, set in pan of hot water (like baked custard) and bake in moderate oven (325 degrees) until firm or about 30 minutes.

EGGS FLORENTINE

IT IS NICE to serve eggs in this manner in small earthen dishes for individual service. Butter the bottom of each individual dish and then put one-half cup of freshly cooked chopped spinach in each one. Sprinkle one teaspoon of grated Swiss cheese over spinach. Then drop one or two eggs into each dish, taking care not to break the yolks. Cover with rich cream sauce and sprinkle top with grated Swiss cheese. Place in a hot oven until eggs are cooked and top is delicately browned.

If You Ask My Opinion

By Martha Carr

Dear Martha Carr:

RECENTLY a very dear friend who came from a great distance spent a month in our home. Occasionally, during that time, I had callers who did not know of her presence and so did not call especially on her. However, some of the women did. In the former case I always presented them to my guest when she happened to be in the living room at the time of their call. In the latter I called her from her room when necessary to make the introductions. Always I tried to keep the conversation away from such very local things that would make her feel excluded from it because she could not know what it was all about.

I was thoroughly chagrined and embarrassed when she often coolly picked up a magazine and began to read while within several feet of the caller, completely ignoring my efforts to include her in the conversation. My visitors were too polite to betray the surprise which they must have felt at such conduct; but I think they had the right to resent it almost as much as I did.

The fact that we have been friends a long time and that she is not likely to need to meet the women again whom she ignored behind the pages of a book kept me from mentioning this to her. But now that she has gone I want to ask your opinion about it. Do you agree that she was rude or have I let myself become incensed about a trifle? Yours truly,

KINGSHIGHWAY.

It seems amazing to see the crudities some women and men can be guilty of although apparently well-versed in the niceties of life, either through inheritance or training. In your place, your embarrassment, both on your own account and for her is wholly in keeping with nice feeling and a cultivated atmosphere. Perhaps we can trace her insolence (with the kindest construction we are able to make for a friend) to thoughtlessness. But this excuse, and it is nothing else, is so commonly offered for rudeness and selfishness with a blandness that is both dumb and insolent, that we hate to hear it offered for or by anyone with intelligence.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

HAVE YOU any suggestions for a Hallowe'en party? Could you print this right away and if you have then I will send you a stamped envelope.

GREAT ENTERTAINER.

We will be very glad to send you or anyone who wishes it our "Hallowe'en Galeties," if you and they will forward to me a self-addressed envelope in which to mail it.

Dear Martha Carr:

PLEASE ANSWER the following questions as soon as possible in your column: 1—Can you name several clubs that girls, 14, can join and enjoy themselves? 2—Is it proper for a girl to wear her gray mannish suit under her winter coat? 3—Is it proper for anyone to say "My mother," when she is speaking of her mother to a relation or friend? 4—Is it proper for a young girl to shake hands with a young boy whom she has not seen for a long time—a number of years? A DAILY READER.

1—I would have to do a good deal of random guessing were I to answer the first question. Tell me what kind of club and what kind of amusement you and the girls like; then perhaps I can help you. 2—It is quite good style now to wear a suit under a top coat. 3—Of course. What else would you call her? You can leave off the "My" if you care to but it really doesn't make any difference. 4—If you have a friendly feeling for the boy, why not shake hands with him? It's being done.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM A GIRL 15 years old and will be 16 in five months; I live with my aunt who is not married and who never had a boy friend. My problem is, Mrs. Carr, that my aunt will not allow me to talk to boys. Most of the girls I know go out with them on dates. She keeps telling me if she catches me talking to a boy, it will be the last one I'll ever talk to. She doesn't even want me to talk to the girls. What would you do if you were in my shoes?

Will you please tell me how much I should weigh? I am 5 feet 1 inch tall. JACKIE.

I have a feeling that you are "drawing a long bow" about your aunt. And I think perhaps she may have had some sort of experience with your young friends and you which has made her give you as little lee-way as possible. You are too young to go out on "dates" with boys alone.

Certainly you cannot be put in a cage or expected not to take any interest in boys. The trouble is about these things that if some young persons are given an inch they take a mile.

You should weigh about 115 pounds.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WE READ YOUR COLUMN every night and enjoy it very much. After seeing so many letters each day from people troubled in one way or another, I wonder if you will enjoy this one—for a change.

We met and married in two weeks, over parental objections. My husband lost his job because of the marriage. He was unemployed six months and I worked—and it is hard to think of the misery we endured then.

Just at the darkest moment, he landed a job and the climb has been steady since then. We have a lovely apartment, completely furnished and paid for, a new car and a bank account. Needless to say we are very happy.

Our advice to anyone in difficulty is not to forget the power of prayer. A FRIEND.

Your letter is as rare as you surmise and is both interesting and inspiring. I am sure you have the good wishes of everyone who reads it and you were kind to write of your experience.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WHAT ARE the requirements for a job as forest ranger? And where would you write for a job? Thank you. YOURS TRULY.

You can get this information at the office of United States Forest Service, 1114 Market street, St. Louis.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM WRITING to thank you and all the other kind people for the nice clothing they gave me for myself and family. Also the kind person who sent the $2. I do not know the names of all these people so I must thank them through your column and I have written all those whose names I do know.

Mrs. Carr, you will never know just how much the clothing and money meant to me. My boys are now equipped to go to school. They are very happy. I only wish I could do something to repay these people.

I would have written you sooner, but have had a heart attack and was too sick to write. And now I cannot say all I would, but I wish you and all those who were so kind all the good the world has to offer.

Most sincerely, MRS. E. A. S.

—o-o—

My dear Mrs. Carr:

IF ANY of your readers have any heating stoves or stove pipes they would like to give, a group of high school girls would be grateful for them. They are to be used at the house of the "Catholic Worker," 3700 Pine street.

We will call for the stoves or stove pipes. And would be glad to have anyone wishing to donate, call FRanklin 7343. Thank you. I am inclosing, for reference, a letter from the principal of our school. A STUDENT.

Dinner Frocks Are Elaborate This Season

"They Are Infinitely More Becoming Than Last Year's Dresses."

THE formal dinner dress will be the focus of all admiring eyes this winter. So if you aspire to new conquests among the best-dressed, or wish to compete with the fashionable set, better make haste to look at the new collection of dinner dresses in your favorite shop, for this season's dresses are more elaborate than last year's, and infinitely more becoming.

Speaking of becomingness, the large woman particularly, seems to be favored, for never have we seen so many smart, flattering frocks suited to her statuesque proportions. Alix has draped his bodices in the most flattering fashion to achieve the much desired lifted line, and at the same time, makes a new diamond-shaped neckline or triangle line that does wonders. Lelong and many others of the Paris couturiers, show brilliant sleeves in dinner dresses—sleeves that will sparkle and glitter above the dinner table, completely concealing fleshy arms, which women have always abhorred and could seldom remedy.

In short, it is the sleeved dinner dress that we are going to see at most formal functions this winter, excluding of couse, the very important occasions and charity balls, and even the latter, while calling for formal decolletage, often presents a picture of mixed dress, some of the best-known socialites of the community wearing their dinner dresses, if for no other reason than to show off their brilliant sleeves or jackets.

The Flicker Front -:- By H. H. Niemeyer

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 22.

DARRYL ZANUCK just won't let his stars get old. No matter what pictures they play and how long a period of time is covered in the stories the heroes and heroines just have to wind up in reel eight as young as they were at the start. They can even be a bit younger as far as Zanuck, who is the big boss at Twentieth Century-Fox, is concerned.

In "Alexander's Rag Time Band," you will recall, Tyrone Power and Alice Faye began the opus when they were about 18 and wound up, some 25 years later, still 18. And now in "Suez," in which the question of time was established historically, Zanuck has the same young Power plugging away at the perpetual youth thing.

"Suez," the story of the building of the big ditch in Egypt by Ferdinand de Lesseps, is Zanuck's latest super-colossal film, breaking into that rating via a sandstorm in the desert. The standstorm is accompanied by a great deal of wind, supplied, we are informed by the publicity department, by a half-million or so airplane motors. For the desert was a synthetic affair, having been built, at enormous expense (we are quoting again) on a golf course next door to the Fox studios. There can be no fault found with the standstorm. We have never seen one, but Zanuck's super-creation looks authentic enough.

It is in the matter of time that Zanuck has allowed his story writers to run rampant and, again, it is Tyrone Power who not only digs a canal, but finds the fountain of youth at the end of it. In the picture, Tyrone as de Lesseps is about 20 when he gets the idea of connecting the two oceans and, apparently he does the job over night, for he is still 20 when he gets through. Now motion pictures may be your best entertainment, but can hardly qualify as good history teachers for the younger cinema customers.

Ferdinand de Lesseps was around 50 years of age, actually, when the idea of the canal hit him. He was 69 or so when the job was finished and wore, we seem to recall, a beard or a mustache or a goatee or something. That, however, Zanuck may point out, was Ferdinand de Lesseps. His Tyrone de Lesseps is something else again and keeps clean shaven—very clean shaven even on the toughest days on the desert—throughout. No Twentieth Century-Fox star is going to grow up, not even Shirley Temple, as long as Darryl F. Zanuck is sitting in the driver's seat.

THE OTHER PRE-VIEW of the week exposed to view the screen translation of the delightful stage comedy "Brother Rat." It is a fine translation, too, with Wayne Morris, Priscilla Lane and Jane Wyman doing the very best work of their young careers. The picture is not only a delight in itself but it brings to the screen one Eddie Albert, who will be lost to the New York stage from practically now on. He is back on Broadway for the moment to fill out a dramatic contract but when that is done Hollywood gets him, a "long term" contract already having been signed, sealed and delivered. Albert plays the same role—that of the bewildered cadet at Virginia Military Institute who is about to become a father—and really runs away with the film in his first cinema role.

TYRONE POWER . . . ZANUCK WON'T LET HIM GROW OLD.

IN "BROTHER RAT" the movie producers had no chance to go wrong in the matter of dates and things like that. Years may be washed away in a few moments and history thrown out of the window as was done in "Suez" but when it comes to the proper clothes worn in a certain period the studios insist upon what passes for accuracy. Take, for instance, "Dodge City" which is being prepared for an early shooting date by the Warner boys.

In this picture there will be two leading women: Olivia deHavilland and Ann Sheridan, and both of these girls have been told to get in training for corsets and relays of petticoats. The studio's research department and its wardrobe department had to combine their talents in a quest for the cambrics and ginghams which Olivia and Ann should wear to date the picture at the proper period between 1872 and 1878.

With the other properties, it was a similar effort. One of the Warner scouts found a locomotive which had run in 1872, down near Tucson, Ariz., but this locomotive had three driving wheels and an upper water jacket of the kind that the A. T. & S. F. did not run into Dodge City in those days. So the studio's craftsmen have had to rebuild an ancient locomotive to make it fit an old illustration from Leslie's Weekly.

AFTER LOCATION SCOUTS made unproductive trips to the King's ranch country in Texas, to the Sacramento Valley of California, to prairie stretches near Tulsa, and up to Dodge City itself, it was the verdict that country north of Tucson, Ariz., now looks more like Dodge City did, 65 years ago, than Dodge City itself, and the gun fights and cattle drives of 1872 will be filmed in Arizona. The King ranch of Texas would have served the purpose, but the King ranch is particular about its cattle, and showed little readiness to welcome an invasion by the 1000 head of longhorns which Warner's feels it has to round up for a proper background to the deeds of Errol Flynn, Alan Hale, Frank McHugh, Bruce Cabot, Big Boy Williams and Victory Jory. The King ranch now boasts of its prize Herefords, and its crossbred Brahmin shorthorns; which represent the summit of about 40 years of diligent bovine eugenics; so its coolness toward old-fashioned, skinny-flanked, longhorn steers, is readily understood.

IN OUR SET—Barbara Stanwyck is getting what she thinks will be the best role she has ever played. DeMille will star her in "Union Pacific," which starts work about Nov. 1. Barbara has already moved her make-up box over to the Paramount lot . . . In "Union Pacific," by the way, DeMille will not let any of his hundreds of Chinese railroad laborers wear the pig-tails of the period. It seems that the present-day China film fans just won't stand for pigtails, and DeMille always has an eye on the box office . . . Sidney Toler has been given the assignment to play the Chinese detective in the "Charley Chan" series. He will take up where the late Warner Oland left off . . . Incidentally, Charley Chan has lost a son, for Keye Luke, a real Chinaman, who has always played that No. 2 role, has moved over to Columbia studios under a new contract and is no longer available to Fox . . . When Warners remake "The Sea Wolf," as they will shortly, Errol Flynn will not be starred in it, as intended. Edward G. Robinson is to be the big shot . . . And Sam Goldwyn is to remake "Raffles" with David Niven in the part Ronald Colman played eight or 10 years ago . . . MGM has offered George M. Cohan and additional $50,000 to play George M. Cohan in the picture based on George M. Cohan's life, but it is doubtful if he will accept . . . In an "election" for the position of honorary Mayor of North Hollywood, Glenda Farrell snowed under all competitors. And Tyrone Power tied with Mickey Mouse for tenth place.

Taffeta Gains In Popularity

THAT Fashion favors taffeta along with many other fabrics dear to the heart of the Victorians has been evident from the start of the season. But now comes evidence that its fashion position is growing stronger. Not only does one see it in exquisitely skirted dance frocks over hoops, but early cruise lines suggest that it is to be worn this year for bathing suits and beach costumes, for street length supper and cocktail frocks.

The new taffetas for the most part are made of acetate yarns, which means that their colors are pure and clear. In weave they are firm and not easily crushable. In fact, so improved are these new weaves that they are even washable without loss of color or body in the fabric.

One new taffeta introduced this season has a sheen as soft as that of candlelight on a parquet floor. With the emphasis on Victorian details in the silhouette—leg-o-mutton sleeves, draped bodice, full skirt—you can expect to hear the rustle of taffeta more and more. Those who are young and those who are slim will find it very flattering.

Shops Featuring Hoop Petticoats

IF you are not certain whether you want to adopt the hooped skirt mode for evening, get yourself one of those hoop petticoats and wear it with any full-skirted frock. The shops are featuring this idea and have plenty of different models on display.

One of the most conservative of these petticoats has a wired coil at the head of a wide hemline ruffle so that the hooped effect may be eliminated merely by the elimination of the coil. Also this type of skirt places the fullness at the feet rather than the knees. Regulation boning is applied at the top of the knee ruffle of another skirt while others are stiffened by means of horse hair braid.

Tallulah Bankhead Brings New Play to the American

"I Am Different", Not Yet on Broadway, Begins Week's Run Tomorrow Night—Script Adopted by Zoe Akins From Hungarian.

FROM the West Coast by way of Chicago, Tallulah Bankhead's new play, "I Am Different," will come to the American Theater tomorrow night, for a week's stay. The play, an adaptation by Zoe Akins, former St. Louis playwright, from the Hungarian of Lili Hatvany, has not yet been seen by Broadway.

It is presented here under the joint auspices of Lee Shubert and Joseph M. Gaites. It was staged by Thomas Mitchell, the actor-playwright, who in recent years has taken notable roles in "Craig's Wife," "Lost Horizon" and "The Hurricane."

Miss Bankhead, on the stage in this country and in England for 20 years, has made only one previous appearance in St. Louis—in "Reflected Glory" at the American in April, 1937. Since that time she has been starred in an expensive but unsuccessful production of Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra," and a Broadway revival of "The Circle." She has also, in the meantime, been married to the actor, John Emery, who is her leading man in "I Am Different."

Emery, of a theatrical family which goes back more than five generations, has had extensive experience on the stage in the companies of Katharine Cornell, John Gielgud and others, and was in the screen production of "The Road Back."

Also with Miss Bankhead are Fritzi Scheff, famous musical comedy and light opera star of past years, now playing a dramatic role, and Glenn Anders, Theater Guild star of "Hell Bent for Heaven," "They Knew What They Wanted" and "Strange Interlude." Miss Scheff was last here in "The Prince of Pilsen" in the 1937 Municipal Opera season; Anders has played here with a Theater Guild company.

Others in the company are Margaret Seddon, one of the "pixilated sisters" of "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," on the screen; Ada Gerald, Hala Linda, Elizabeth Valentine, Thomas Louden, Walter Holbrooke, Charlotte Cooper, Shirley Cooper, Chester Miller, Herschel Bentley, Dorothy Adams and Francesca Rotoli.

The heroine of the play, played by Miss Bankhead, is a successful author and newspaper columnist who has frequently advised her readers that jealousy need not be a part of a woman's love life. As frequently happens in fiction, she has to face such situations on her own account.

"I Am Different" will be followed by a dark week at the American, according to present plans, with a cut-rate return engagement for "You Can't Take It With You" beginning on Sunday night, Nov. 6. To be played at a $1.65 top price, "You Can't Take It With You" will have a company composed of Clarence Oliver, Madeline Grey, Patti Litel, Alan Brixey, Donald Sharp and others.

The week of Nov. 13 goes to a revival of "Blossom Time," with Everett Marshall, Charlotte Lansing, Mary McCoy, Roy Cropper, Douglas Leavitt, Harry K. Morton and Zella Russell. Several members of the company have been at Municipal Opera.

Definite confirmation has come in the past week that George M. Cohan in "I'd Rather Be Right" will be the Christmas week attraction at the American, starting the night of Monday, Dec. 26. And "Golden Boy," which had been counted out entirely, is now set for the week of Jan. 22.

Program of Familiar Music To Start Symphony Season

Brahms' First Is Major Work to be Played In Concerts at End of Week—Musicians Have 90 Engagements Before Next Spring.

REHEARSALS will begin tomorrow morning for the opening pair of concerts of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra season, to take place Friday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, and Saturday evening, at 8:30 o'clock. In keeping with custom, the first program is all-orchestral. Vladimir Golschmann will conduct, for his eighth consecutive year.

The program will open with the familiar Overture to Weber's opera, "Oberon," followed by Richard Strauss' tone poem, "Death and Transfiguration," Ravel's choreographic poem, "La Valse," and Brahms' First Symphony. All these works have been played in St. Louis on previous occasions, the Brahms' Symphony last on Feb. 15, 1936.

The symphony ranks as one of the greatest in all the literature of music. Coldly received and even hissed at its earliest performances in the late '70s, it has since become a prime favorite. The opening movement is characterized by a majestic sweep of melody, the second is slow and lyrical, the third one of simplicity and grace, and the last realizes a climax sometimes compared to the finale of Beethoven's monumental Ninth Symphony.

In its season of 23 weeks, the orchestra will present some 90 concerts, including the 18 pairs of the regular subscription group, will be heard by student groups, on tour, in "pop" concerts and pension fund concert, and will sponsor the appearances of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. This season is the orchestra's fifty-ninth.

The personnel of the orchestra is virtually the same as last year, although Harry Lockofsky, first violinist, and Oscar Zimmerman, of the double bass section, have since joined the NBC Symphony Orchestra conducted by Arturo Toscanini. Selections of men to replace them have been made.

The first soloist of the season is Sergei Rachmaninoff, eminent Russian pianist composer, at the second pair of concerts, Nov. 4 and 5. He has selected his own First Piano Concerto for his appearance. Others to follow immediately are Frits Kreisler, violinist, Nov. 18 and 19; Maria Reining, Viennese soprano, Nov. 25 and 26; Lotte Lehmann, soprano, on Dec. 9 and 10, and Myra Hess, pianist, on Dec. 22 and 23.

The detailed program for the season's opening is:

Overture to the Opera "Oberon" — Weber
Tone Poem: "Tod und Verklarung" ("Death and Transfiguration"), Opus 24 — — — — — — Strauss
"La Valse," Poeme Choreographique—Ravel
Symphony No. 1 in C Minor, Opus 68— Brahms
Un poco sostenuto; Allegro
Andante sostenuto
Un poco allegretto e grazioso
Adagio; Piu andante; Allegro non troppo, ma con brio.

"The Star-Wagon" At Little Theater

"THE STAR-WAGON," Maxwell Anderson's comedy, which ran from September, 1937, to last April on Broadway, and had Burgess Meredith and Lillian Gish as its starts, will be brought to St. Louis on Wednesday evening by the Little Theater, for a 10-performance run. Since the play will not be presented on the road, no other production of it is to be given in St. Louis this season.

The scene of the play is a small manufacturing city in Ohio and the main characters are Stephen Minch, a meek but brilliant inventor; his wife, Martha, and Stephen's loyal laboratory assistant, Hanus Wicks. Stephen has never been able to make any money for himself but the company for which he works has flourished on his inventions.

At about the time Martha is rebelling anew against the financial injustice of Stephen's position, and has come to the conclusion that she should have married someone else, both Stephen and Hanus lose their jobs. They have been working on a new invention—the "star-wagon"—which will turn back time. In desperation, Stephen tries it out. The three principals are whisked back to 1903. Stephen marries a wealthy girl, Martha a prosperous young man, but their new destinies do not work out well, either, so a turn of the "star-wagon" brings them back to reality and greater satisfaction.

The Mummers will use the revised script of the play, which is the one developed by Lewis for the production at the Cohasset (Mass.) Summer Theater last summer, when the author himself played the leading part of Doremus Jessup, the liberal-minded Vermont editor. The play will be given at the Wednesday Club in December.

Chorus Concert

The Liederkranz Choruses, under the direction of Prof. Ernest Herzwurm, will give their fall concert at 8 o'clock next Saturday evening, at the German House, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues. The women's chorus will present "Chopiniana," as arranged by the late Prof. Victor Saar, and the men's chorus will sing several numbers a capella. Mrs. Caroline Willer will be soloist.

Mixed Opinion on "Knights of Song"

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.

IF there are enough Gilbert and Sullivan fans in New York—and the records of several past seasons would indicate there are—the new musical play, "Knights of Song," based on the lives of those celebrated collaborators, will enjoy a prosperous run.

Glendon Allvine's "excursion into the lives of Gilbert and Sullivan," although it received some enthusiastic and some lukewarm reviews from the New York critics, nevertheless excited its first-night audience to more than 20 curtain calls at the end and the two leading actors, Nigel Bruce and John Moore, had to make curtain speeches before the audience would let them leave the stage.

The critics, it might be pointed out, were almost as unanimous in their approval of Bruce, Moore and Natalie Hall, in the leading feminine role, although they differed with regard to the merit of the play. Brooks Atkinson of the Times thought Bruce was "vastly entertaining" but that Allvine's style was heavy-handed. John Mason Brown in the Post said the "excursion" was "one taken on a bus that suffers seriously from engine trouble," that the play was "not what it promised to be or ought to have been."

On the other hand Richard Lockridge of the Sun called the play a "charming, merry evening," Sidney S. Whipple of the World-Telegram said it should satisfy Gilbert and Sullivan fans but that others would find it disappointing. Estimating its commercial chances, Variety says it has "every chance of attracting patronage."

Here in one evening are presented not only the sentimental, humorous and dramatic scenes of most all of the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, but they also are interspersed as incidental to the main theme which tells of the quarrels and friendship between Gilbert and Sullivan, of how they split up and came back together again when they found they were of little value unless they could complement one another.

Here, too, is told much of their personal lives. Sullivan was a composer who aimed too high and when he found he could not reach that height of grand opera he became bitter despite the fact that he was being knighted for his more popular works. Also, he resented that his lady love, the parlor notorious Mrs. Cynthia Bradley, was frowned upon by royalty.

His collaborator, Gilbert, was a brusque, humorous man who ordinarily was quite the more human of the two, but he began to resent it when Sullivan was knighted and he was snubbed. For most of the time, except when prodded, he could keep his sense of humor.

Scattered at appropriate moments in this plot are excerpts from such Gilbert and Sullivan operas as "Pinafore," "Pirates of Penzance" and "The Mikado." Also there are individual numbers from others of their operas and for the most part lyrically sung by an excellent chorus.

FAR greater excitement of the past week, by common report, was the arrival of "Abe Lincoln of Illinois." This play, which thrilled Washington, D. C., on its tryout tour, is by Robert E. Sherwood and is the first production of that group of five playwrights —Maxwell Anderson, Elmer Rice, S. N. Behrman, Sidney Howard and Sherwood—who decided to present their own plays rather than sell them to other managers.

Raymond Massey, the Canadian actor about whom there were some editorial protests when it was announced that he would play the role of Lincoln, gives a performance that is in every way satisfying. He looks very much like Lincoln and has the slow, soft speech that Lincoln is said to have had.

Sherwood's story is simply that of Lincoln when, as a young man, he started his political career at New Salem, Ill., in the 1830s. It takes him on to Springfield in the 1840s when he was a law partner with Stuart. Then it moves again to the Illinois elections of 1858, and to the Lincoln campaign headquarters, at the Illinois State House on the evening of election day, Nov. 6, 1860. The story closes with Lincoln boarding the train which is to take him to Washington.

Another historical drama with music arrived in "Knickerbocker Holiday," which Maxwell Anderson wrote to Kurt Weill's music. This is the second production of the five playwrights and seems almost as successful as "Abe Lincoln of Illinois."

It is the story of New York of 1609 and the dictatorial manners of Gov. Stuyvesant who found that his arbitrary rule would not be tolerated by the early Dutch settlers.

Walter Huston, flaunting a silver peg leg, is electric as the frustrated Governor and Jeanne Madden is fetching as the lovely girl who almost loses her true love because the Governor wants to marry her. In fact, he demands it but love, at least in this fiction, triumphs.

ADVANCEMENT FOR BOB BURNS

By Colvin McPherson

SINCE the most movie diversion in St. Louis this week is to be found in the continuing pictures, "You Can't Take It With You" at the Ambassador and "That Certain Age" at the Missouri, a survey of the film situation boils down to a tabulation of the runners-up.

"The Arkansas Traveler," at the Fox, looked like the best bet, sight unseen, but did not produce as much audience pleasure at the opening as its companion piece, "Youth Takes a Fling." Concerning that jolly comedy, more later.

Script trouble seems to be the failing of "The Arkansas Traveler" since Bob Burns gives himself energetically to the creation of the title character—an itinerant printer. In spite of his fine work, who is to be much interested in a plot about saving a newspaper for a widow, in a town in which the Mayor is crooked, the business men intimidated by a political boss and the community about to be rooked by the boss, who loves the widow's daughter, and so on?

It is quite plain now, so far as the movies are concerned, that if anybody is to put on Will Rogers' revered mantle, it will be Bob Burns. He is increasing in favor with the public, at the same time developing his own screen character. It is a character more shrewd and less purely fun-loving than that Rogers represented yet it is as close to Rogers', in many ways, as Arkansas is to Oklahoma.

Bob Burns carries "The Arkansas Traveler" along by himself, without the aid even of his bazooka. That he does not realize a rousing success is the fault only of the script writers.

"Youth Takes a Fling" might be used as illustration of what a good script can do for entertainment. About a farm boy who wants to go to sea and gets no nearer than drivng a truck for a New York store, it is original, human and figured out to the last detail. It shows an infinitely greater knowledge of its situation than do the hackneyed inventions of "The Arkansas Traveler."

Joel McCrea is the youth, Andrea Leeds the shopgirl who decides he is her Prince Charming and sets out to make him play the part. His reluctance, his struggles as he tries to avoid romance will appeal to any man who has had to settle down and will amuse any woman who has had charge of the settling.

Along with this process, there are bits of humor characteristic of city life and incidents worth a laugh and the forgetting. Under the skilled direction of Archie Mayo, both McCrea and Miss Leeds play with delightful sincerity and Frank Jenks, Dorothea Kent and Isabel Jeans are valuable aids. The only shaky place in the whole film comes toward the end, where the complication created by a ruined wedding dress has the ring of old stuff, but the action picks up and goes on to a good finish.

Another program item is "The March of Time," which tells of progress in fire-fighting in this country and the loss of prestige by the British Empire. The short subject itself proudly states that it has been banned in Great Britain.

Vacation From Love

LOEW'S pictures, which arrived on Thursday and were reviewed in Friday's Post-Dispatch, are sufficient in combination, but hardly more than that. "Stablemates," with Wallace Beery and Mickey Rooney, probably was decided on when the two were temporarily unoccupied and an idle horse could be found to work with them. Filming may have been finished the same afternoon.

The job, nevertheless, is smoothly fitted together, a scene where Beery and Rooney operate on the horse (it's for the horse's own good) is realistically done and except for the fact that Mickey blubbers too much about dear old Wally, the whole thing has our sympathy.

"Vacation From Love" scrambles around with the old heiress-poor boy theme, but is fun. Reginald Owen makes a perfectly swell fool of himself, and for the girls there is a new actor called Truman Bradley, who is not only something but a great deal of something.

Touchdown, Army

IF there is any moviegoer in this broad land who would not bet on Army in "Touchdown, Army," he has a surprise in the main feature at the St. Louis. For Army does beat Navy in the big game and in the last few seconds of play and by rushing Robert Cummings, that dazzling Romeo of the backfield, to the game in an airplane.

Most of us aren't surprised. If this film had been about Annapolis instead of West Point, the Navy would have won. And if it had been about little Mid-West playing the big State University, Mid-West would have won. You can't fool us old-timers.

"Sons of the Legion" is unusually juvenile amusement. All the little boys in the movies join the organization and give the police their loyal co-operation when a dangerous criminal is at large. In fact, it may make some parents' hair stand on end to see the kind of co-operation they do give.

—o-o—

"You Can't Take It With You," at the Ambassador, runs two hours and five minutes and is hilarious for about two hours of that time. A second feature of some merit, "Girls' School," is to be seen with it twice daily, except on Saturday and Sunday.

"That Certain Age," which is Deanna Durbin at her best, is accompanied at the Missouri by the Dionne Quintuplets' latest, "Five of a Kind."

Film Actors to Get Time Cards Nov. 1, Under New Contract

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 22.

SOMETHING new is coming into the lives of Hollywood's actors and actresses—time cards and time clocks.

The new Screen Actors' Guild contract, which goes into effect Nov. 1, limits hours of work for players to 48 a week, with provisions for overtime.

Studio executives agreed today that the only way to keep account of players' hours is to give them time cards and "punch" them in and out.

Overtime, at time-and-a-half after 48 hours (except on Sunday and the principal holidays, when double time will be paid) goes into effect next month for all actors earning $1000 a week or less. This excludes extras, who now are being paid overtime.

Murray Kinnell, an executive of the Guild, estimated today that at least 70 per cent of the so-called "name" people are paid less than $1000 a week.

Overtime will be paid in the usual manner: For each hour, one-forty-eighth of the player's weekly stipend. A scene like this, under the new set-up, is within reason:

Cashier: "How come—you got a thousand bucks, didn't you?"

Hero: "Yah, but I've got $19.70 more coming—I made love to Hedy Lamarr for 49 hours this week."

Guild heads say the purpose of the new agreement is not to get more money for the actor, but to improve his working conditions. They say that actors have been obliged to work in independent productions, made at small costs, at "terribly long and indecent hours."

The little film maker, limited to hours, will see his costs jump at least 20 per cent after next month, a spokesman for one of them declared. In the major plants, it is said the increase will be a little less, perhaps from 5 to 15 per cent.

But the prospect of actors carrying a time card and punching a clock before emoting is amusing to most everyone else in Hollywood.

CHOIR REHEARSAL IN "THE STAR-WAGON"

"BRINGING IN THE SHEAVES" IS THE SONG SELECTION. SEATED ARE ELMIRA ROESSLER AND EUGENE WOOD, THE TWO LEADING PLAYERS IN THE LITTLE THEATER COMEDY. HARMONIZING WITH THEM, MILDRED BASDEN, JAY HOLMES, ROBERT KARNES, JACQUELINE WISE AND MARTHA JENSEN.

Rudy Vallee To Begin Tenth Year on KSD

Joe Cook, Walter O'Keefe, Lou Holtz, and Walter Huston to Help Him Celebrate Thursday Night.

NEXT Thursday night on KSD will be noteworthy for a real all-star hour as Rudy Vallee, marking the beginning of his tenth year in radio, will have with him three of the country's leading comedians — Joe Cook, Walter O'Keefe and Lou Holtz, as well as Walter Huston, the actor, and Vincent Lopez, the orchestra leader.

It was in October, 1929, that Vallee and a group of college musicians whom he called the Connecticut Yankees began his Thursday night hour-long broadcasts. He started with a program of orchestra music and his own singing, and immediately won country-wide popularity. In 1932, he changed his show to its present form, that of a variety hour featuring guest stars much in the style of vaudeville. All three of the comedians whom he will feature next Thursday night got their first radio chance in the Vallee hour, as did Bob Burns, Joe Penner, Frank Fay, Edgar Bergen with his Charlie McCarthy, Tommy Riggs with his Betty Lou double-voice act, and many others.

CLARK GABLE and Lionel Barrymore are billed in a special sketch, and Fannie Brice and Frank Morgan in a skit, for next Thursday's Good News of 1939, and Meredith Willson and his orchestra will give a musical preview of the forthcoming "Great Waltz" movie.

Uncle Ezra and his radio station, E-Z-R-A, will return to the air this week as a KSD feature at 9:45 p. m. Tuesdays and Fridays. Pat Barrett again will write the programs and play Uncle Ezra, with Nora Cuneen playing Cecelia and Cliff Soubier, the radio comedian, doubling as Mayor Boggs and Si Skinner. Henry Burr, the tenor, and the Hoozier Hot Shots also will be on the program.

Rex Beach, the novelist; Shelia Graham, the mimic, and Ray Whitley, the singing cowboy, will be Fred Uttal's guests on KSD's for Men Only program at 7:30 Tuesday night.

With his Mighty Allen Art Players in a skit titled "Long Pan Rides His Broomstick" as part of his show, Fred Allen has scheduled a postponed interview with Mrs. Emma Schatzman, a taxidermist, and other features for his Wednesday Town Hall Tonight.

Another telephone call for Clifford, a scene between Betty and Jack, a talk between Hazel and Clifford in which the latter tells of his fruitless call at Anne's house, and a scene between Claudia, Nicky and little Joan, will make up the One Man's Family broadcast at 7 p. m. Wednesday on KSD.

Al Pearce's idea of a question and answer program to end all q. and a. programs will be among the skits he and his gang will have for their period at 7 p. m. tomorrow on KSD.

Under the general title, "United States Government Reports," KSD will broadcast three periods sponsored by the National Emergency Council, at 5:30 tomorrow and at the same time Nov. 2 and 21.

Fred Waring has found that his combining voices with the orchestra has so pleased listeners, the next Saturday night on KSD he will use 55 singers with his Pennsylvanians in two medleys.

Allan Prescott, known to listeners for his Wife Saver programs, is master of ceremonies on the Saturday Morning Club program at 9:15 a. m. Saturdays on KSD.

Wednesday night's Lights Out play, at 11:30 on KSD, will be "Ghost Operator," written by Ted Maxwell, prominent as a radio author, who once played parts in these broadcasts. Mercedes McCambridge, the young NBC Chicago actress, will have the principal role.

St. Louis Symphony on KSD Next Tuesday

Special Concert From 10:00 to 11:00 That Night—Opening N. Y. Philharmonic Broadcast Today—Tibbett Sings Tonight—Toscanini Program Saturday.

A SPECIAL hour-long concert by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will be broadcast on KSD exclusively from 10 to 11 o'clock next Tuesday night, Oct. 25, to open the fall-winter music season.

The concert will open with the Beethoven "Coriolanus" overture, and continue with the lovely Andante Cantabile movement from Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony, Rameau's Suite from "Dardanus," Johann Strauss' "Tales of the Vienna Woods" waltz, the Scherzo from Mendelssohn's Octette, the Spanish Dance from La Falla's "La Vida Breve," and the Berceuse and Finale of Stravinsky's "Fire Bird" suite.

KSD will be able to broadcast this concert by the St. Louis Symphony Tuesday night because KFUO has relinquished the time, taking instead the hour from 11 o'clock to midnight.

AN hour-long version of "Carmen" will be given in the Radio City concert at 11 a. m. today on the WJZ net and KWK, with Jan Peerce as Don Jose, Robert Weede as the Toreador, Hertha Glatz, the Vienese soprano in the title role, Viola Philo as Micaela and Erno Rapee conducting.

The radio season of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra will begin at 2 p. m. today on the CBS net and KMOX, John Barbirolli conducting and Deems Taylor again acting as commentator. The program includes the overture to "Der Freischuetz," Sibelius' "The Swan of Tuonela" and "The Return of Lemminkainen," Stravinsky's "Fire Bird" suite, the Mozart Adagio and Fugue for Strings, and Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. This will be the second radio performance of Beethoven's Fifth within 24 hours, as it was scheduled for Toscanini's concert last night.

A concert of music representative of the five main geographical divisions of Canada, arranged by the International Radio Union, Geneva, for world-wide reception, will be carried from 1:30 to 2 p. m. today on KSD. It will be directed by Percy Faith, the Canadian composer and conductor.

Vicki Chase, WLW's featured soprano, who has sung frequently on network programs on KSD, will be one of the competitors in the Metropolitan Opera audition at 4 p. m. today on KWK. She will sing the "Caro Nome" aria and Friml's "Gianina Mia." Miss Chase, who was invited to compete after singing in a Vocal Varieties broadcast, has her own programs on WLW and also sings in the Sunday Smoke Dreams broadcasts.

Lawrence Tibbett has programmed the "Largo al Factotum" aria, an aria from Deems Taylor's "The King's Henchman," Langes' "La Gitana," Brahms' "In Summer Fields" and Damrosch's "Danny Deever" for his appearance as soloist in the Concert from Detroit at 8 p. m. today on KMOX. Jose Iturbi has selected music by Rossini, Bizet, Dukas and Schumann for the orchestral pieces.

Tomorrow's concerts will include one by the Rochester Civic Orchestra at 2 p. m. on the WJZ net; Margaret Speaks and Alfred Wallenstein's symphonic orchestra at 7:30 p. m. on KSD; the NBC String Symphony at 8 p. m. (8:30 on KWK); a WOR symphony concert at 8:00 on the Mutual net; Marek Weber's concert at 9 p. m. on KSD, and part of a San Francisco Opera performance at 10:05 p. m. on the WJZ net.

Wednesday, Howard Barlow's Everybody's Music concerts, which have been displaced Sundays by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra broadcasts, will begin a new half-hour series at 8 p. m. on the CBS net (8:15 on KMOX).

Friday, WSM (650 kc.) will carry another Walter Damrosch Music Appreciation concert at 1 p. m., and KSD, the Lucille Manners-Frank Black orchestra concert from 7 to 8 p. m.

Saturday, the Cincinnati young people's concert will be on the CBS net from 10 to 11 a. m. (on KMOX at 10:30), and KWK will carry the Toscanini concert by the NBC Symphony Orchestra from 9 to 9:55 p. m. (on the WJZ net from 9 to 10:30).

Guiomar Novaes, the Brazilian pianist, will be the soloist in next Sunday's New York Philharmonic concert, playing the Chopin Concerto No. 2 in F-minor. Other music programmed includes the overture to Berlioz' "Benvenuto Cellini," Griffes' "The White Peacock" and Brahms' Second Symphony. The soloist in the Concert from Detroit that night will be Emma Otero, a youthful Cuban coloratura soprano.

Orson Welles has scheduled for his Mercury Theater of the Air a condensation of H. G. Wells' "War of the Worlds" for next Sunday; dramatizations of Carl Ewald's 'My Little Boy," Saki's "The Open Window" and Sherwood Anderson's "I Am a Fool" for Nov. 6; scenes from Dicken's "Pickwick Papers" for Nov. 13; Ibsen's "Peer Gynt" for Nov. 20, and a dramatization of the life of St. Paul, based on the New Testament, for Nov. 27.

BEGINS ANOTHER CONCERT SEASON

JOHN BARBIROLLI, WHO AT 2 O'CLOCK THIS AFTERNOON WILL BEGIN CONDUCTING ANOTHER SEASON OF NEW YORK PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA RADIO CONCERTS.

Washington U. To Begin Tests With W9XPD

IT is expected that a start will be made this week on the program of observation and experimental broadcasting on the ultra short waves by the electrical engineering department of Washington University and W9XPD, the 31.6 megacycle auxiliary transmitter of KSD. The first part of the program will be devoted to measurement of the field strength of radiations from W9XPD and of the most effective height of receiving aerials.

KSD's engineers are constructing a tilting-type transmitting aerial for W9XPD on the roof of the Post-Dispatch building, so that the comparative efficiency of ultra short wave transmissions at various angles may be tested and recorded.

The university's end of the experiments will be conducted by Professor Roy Glasgow, chairman of the electrical engineering department, and his students.

Professor Glasgow and the students also are preparing to utilize for classroom instruction the 1000-watt transmitter which KSD used until it was replaced by the more powerful one now in service on the station's broadcast frequency of 550 kilocycles. The transmitter at the university will be used only for instruction, not for broadcasting.

HERE AND THERE

WITH the European situation for its background, the Town Meeting of the Air forum, scheduled to return Nov. 10, will have the 8:30 to 9:30 hour on the WJZ net every Thursday night. George V. Denny Jr. again will act as moderator for the discussions. "Implications of the Munich Settlement" will be the topic of the opening discussion. Nov. 17, the discussion will be on "How American Nations Can Co-operate for Peace."

Complete election returns are planned by the NBC for the WEAF and WJZ networks Tuesday, Nov. 8, as well as talks by victorious candidates and Postmaster-General James A. Farley and John D. M. Hamilton, chairmen of the Democratic and Republican national committees, respectively. Graham McNamee will head the announcers, and commentators of national reputation are being engaged for the broadcasts.

If Seabiscuit and War Admiral do race on the Pimlico track Nov. 1, the NBC will report it on the WJZ net, with Clem McCarthy at the microphone.

The U. S. Navy Band, which will give Navy day concerts in the Municipal Auditorium Oct. 27 afternoon and evening, has played hundreds of network concerts. Its conductor, Lieut. Charles Benter, succeeded the late John Philip Sousa in the post.

Programs marking the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Czechoslovak and Polish republics will be carried on the CBS net at 12:30 noon today and at the same time Sunday, Nov. 6.

The lives, persecutions and discoveries of astronomers through the ages will be the basis of a Men Behind the Stars series at 4:15 p. m. Fridays, on the CBS net.

WTAX, Springfield, Mo., has arranged to broadcast many of the programs originated by KWK.

Voices of Yesterday is the title of a program on a New York City station which is built around re-recordings of old phonograph records of the voices of William Jennings Bryan, Thomas A. Edison, Theodore Roosevelt, Sarah Bernhardt, P. T. Barnum and other celebrities of the past.

Last Wednesday afternoon, Edward Tomlinson, the NBC's expert on Latin-American affairs, was in-

Captains in Peril Drama Again on KSD Tomorrow

Final Trailing the Highway Patrol Program Thursday, —Cheri McKay Sings on KSD.

THE second program in KSD's Captains in Peril series, which began the past week, will be broadcast at 6:30 tomorrow evening, and will deal with the work of investigators employed by large insurance companies. The dramatization will trace the methods used by a chief inspector in solving a $180,000 bank burglary at Antioch, Ia. The burglar planned the robbery with unusual thoroughness, but neglected one detail. This the inspector used in a psychological attack to break down the story told by a suspect, a former convict, employed as a janitor in a building adjoining the bank, who had devoted a year to planning what he believed would be a perfect crime.

KSD's final Trailing the Highway Patrol dramatizaton, at 6:30 Thursday evening, will cover the story of two criminals who shot and killed a police officer when attempting a theft, their subsequent crimes and the manner in which the Patrol and police picked up clues and by deductive methods finally caused their arrest and conviction.

A NEW program titled Songs and Smiles of Cheri McKay will be broadcast on KSD for the first time tomorrow on an 8:45 a. m., Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays schedule. Miss McKay has been featured as a singer with the Merry Macs quartet, Jack Hylton's Continental Revue and on a number of other programs on the national networks.

Wednesday evening at 6:45 on KSD Mrs. Willard Bartlett, chairman of the Educational program of the Women's Committee of the St. Louis Symphony Association, will speak on the new symphony season, which will begin next Friday. Mrs. Fred Z. Salomon, vice-chairman of publicity of the Women's Committee, also has arranged for a series of similar talks on KSD later in the season, preceding the concerts.

Next Saturday, KSD will cover the football game between Washington University and Centre College on Francis Field. Frank Eschen and Harold Grams will be at the microphone.

Trade Notes

Emerson Credited With Small Set Development.

Major credit for the development of the small radio set is given in an article in the current issue of Radio Today to the Emerson Radio and Phonograph Corporation, for which the Mayflower Lamp and Sales Co. is the St. Louis area distributer. A production increase from 4,000,000 sets in 1929 to around 8,000,000 of all sizes and types in 1937, was due, the magazine says, largely to pioneering by Emerson Corporation in designing models to give efficient performance at prices which millions of persons in reduced circumstances could pay. Ben Abrams, president of the corporation, it says, was among the first to take the possibilities of the small set seriously.

Among technical improvements worked out in the Emerson laboratories were the "Miracle tone chamber," a new speaker and cabinet development designed on principles affecting the human voice. The new 1939 Emerson line includes 69 models, ranging from table sets to radio - phonograph combinations. Among artists who designed the cabinets were Count Alexis de Sakhnoffsky and Ostilio Ciccarelli.

REPORTS from New York and Hollywood are that a revival of the Show Boat, long a Thursday night feature on the WEAF net and KSD, is being considered. Tentative plans are to bring back the old cast, including Charles Winninger, Lanny Ross, Molasses 'n' January, Muriel Wilson and Annette Hanshaw. . . . Robert Cummings, a native of Joplin, Mo., who played on Broadway, was featured in the 1934 and 1935 Ziegfeld Follies and then became a movie actor, has joined the cast of the Those We Love serial to play the role of David Adair, the young architect. . . . Tommye Birch, formerly a St. Louis radio singer, who recently was given a five-year NBC contract, is to make her debut as a network actress tomorrow in the Dan Harding's Wife serial on the WEAF chain. She will play Eva Foster, a hat check girl who yearns to become a professional singer as June Dawn, so will both sing and act. . . . Harvey Hays, the Old Pioneer and Old Ranger of earlier radio days, is now playing the lawyer in the Guiding Light and the Woman In White serials. . . . Radio Luxembourg, the 200,000-watt European station, is to broadcast transcriptions of the Monday night Radio Theater performances.

Norman Windsor of St. Louis, who collects shoes without mates, is to take part in Dave Elman's Hobby Lobby program at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday on the WJZ net and KWK . . . Mark Warnow has been signed as orchestra leader for the series that probably will feature Sophie Tucker . . . Gene Tunney is being offered to radio sponsors as a sports and news commentator . . . James Melton, the tenor, who is on concert tour in Canada, put a clause in his contract permitting him to withdraw from the tour if a program for which he has auditioned goes on the air . . . Jimmy Kreiger, a San Francisco actor, is now playing Frank Hastings in the Pepper Young's Family serial . . . John Pickard, the Australian actor, who played with Frederic March in "Your Obedient Husband," is playing Victor Farrington in the Myrt and Marge series, and Joanne Myers the role of Julia.

• • •

CAROLE LOMBARD will play the lead in "That Certain Woman," in the Radio Theater Monday night, Oct. 31. . . . Hollywood hears that the Passing Parade will be dropped before long, and that shows being auditioned as replacements include Orson Welles' Mercury Theater plays, one featuring Harpo Marx and a Screen Actors' Guild dramatic series. . . . Frederic March refused a radio offer that would have netted him $150,000 over a year because if that sum were added to his movie salary, the income tax would be so high that he would lose money on the deal. . . . Santos Ortega, who played Jack Arnold with Myrt and Marge for two years, is now playing Lee Kirby in the series.

A John Philip Sousa memorial program, with B. A. Wolfe, Arthur Pryor and Ferde Grofé leading a large orchestra, is set for 7 p. m. Saturday on the Mutual net.

The seventy-seventh anniversary of the linking at Salt Lake City of circuits to give the country transcontinental telegraph service will be marked at 2:45 p. m. tomorrow on the CBS net.

STUDIO GOSSIP

DAVID SARNOFF'S statement, made Thursday to the Radio Manufacturers' Association, that the next step in television would be into the home, came as somewhat of a surprise, the Associated Press reports, as no public intimation had been given previously that the time was so near. The R. C. A., of which he is president, was ready, he said, not only to market television transmitters for stations and receivers, but also to start a public program service from its transmitter on the Empire State Building in New York City. Sarnoff set no date for the home introduction of television. However, he did say that the time should be by the opening of the New York World's Fair next April. Then Sarnoff indicated, both the NBC-RCA transmitter will be broadcasting television programs regularly at least two hours a week and the new CBS transmitter will be doing the same. Public reception of television broadcasts will be confined to an area within a radius of 50 miles from the NBC-RCA and CBS transmitters and to Philadelphia and Los Angeles, until such time as stations in other cities erect special transmitters and studios for television. The cost of such equipment, and the program problems involved, are expected to make development of television broadcasting outside of New York very slow, especially as the expense of network television is believed to be beyond considering for a long time to come.

Dr. Lon W. Morrey, supervisor of the Bureau of Public Relations of the American Dental Association, will speak on KSD at 6:45 p. m. Tuesday.

The Story of Mary Marlin serial will revert to its customary sequence this week after two weeks of flashbacks to earlier sequences. The change was due to the fatal illness of the mother of Jane Crusinberry, author of the script, who was unable to carry on. Now Miss Crusinberry is back in the NBC Chicago studios and again writing the script.

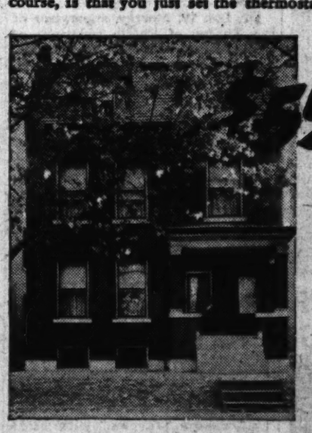
St. Louisans discover—

IT COSTS LITTLE TO HAVE OIL HEAT

17,000 Metropolitan St. Louis homes now enjoying the low-cost luxury of automatic oil heat . . . majority of average size or smaller.

Look at these annual costs for oil heat

"FOR THE LAST TWO SEASONS," says Mr. A. B. McMillan of 11 June Drive, "our new five room home has been heated with oil, and we believe it to be as clean and economical a fuel as money can buy. For example, our fuel cost last season was only $52.00. The best part, of course, is that you just set the thermostat and forget all about it."



A YEAR AGO, Mr. F. W. Klein, of the Schiele-Kleinschmidt Insurance Agency, decided to install oil heat in his six room duplex home, located at 3930 Ashland Avenue. He says: "Oil has given me every comfort and convenience that I could expect from fully automatic heat. I also found it to be very economical, as my total oil bill last season was only $55.60. Since I am more than pleased, I will be glad to recommend oil heat to any of my friends."

A FEW years ago, oil heat might have been considered a luxury for the well-to-do. But no more! Today many homeowners are installing oil heat simply because of its all-around economy, due to the low-cost, efficient operation of modern oil burners.

A large and growing percentage of the homes now installing oil heat, have a family income of less than $35 a week. And over one-third of all the homes now being equipped with automatic oil heat, have a family income of $35 to $50 a week.

These facts show why you should give serious consideration to the economy, as well as to the dirt-free, work-free comfort of having automatic oil heat in your own home.

NO CASH DOWN! F.H.A. will finance your oil burner purchase.

$59.66

"LAST YEAR the cost of automatic oil heat for our six room home was only $59.66," reports Mr. Denis Volas of 1122 Ralph Terrace, Richmond Heights. "I might add that we kept our house comfortably warm, with temperatures averaging 75 degrees during the day and 70 degrees at night. We certainly enjoy the cleanliness and comfort of oil heat."

7 TRAINING COURSES IN SCOUT LEADERSHIP

Seven training courses in scout leadership and four in cub leadership will be offered this fall by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council in addition to the introductory scouting course which opened last Monday for three weeks.

"How to Run a Scout Troop," will be given at the Elias Michael School on three consecutive Monday and Wednesday nights, beginning Nov. 7 and 9 under the direction of H. G. Gatchell. Merle D. Shippey will direct a course in "Short Term Camps," at Lion's Den, near Seckman, Mo., Nov. 26-27, and "Troop and Pack Management" will be offered under James L. McKay for six successive Monday nights beginning Nov. 7 at Stix School.

Other courses in scout leadership which will be held are: "Elements of Sea Scout Leadership," with Commodore H. A. Brereton as director, six Monday evenings, beginning Nov. 7 at the St. Michael and St. George Church, Clayton; "Senior Scout Leadership," to be presented at two overnight camps, the first to be held Nov. 12-13; "Swimming and Water Safety," by Commodore John Flint at the Principia pool, six Wednesday evenings beginning Nov. 9; and "Trees in Winter," for four consecutive Wednesday nights, beginning Nov. 9 at the Stix School, with afternoon field hikes scheduled for Dec. 3 and 10.

The cubbing courses include: "Elements of Cub Leadership," for six successive Monday nights, beginning Nov. 7, at Stix School; a Den Chief's Course, beginning Oct. 29 for five Saturday mornings; a course for Den Mothers which began last Thursday morning for five consecutive Thursdays at the Stix, Baer & Fuller department store bridge room, and another course for Den Mothers which will begin Tuesday evening for five weeks at the Stix School.

Individual salesmanship awards and unit prizes for troops which attain their quota in ticket sales for the Boy Scout Circus will be presented this year, William E. Port, chairman of the Circus Promotion Committee, announced at a "kick-off" dinner last Thursday night at Kingshighway Presbyterian Church.

Proficient salesmen will receive special card cases to protect their scout credentials and the award to scout troops will be electric camping lantern. Cub packs will have a choice of the lantern or a steel tool box with equipment for handicraft work. The Boy Scout Circus will be held Dec. 2 and 3 at the Arena.

Fall Festivities Begin at St. Louis Country Club

Several Parties for Debutantes at Opening Dinner Dance—Thursday Dinners to Be Inaugurated.

THE St. Louis Country Club has formally opened its fall season. The first of a series of Thursday luncheons for wives of members was given last week. Last night the opening dinner dance, at which debutantes made up a large part of the guest list, was given, and at the same time announcement was made of a new series of club parties—Thursday night dinners. A large sign hung in the foyer called the attention of members to the facts that beginning Thursday night "dinner will be served at 7 o'clock, introducing new menus"; that at 8:30 o'clock at the first party an exhibition badminton game will be played in the main dining room by Ike Macy, indoor champion, and James Tancill, outdoor champion, and that at 9:15 o'clock a movie of the St. Louis Country Club Fourth of July Gymkana will be shown.

The dining rooms were in full party array last night. Walls of the main dining room and its adjoining alcove, which inclosed flower-trimmed tables for 150 guests, were hung in gold cloth, over which grew stylized autumn flowers. A white picket fence, built from the floor to just above the wainscoting, was interrupted at intervals by open gates marked by tall urn-topped posts. The blossoms seemed to grow on stems several feet tall, back of the pickets, in colors ranging from bronze and yellow to deep reds. There were chrysanthemums in several varieties, asters and dahlias, and a few roses, over which giant butterflies flitted. Lighted columns painted with autumn scenes were suspended high in corners. A further suggestion of the season was evidenced by colorful oak and maple leaves silhouetted on light hexagonal shades covering chandeliers.

Additional color was provided in the alcove, where a bright blue panel covered the far wall. Mushrooms grew at one side in a cluster of flowers, and at the other a red bird sang on its perch. A butterfly three feet long stood out in relief by means of indirect lighting.

The largest party was given by Mrs. Clifton H. McMillan, Price road, in honor of two of the season's debutantes, Miss Becky Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Wells, and Miss Martha Bixby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bixby. The guests went to Mrs. McMillan's home for cocktails earlier in the evening.

The young women guests with 20 escorts, were: Miss Laura Hale Rand, Miss Caroline O'Fallon Gatch, Miss Louise French, Miss Frances Howell Lewis, Miss Margaret McPheeters Adreon, Miss Suzanne White, Miss Marian Spink Merrell and Miss Mary Jane Allen. Serving as chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Clifton H. McMillan Jr., son and daughter-in-law of the hostess; Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Sheldon, brother-in-law and sister of Miss Bixby, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Davis Jr. Mrs. McMillan Jr. and Miss Wells are sisters.

Dutch treat tables were popular with members. At one was a group of last year's debutantes and their beaux: Miss Nancy Lee Morrill, Miss Mary Julia and Miss Anne Sullivan, Miss Mary Lee Smidt, Miss Georgia Simmons and her guest Miss Janet Pierpont; and Miss Elizabeth Hoerr. Guests at another table included: Miss Miquette Magnus, Miss Nancy Bascom, Miss Griselda Polk, Miss Betsy Mahaffey, Miss Effie Virginia Zeibig, Miss Katherine Burg, Jackson Shinkle, William Love, John S. Leahy Jr., Joseph W. Lewis Jr., Frederick J. Taussig Jr., William McChesney, Hampden Swift, Delafield Niedringhaus and Robert Mueller of Baltimore. At another table were Miss Lida Lee Christy, Miss Betty Brown, Miss Eunice Holderness and Miss Vera Angert and their escorts.

Many of the younger groups were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Martin Hayward Post and their daughter, Dorothy Lee, for cocktails at 7 o'clock at the Post home in Fordyce lane. A few of Miss Post's close friends, debutantes of last year, including Miss Virginia Holland and Mrs. Jane Sandford Scudder, remained afterward with their escorts for buffet supper. They attended the club party later.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Bergs of Spoede road entertained Mrs. Richard Johnson Shipley of San Francisco, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Leming Corlis of the Chase Hotel.

WASHINGTON SCENE

By the POE SISTERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.

NOT since post-World War days when the late King Albert of the Belgians and Queen Elisabeth visited the United States has Washington society been as excited as it is at present over the prospective visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth of England next spring.

In the Department of State books of precedence and etiquette are being studied. If they come—and there is still a big "if" in the equation—the King and Queen have been invited to stay at the White House and there are to be a ball, a reception to Congress and a state dinner given in their honor. They are expected to return the hospitalities by a dinner at the British Embassy in honor of President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Hitherto royal personages visiting Washington have remained at their own embassies or in mansions lent to them for the purpose and have not lived at the White House. The most recent royal guests were the former King and Queen of Siam who were housed at the Larz Anderson mansion, the King and Queen of the Belgians who stayed at the home of Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, mother of Mrs. Edward Beale McLean, and the Duke of Windsor when Prince of Wales in November, 1919, to whom Perry Belmont turned over his famous Spite House on New Hampshire avenue. This roomy mansion was called the Spite House because of the feud Mr. Belmont had with the late Thomas Nelson Page and caused him, it is said, to build his house so its rear would face the front windows of the Page home.

In earlier times the following royal personages had been received in Washington: The Prince of Wales, afterwards Edward the Seventh of England, in 1860; Albert, King of the Belgians, when heir presumptive to the throne; the Grand Duke Alexis, younger brother of Alexander II of Russia and uncle of the last Czar and the Infanta Eulalie of Spain, aunt of the former King of Spain, Alfonso XIII; Prince Henry of Prussia in Theodore Roosevelt's presidency and the 18-year-old Hawaiian Princess Kaiulani in 1893. The dowager Queen of Roumania Marie visited here in 1926, accompanied by her son, Princes Nicholas, and her daughter, Princess Ileana.

Thursday, Navy day, will be celebrated with many parties and teas. The celebration has another significance as the anniversary of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Two notable present-day Washingtonians share Theodore Roosevelt's birthday with him, the Very Rev. Noble Cilley Powell, dean of Washington and Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania.

Dean Powell was born in Alabama and entered the church from Government service having been an entomologist and made several surveys of the ravages of the boll weevil on cotton crops. He often attributes a late train as one of the chief causes of his entering the ministry. The late Right Rev. Beverly D. Tucker of Virginia had been preaching at a church in Alabama and Powell, then a young man, was delegated to see the Bishop off.

The train was several hours late. So the Bishop and the young man sat on a railway express truck and talked until its arrival. What was said had a great influence on the young man's half formed desire to enter the ministry and he made a resolve then and there to study for orders.

Senator Davis on his birthday will remain in Pennsylvania where he is battling for re-election in November. Davis, born in Wales, was brought to America by his parents when only a few years old. His father was a coal miner and the Davis boys went to work in the mines when mere children.

The five "Js" Senator and Mrs. Davis' children whose names all begin with "J" have had every advantage, of course, but they enjoy hearing their father tell stories of his early days as a mine worker.

Ruth Kelly, daughter of Mrs. Clyde Kelly and the late Representative Kelly of Pennsylvania, will be married Nov. 2 to Ensign James B. Rutter, U. S. N., stationed on the Pennsylvania in San Diego.

Washington lamented the death of John Barrett last week. Barrett was here for years as the Director of the Pan-American Union. He was a popular bachelor then although he married later, his wife dying last year. His own parties given in the director's quarters at the Pan-American Union were real occasions.

KIRKWOOD

THE wedding of Miss Elizabeth Carol Matthey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon H. Matthey, 8 Highland place, to Richard Smith Miner, son of Mrs. Bertha S. Miner, 5637 Enright avenue, and the late Clyde C. Miner, was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at Grace Episcopal Church, with the Rev. Dr. Robert O. Kevin officiating. The chancel was decorated with ferns and greenery interspersed with bouquets of white chrysanthemums and white tapers in candelabra.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of pearl satin fashioned on princesse lines, the skirt forming a full circular train. The bodice was cut to a V in front and buttoned down the back with small satin buttons. Her finger-tip length veil was secured to the head by orange blossoms, and she carried a prayer book ornamented with lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Marie Matthey, wearing a sea-green taffeta gown, served as her sister's maid of honor, and Mrs. Bedford Hines Jr., who was gowned in ashes-of-roses taffeta, was matron of honor. Their dresses were made alike with hoop skirts and tight-fitting bodices fashioned with square neckline and puffed sleeves. Both wore small matching hats and carried nosegays of roses.

Benjamin Jackson of St. Charles was best man, and the ushers were Elmer Huisenga and Louis and Leon Matthey Jr., brothers of the bride.

Bouquets of fall flowers decorated the Matthey home for the reception which followed the ceremony. After receiving their guests the young pair departed on a honeymoon. On their return they will live in St. Louis.

The bride is a graduate of Washington University. Mr. Miner attended the Missouri School of Mines and St. Louis University.

Gray hair tells tales But Canute Water Keeps Your Secret!

If you have gray hair, simply wet it with Canute Water and allow to dry. In from 1 to 3 applications (depending on shade), it will be completely recolored . . . similar to its former natural shade. All in one day, if you wish. After that, a single treatment, only once a month, will keep it that way.

You may then curl, wave or set your hair — or get a permanent — if you like. The color is also proof against sun, air, salt-water and shampooing.

Canute Water is pure, colorless and crystal-clear, and will leave your hair clean and natural to the touch. Even you, yourself, will be unable to distinguish the re-colored hair from your natural. You will be delighted to see how completely Canute Water solves your problem.

No Skin Test Needed

CANUTE WATER is so safe and pure that it has never injured a single user in 24 years.

To the best of our knowledge it is the ONLY hair coloring preparation proven perfectly harmless by a noted Scientist in one of America's greatest universities.

Buy a bottle now and you'll soon understand why CANUTE WATER IS OUR BEST SELLER.

5080 PUPILS HAVE DEFECTS IN HEARING

Radio Talks and Speeches Before Clubs to Mark Week's Program.

This week has been designated as National Hearing week, during which the American Society for the Hard of Hearing and its affiliated organizations will seek to acquaint the public with the need for conserving hearing and the prevalence of deafness.

The St. Louis League for the Hard of Hearing has arranged a series of radio talks on these subjects, and other speakers will appear before clubs, to tell of the work of the league. More than 80,000 pamphlets on deafness prevention are to be distributed among school children. The league will hold open house at its headquarters, 4527 Westminster place, each day from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m. A demonstration of electrical hearing aids will be given there Wednesday from 2 until 7:30 p. m.

A member of the St. Louis Medical Society, in a radio talk last night, said more than 5000 children with measurable hearing defects had been found in the St. Louis Public Schools. This deficiency, he said, has a definite influence on the progress of children in school and later in their business and social careers.

He urged prompt medical attention to all ear ailments as a step toward prevention of deafness. Recurring ear infections associated with colds, he said, may lead to loss of hearing. Scarlet fever, mumps and syphilis were mentioned as other diseases which destroy hearing.

Campaign to Continue Five More Weeks, With 550 Positions as Goal.

Employment has been found for 60 St. Clair County young men and women since the opening of the National Youth Administration "job hunt" about three weeks ago, R. C. Hufford of the Illinois NYA office, announced yesterday.

The quota for the campaign is 550 jobs. The campaign will continue about five more weeks. New plans for approaching employers on the subject of employment for youth were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the county's NYA Advisory Committee.

All youths seeking employment through the NYA project must be registered with the Illinois State Employment Service, Hufford said.

UNITED CHARITIES ASKS MORE FROM EMPLOYES

The Employe Division of the seventh annual United Charities campaign will begin solicitation tomorrow in an effort to complete the more difficult phase of its task before formal opening of the general campaign, for $2,495,170, on Nov. 1.

Pointing out that the Employe Division raised $600,000 last year, Chairman Jacob Van Dyke declared that amount would have to be increased if the general campaign were to be successful. Increases of at least 20 per cent in individual pledges would be sought, he said.

In calling on 187,000 employes of businesses, schools and public offices, the division workers will emphasize a plan of paying subscriptions in monthly installments, Van Dyke said.

"Even if the average per employe were only 10 cents for each of the 87 agencies of United Charities, or even only 10 cents a week over a year's time, that would be substantially more than we have received in previous campaigns and would carry us far toward fulfillment of our goal," he went on.

"In order to maintain this average, however, employes will be asked to give only in accordance with their incomes. Obviously, it would be unfair to ask one employe to give as much as another earning two or three times as much."

Solicitation by the division will be carried on through seven units, as follows: Business unitX James E. Roantree, chairman, for solicitation of employes of about 1100 business firms; executives' unit, James M. Nelson and Hord Hardin, chairmen, for solicitation of executives not in the Larger Gifts Division; transportation unit, Homer S. Snow, chairman, 12,000 employes of railroads and other carriers; utility unit, Robert B. Brooks, chairman, employes of public utilities; public unit, John J. Nangle, chairman, municipal, State and Federal employes; schools unit, Supt. Henry J. Gerling, chairman, 4000 employes of public, private and parochial schools; financial unit, John W. Snyder, chairman, 4000 employes of 36 banks.

Auto News And Notes

NEW AERO-STREAM FRONT ends and bodies, two major and numerous other mechanical improvements, characterize the new 1939 Chevrolet models now being shown in the St. Louis territory. Outwardly the new Chevrolet, which comes in Master De Luxe and Master 85 models, is longer and lower in appearance, with a wholly new radiator grille and restyled lines throughout. Larger headlights are cradled between the fender crowns and hood, being mounted to pads embossed in the fenders, and are farther apart and closer to the ground to light more of the road.

A new vacuum gear shift on the steering column is optional on both models at slight extra cost. The Master De Luxe has entirely new knee-action front springing designed on the "wishbone" principle used on higher-priced cars for a smoother, better stabilized ride. This knee-action is combined with new double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and a torsion bar stabilizer, improved rear spring suspension and a new steering linkage.

The engine is the 85-h. p. Chevrolet engine refined still further for smoother power, more economy and durability and easier servicing. The diaphragm type Tiptoe-matic clutch is continued with improvements.

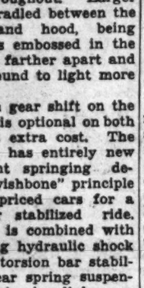
There is more front seat room. The hand brake lever is under the cowl at the driver's left. The instrument panel has been restyled and instruments regrouped almost at the driver's fingertips. The speedometer dial is much larger, and there is a headlight beam indicator and safe driving reminder.

There are numerous interior refinements extending to the windows, and the windshields are larger for better vision.

Chevrolet's hydraulic brakes, box-girder frame, semi-floating hypoid rear axle, syncromesh transmission and other established engineering fundamentals are continued without major changes.

WILLIAM E. HOLLER, GENeral sales manager for the Chevrolet Division of General Motors, was the guest of honor Monday night at a dinner given in the ballroom of the Coronado Hotel by 125 leading Chevrolet dealers to mark his fifth anniversary as sales chief of the company. The dinner was attended by approximately 125 dealers and zone officers from St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Wichita and Memphis.



W. E. Holler.

Discussing the 1939 prospects, Holler predicted a 30 per cent sales increase in 1939, and recalled that in the past five years more than 12,500,000 new and used autos, valued at retail at more than five billion dollars, had been sold by the Chevrolet organization. Chevrolet's new cars sales in 1938 will total around 600,000 units, so, Holler said, about 750,000 new Chevrolet sales may be expected in the coming year. The increase, he said, should mean an additional 150,000 tons of steel, as there is more than a ton of steel in each car, and should provide more than 50,000 additional workers with jobs in the Chevrolet factories and in plants supplying auto parts.

In addition to Rasmussen, the committee in charge of arrangements for the dinner included: Hugh Roberts of St. Louis, Harry Sight and W. J. Sullivan of Kansas City, J. H. Eppinger and Samuel Luby of Denver, E. C. Barwick and W. A. Connaughton of Memphis, B. K. Knuth and John Opitz of Omaha, James A. Davis of Hutchinson, Kan., and E. V. Yingling of Wichita.

PRICE REDUCTIONS UP TO $45 on the 1931 Chevrolet cars are announced, the new prices for factory delivery ranging from $628 to $710 for the Master 85 models and from $684 to $766 for the Master De Luxe models. These prices include all the accessory equipment covered by 1938 prices, and they are exclusive of State and local taxes and freight.

REDUCTIONS IN PRICES OF Dodge cars, announced the past week, range as much as $55 as compared with prices for 1938 Dodge coupes, five-passenger two-door and four-door sedan models. The new Dodge delivered at Detroit prices, including all Federal taxes, run from $756 to $1095. The 1939 cars are on a longer wheelbase and are roomier, as well as embodying a number of improvements.

THE TRIANGLE AUTO CO., INC., a direct Dodge and Plymouth dealer, which has been in the auto business for 13 years, is now located at 3228-40 South Jefferson avenue. The firm, which is headed by Al Jenn, has a super service agency occupying three buildings fronting for 160 feet on Jefferson just north of Cherokee street and a large parking space. Newton Flock is new car sales manager and Les Thurston, used car manager. The firm's used car lot is at 3151-55 Gravois.

Chevrolet Styling for 1939

ADDITION OF A WHOLLY new Oldsmobile six-cylinder car as an entry in the low-price field is a feature of the 1939 Oldsmobile cars now on display here. This car, called the Series 60, has a newly developed 90 h. p. engine. The larger Series 70 six has a 95 h. p. engine and 120-inch wheelbase, and the 1939 straight eight, called the Series 80, has 110 horsepower. Completely restyled front ends and body lines characterize all three models.

New Oldsmobile features include the "rhythmic ride," attaned by coil spring suspension front and rear combined with constant spring deflection, more effective hydraulic shock absorbers, stabilizing arms, a lateral stabilizer at the rear and a spring steel stabilizer at the front of the chassis. All of these stabilizing units are made permanently silent by rubber-cushioning. A new dual center-control steering system gives smoother steering. A "handishift," with gear lever on the steering column, is standard equipment. Oldsmobile automatic safety standard is optional at extra cost on all models.

All sedans have built-in trunks, eliminating flat back bodies. Use of hypoid rear axle gearing makes possible lowering the floors of the 70 and 80 three inches. Cars in both these series may be had with or without running boards. Safety glass is standard throughout all models, and driver visibility has been greatly increased. A new clutch is smoother and easier to operate. Bumpers are stronger.

The all-steel Fisher-built bodies are exceptionally wide, the seats having room for three adults. Doors and windows are sealed against dust and dampness. Upholstery options are offered for all body types. The super-hydraulic brakes have a self-energizing servo action which multiplies many times the foot pressure on the pedal, and the parking brake is independent of the hydraulic system.

A sunshine top, with a sliding roof panel which can be opened in fair weather, is obtainable on the Series 70 and 80 two-door and four-door sedans. All models have large luggage carrying capacity.

In addition to business coupe, club coupe, two-door and four-door sedans with trunks in all three lines, there is a convertible coupe in the Series 70 and Series 80.

A NEW V-12 LINCOLN-ZEPHYR car for 1939, with refinements of the distinctive front end and body styling which made this make of auto a distinctive contribution to streamline design when it was introduced in 1935, are announced by the Lincoln factory. The side view of the car now has an unbroken smoothness, due to a new treatment of door design, extensions of the bottoms of the doors concealing the narrow running boards. The gear shift lever is under the instrument panel, convenient to a driver's right hand, and the other controls are recessed. The large 100-mile speedometer is set in a newly designed panel. Seats are of chair height with ample room for three persons.

Body color options include two new metallic enamel colors, Arden green and eagle gray, and there are options in upholstery, trim and in tops for convertibles. The roomy, lighted luggage compartment is dust and water proof and encloses the spare tire.

Because of high power to weight ratio, the 110-h. p. V-12 engine is said to give exceptional performance. Greater engine cooling efficiency is given by the new lower radiator grille and changed location of the cooling fan. The self-energizing hydraulic brakes are continued with improvements and greater stopping power. The parking brake is independent of the hydraulic system. A new rubber-cushioned body mounting insulates against road noises. A two-speed overdrive axle is available on special order. Wheelbase of the 1939 Lincoln-Zephyr is 125 inches and the spring base is 136 inches.

A PREVIEW OF THE NEW Mercury Eight and the 1939 Ford V-8 and Ford De Luxe models will be given for newspaper men and trade publications representatives tomorrow forenoon at Dearborn, Mich. There will also be demonstrations of developments said to be of importance and interest to the entire automotive industry and an inspection of the new press shop, tire plant, tool and die shop and other units in the Ford $34,000,000 plant building program. The afternoon will be spent at the new Ford weather tunnel and test tracks, seeing demonstrations in the tunnel and watching tests and spectacular performances with the new cars.

IN 1937, AMERICAN AIRLINES, Inc., carried 2569 more passengers than did all the trans-Atlantic ships entering and departing from New York in 1936—a total of 153,964, as compared with 151,395 for the ships. In 1936, all airlines operating in and out of New York carried 303,891 passengers, nearly twice as many as the trans-Atlantic ships.

An Addition to Oldsmobile Line

Wholly new Oldsmobile Series 60 six-cylinder car, which has been added to the line for 1939. It has a 90-h. p. engine. The car pictured is the four-door trunk sedan.

A 17 PER CENT INCREASE IN production schedules is announced by General Salesmanager D. E. Ahrens of Cadillac-La Salle, based on public reception of 1939 models. "Although we considered ourselves optimistic when we originally set up our manufacturing program," Ahrens said, "we now find we underestimated sales possibilities. Orders received since the cars were placed on display warrant a substantial expansion in operations."

BUICK NOW HAS MORE THAN 10,200 employes on its factory payrolls and 1700 in the field sales and manufacturing supervisory departments, and expects to put 1200 more at work by Nov. 1. In addition, 5400 workers are employed in the Fisher Body division, building bodies exclusively for Buick. Virtually all Buick factory departments are on two shifts of eight hours each, five days a week. Current output is at the rate of 1080 a day, with schedules calling for making 21,000 cars this month and 24,000 in November. Volume of orders for new cars received by dealers is 62 per cent ahead of last year and more than 50 per cent above the 1936 announcement period.

The 1939 Lincoln-Zephyr Car

PLANS FOR APPROXIMATELY 400 educational meetings for service men of Chrysler Corporation dealers throughout the country were explained Monday at a meeting at the Coronado Hotel at which the principal speaker was T. W. Moss, general service manager for Chrysler, Plymouth and De Soto. The purpose of these school meetings, which will be held in 135 of the larger cities, Moss said, is to acquaint all of the dealers' service men with the most up-to-date methods for servicing the 1939 cars.

In addition to technical courses, the men will be shown new equipment for safety through service work. Between 35,000 and 40,000 service men will attend the meetings, which will be conducted by the regional service managers through this month, November and December.

FACTORY PRICE REDUCtions of $15 for the Lincoln-Zephyr four-door sedan and $25 for the coupe sedan are announced. The Lincoln-Zephyr factory prices, without taxes, freight and local delivery charges, now range from $1370 to $1790 for standard models and from $1450 up for models with custom trimmed interiors.

FIRST MAJOR UTILITY SALE UNDER 1935 LAW

Commonwealth & Southern Subsidiary Buys Cities Service Property in Michigan.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The first sale of a major electric power property as a result of the intergration provisions of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 was recorded today when Consumers' Power Co., Michigan operating subsidiary of the Commonwealth & Southern System, acquired the Citizens' Light and Power Co. of Adrian, Mich., subsidiary of Cities Service.

The sale is subject to approval by the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Michigan Public Utilities Commission. The SEC, however, had given its preliminary approval, in principle, before the sale was announced.

The negotiations were conducted by Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth & Southern, and W. Alton Jones, executive vice-president of Cities Service.

For several months it has been understood that Cities Service, rather than attempt to comply with the provisions of the 1935 legislation calling for geographic integration of operating properties, would withdraw from the electric power field, sell its properties, and concentrate on its other activities, such as gasoline and oil production and distribution.

Willkie entered into negotiations with Cities Service several months ago for the Citizens' Light and Power Co., which serves parts of Monroe and Lenawee counties, in Southeastern Michigan. The sale price was $3,200,000.

The Adrian property was part of a chain of Cities Service facilities in Michigan and Ohio. Well-informed utility circles regard it as a strong possibility that Commonwealth & Southern, to integrate its Ohio Edison Co. with Consumers' Power, might enter into further negotiations with Cities Service for the purchase of Ohio properties of the latter company.

HORSE SHOW TODAY AT WESTWOOD CLUB

More than 250 saddle horses, including several ribbon winners in the recent St. Louis National Horse Show, have been entered in the ninth annual Westwood Country Club Horse Show, which will be held this afternoon on the grounds of Westwood Stables, Ballas and Conway roads.

The largest group of entries is in the four children's classes. Twenty-four hunters and 21 jumpers will participate, as will representative groups of three-gaited and five-gaited horses. Two open classes will be held for the gaited horses and there will be one family class, one class for roadsters and several for model groups.

Julius R. Van Raalte, general manager of the show, said entries exceeded expectations, making it necessary to schedule the show's opening for 12.30 o'clock instead of 2, as originally announced. Trophies and ribbons will be awarded to winners in the various classes.

While most of the entries are from country clubs, private stables and riding academies in St. Louis County, several groups from East St. Louis, Belleville and several schools in Illinois will take part.

Col. Robert Rossow of Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., and Mrs. Mary K. Holt of Maple Park, Ill., will judge the show.

Robert Briffault to Speak.

Robert Briffault, author, will speak on "Will the Democratic Powers Have to Fight" at a dinner meeting of the St. Louis University Club, Tuesday, at the club.

CAMPAIGN IN COUNTY FOR NEW COURTHOUSE

Citizens' Group Announces That Party Committees Favor Bond Proposal.

Opening a campaign for an $850,000 bond issue for a new St. Louis County Courthouse at Clayton, to be submitted in the Nov. 8 election, the Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee announced yesterday that the proposal had been approved by both the Democratic and Republican County Committees and by the St. Louis County Farm Bureau.

In part, the campaign will concentrate on winning support in the rural sections of the county. The bond issue was defeated in the August primary by a vote of 30,992 to 20,379, lacking only 3256 votes of the required two-thirds majority. The heaviest negative vote was in the outlying areas, rather than in the towns, but there was no organized opposition and there is none now.

Other indorsements announced were by the Rotary Clubs of University City and Clayton and the Clayton Lions' Club.

Statement as to Taxes.

The citizens' committee called attention to the declaration of the County Court, or administrative body, that the aggregate tax rate would not be increased through issuance of the new bonds, as there would be a readjustment of the schedule, retaining the 1937 rate of $1.02 on the $100 valuation for all county purposes.

A PWA grant of $650,000 was obtained for the proposed new building before the primary, but was canceled on failure of the proposition then. However, county officials have announced that United States Senator Bennett C. Clark and Congressman C. Arthur Anderson have given assurance that the grant would be renewed. County Judge William E. Lauer and Comptroller Edwin O. Harper are in Washington now in connection with this and other matters.

Plans for the structure were published in detail prior to the primary. A change has been made in the site, however. Originally, it was proposed to use the present site, bounded by Forsythe boulevard and Central, Meramec and Carondelet avenues, plus the county-owned block to the south, now used for a park, vacating the intervening strip of Carondelet avenue. However, Clayton business men objected to closing this street. The citizens' committee announced that the County Court had agreed to use only the single-block existing site for the new building.

Sponsoring Committee.

A sponsoring committee of 1000 county residents has been formed by the citizens' committee to support the bond issue. Frederich J. Hollocher, retired Clayton business man, is chairman of the citizens' committee, whose personnel was selected by the County Court, August Hill, former president of the County Farm Bureau, is vice-chairman. Members are: Henry Babler, Edward L. Bakewell, George C. Bolte, John Q. Brown, J. Lionberger Davis, A. P. Greensfelder, Mrs. J. M. Hutchinson, Alfred H. Kerth, Fred L. Kerth, Mrs. Ann Ludlow, County Judge Lauer, William O. Reeder, Boyle O. Rodes, Charles A. Shaw, Girard C. Varnum, Mrs. Lillian Wilkinson and Herbert W. Ziercher.

There is a speakers' bureau directed by A. E. L. Gardner, Arthur V. Lashly and L. John Weber.

The County Court has requested the citizens' committee to serve in an advisory capacity in supervision of construction, if the issue is approved.

MRS. HARRY A. BEIMES GETS DIVORCE AND $4750 ALIMONY

Testifies She Was Treated Like Servant After She Was Wed to Patent Attorney.

Mrs. Betty Beimes, former school teacher, got a divorce and $4750 gross alimony from Harry A. Beimes, patent attorney, after she testified yesterday in Circuit Judge John J. Wolfe's court at Clayton that she had been "treated like a servant" since her marriage, last April 3.

Mrs. Beimes, whose maiden name, Halperin, was restored, testified that Beimes was irregular in his hours, but once locked her out of the home at 446 Woodland avenue, Webster Groves, for more than an hour when she was late in returning home. She said they were separated Sept. 6, after Beimes had been abusive toward her when she was in a hospital for an operation.

WOOD GAS RUSSIAN CHOICE FOR AUTOS

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

MOSCOW.—Soviet Russia is in the midst of a campaign to make its automobile industry independent of the oil well. A program for accelerated production of cars, trucks and tractors equipped to use wood gas instead of gasoline has been announced. Factory executives have been warned that delays in the fulfillment of the plan will not be tolerated.

Not that the Soviet Union lacks oil resources; on the contrary, the country is rich in petroleum reserves. But more than 90 per cent of the entire production of light petroleum products, such as gasoline and kerosene, is concentrated in the Caucasus. This means a long haul for most of the motor fuel used in the Soviet Union, for only about 12 per cent of the consumption is in the oil-producing area.

From a military point of view, this is particularly important. The Soviet Union finds itself under the necessity of maintaining powerful motorized armies and large air forces in the West and the Far East, while its sources of motor fuel are concentrated in the South.

The rapid motorization of agriculture has intensified the problem. The newspaper Pravda, mouthpiece of the Communist party, says: "More than half a million automobiles, hundreds of thousands of tractors, harvesters, motorcycles and other machines are used in our fields and industry."

The Council of People's Commissars has ordered the Stalin automobile works in Moscow and the Molotoff works in Gorky to produce 1500 wood gas cars each in 1938 and to prepare for series production in subsequent years. The 1939 schedule calls for 8000 such cars, and in 1940 the plan specifies 20,000.

The tractor plant at Cheliabinsk must produce 1200 wood-gas tractors in 1938, 4000 in 1939 and 5000 in 1940. The Kharkov plant is expected to turn out 300 in 1938, 5000 in 1939 and 10,000 in 1940.

SCARCELY had Great Britain muddled her way out of the Czechoslovakian crisis than turbulence became serious in ancient Palestine over the dilemma arising from promises made to Jew and Arab during the dark days when Britain was straining every resource to keep Germany from winning the World War. More than 800 Jews, Arabs and British soldiers and police have been killed in the mandated Holy Land within the last 12 weeks. Recently, reinforcements have been rushed in by Britain. She has become alarmed but so vast and scattered are her responsibilities that it is exceedingly difficult to concentrate on all at once. This naturally gives Italy, Germany, Japan and the Arabs an advantage since each can concentrate on one spot. It was not for nothing that Herr Hitler, in his Nürnberg speech, declared that the Arabs in Palestine "may be alone and defenseless but the Germans in Czechoslovakia are not." And only last week his press poured out its heart in sympathy for Arabs forming "free corps like those of Sudetenland . . . to fight against Judaism." It also asserted that Britain could withstand no determined Arab action. Mussolini's radio propaganda also has played its part in inciting the Arabs. Both Il Duce and Der Führer know that Palestine, lying along the eastern shore of the Mediterranean in proximity to Egypt and the Suez Canal, could be a serious danger point to Britain's sea and air lines of communication. It also could be of importance to Italy in her dream of a Mediterranean empire and to Germany in her drive eastward.

Methodically, Great Britain is going about the task of restoring order first and then settling the question of how to give the Jews a national home in Palestine and at the same time placate Arab nationalism. Increasing her forces to 20,000 men last week, Britain declared martial law, also promised to talk over the remedying of grievances in accordance with responsibilities assumed in World War days.

These responsibilities of World War days revolve around the support that Britain wanted from Arab and Jew and her expression of gratitude to Dr. Chaim Weizmann, chemist and Zionist spokesman. When war broke out, Britain found that acetone, an essential ingredient of TNT, was unobtainable outside Germany. Weizmann saved the day by discovering acetone could be extracted cheaply from horse chestnuts. Asked what he wanted for his invention, he replied: "Something for my people." That something eventuated into the Balfour declaration which was given to the world on November 2, 1917. Since 1920 there has been intermittent trouble over it. Almost two years ago, a plan was advanced to divide Palestine into Arab and Jewish states, and thus end the turmoil, but strong opposition arose from both groups. And now the guiding spirit of the Arab rebels, Haj Amin Effendi al Husseini, Grand Mufti, says peace is impossible unless full independence be given his people, Jewish immigration be stopped, Jewish national home in Palestine be forgotten, no more land sold to Jews, only minority rights retained by Jews remaining in Palestine.

Famous Torch Singer Has Troubles of Her Own

RUTH ETTING built her success on synthetic sorrow. From stage, screen, phonograph and radio her rich, husky, untrained soprano poured into countless appreciative ears the artificial laments of torch song writers, wrung countless sentimental hearts with her grieving ballads—such tear-jerkers as "Ten Cents a Dance" and "Love Me and Leave Me." She got rich at it and famous, but finally she got enough of fame, enough money—and enough of the blues. Less than a year ago she retired, tore up her music and made the break with her professional blues-mongering complete by divorcing Martin (Moe) Snyder, theatrical agent, who had guided her professional career for some 15 years. Well sheltered against economic storms by government bonds and trust funds, she looked forward to living serenely, with travel, the companionship of her beloved stepdaughter, Edith (Snyder's daughter), and plenty of leisure to indulge her fondness for such homely domestic chores as cooking and making her own clothes.

The other night the serenity and the stability she had worked and schemed for were suddenly shattered. Moe Snyder invaded her Hollywood home and put a climax to a violent scene by shooting Myrl Alderman, a young pianist and music arranger whom Miss Etting said she married secretly in Mexico last July. A day or so later Alderman's ex-wife, from whom he was divorced last December, sued her for $150,000, alleging alienation of affections, and called the Alderman-Etting marriage "pretended," saying his divorce would not become effective until December 2. Snyder, freed on $10,000 bail, said Alderman broke up his home.

Worried over Alderman's condition, incensed at Snyder, deeply distressed by the charges against her, Ruth Etting has been forced into the blues again—the real thing this time, not an imitation.

The Man Who Created POPEYE

ELZIE CRISLER SEGAR, the comic strip artist who died October 13, was in many ways the complete opposite of his famous creation, Popeye, the one-eyed sailor with the terrific punch. Segar himself was a shy little man, frail, with the large, melting eyes of a timid deer. Popeye, as everyone knows, is completely indestructible, brash, uninhibited, a roaring, swaggering swashbuckler. Both were noted for their kindness, but Segar hardly could have approached the overwhelming generosity of Popeye, who flung fortunes to "orphings" as fast as he acquired them through his fantastic adventures. Knowing Segar, anyone might jump to the conclusion that he had by psychological necessity bolstered an inferiority complex by creating an opposite of himself, and that Popeye was a wish-fulfillment, a little man who went about socking huge bullies and quixotically righting wrongs in a way that Segar and many another inoffensive fellow secretly longed to do. But Segar said that wasn't so, that Popeye merely happened into his strip, "Thimble Theater," back in 1929 because Castor and Olive Oyl needed a sailor to take them on an ocean trip, and from then on he just ran away with the comic.

Segar was born in 1894 in Chester, Illinois, near here, became poster artist and projector operator for a Chester movie house, submitted an early drawing to the Post-Dispatch without success, took mail order lessons, and finally landed a Chicago newspaper job. He began doing "Thimble Theater" for King Features 19 years ago, but it was not until he created Popeye that he became famous and his annual income reached $100,000. As other whimsical characters, such as J. Wellington Wimpy, the hamburger-loving fight referee, were introduced to support the new star of "Thimble Theater," it became syndicated in 500 newspapers. The cartoon will go on, probably with the artist who drew it during Segar's long illness.

Segar's children, Tommy, 12, and Marie, 15, were just as fascinated by Popeye as other children. Marie's cute mispronunciations at the age of 6 made Segar decide to have his tough sailor, Popeye, talk the same way.

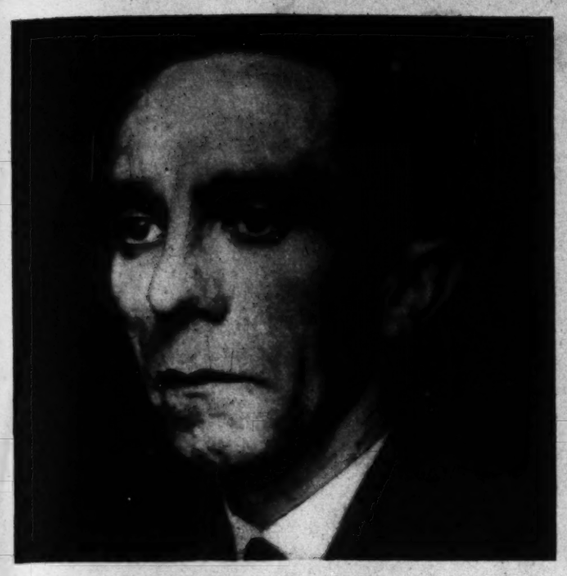
THE WORLD'S GREATEST MOB MASTER



Paul Joseph Goebbels, Ph. D., Minister of the Department of Propaganda and Enlightenment of the Third German Reich. He has survived unfortunate friends and deformity to become "the brain" of the Nazi Government.

"He is the Mephistopheles of the Party," declared Max Amann, publisher, who with others charged Goebbels with misrepresenting them to Hitler.

Associated Press photos except as noted

Always closely guarded, Goebbels makes few intimate contacts, as above, with the people whose thoughts he directs. His battleground is the speaker's stand, where by eloquence and adroit phraseology, he plays on emotions like an organist on a keyboard.

THERE is no parallel for the man Goebbels in history or fiction. Wilson had his Colonel House, Johnson his James Boswell, Holmes his Dr. Watson, but Hitler's Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels defies comparison in fact or fable. He is the little man with the big voice in Germany. He is the physical weakling with the powerful brain. He is Minister of the Reich's Propaganda Department. He does the thinking for the German people.

His success in molding national opinion to Nazi policy, in arousing loyal, almost hysterical, support for his Führer, are so evident that observers are confronted by the tantalizing problem: Is Hitler the Dictator, or but the symbol of his supporters, among them the dwarf with the game leg, nimble mind and eloquent tongue—Dr. Goebbels? Master of propaganda, he is the least publicized high official in Germany. Few know that he was Roman Catholic born, educated by virtue of a Catholic scholarship, studied under the famous Jewish historian of literature, Gundolf, at Heidelberg. He attained scholastic honors at seven universities, thus compensating for slight stature and clubbed left foot which disqualified him for active sports.

One element in his character, coloring every public utterance and each new prescription of "enlightenment" for German citizens, is an overwhelming contempt for the man in the street. He possesses in speech a power of invective to uncloak an incredible capacity for hate. His record in the Nazi Party discloses an agility in discarding old friends for new that would make a rat fleeing a sinking ship look, by comparison, like the boy who stood on the burning deck. But every friend's loss was Goebbel's gain. His power has increased until he is recognized as one of the three most powerful men in Germany, second only in influence to Hitler.

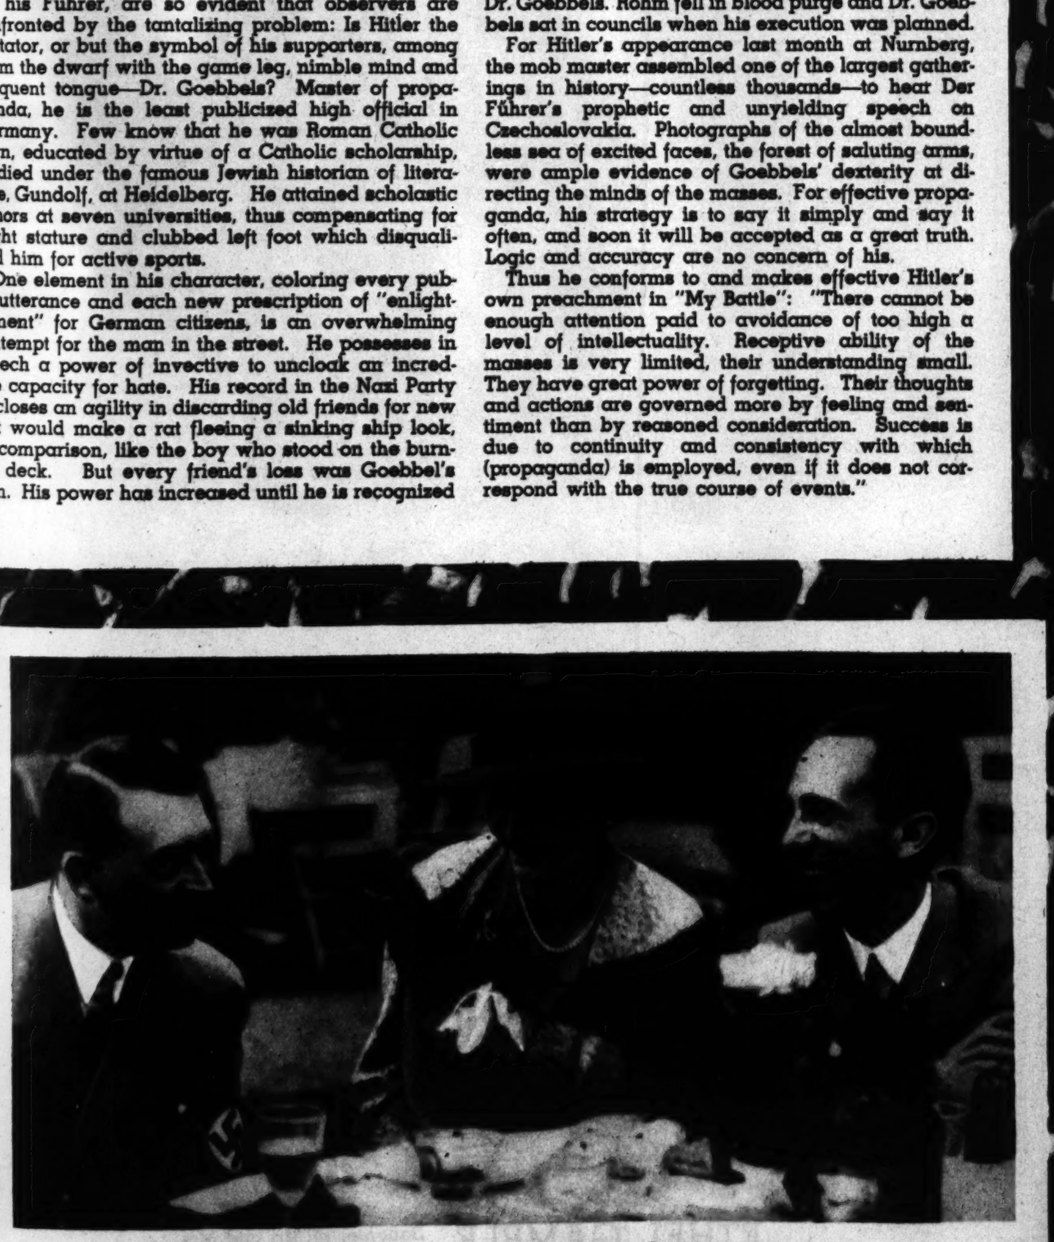
Early in Party history, his brilliance was bought by Gregor Strasser, sponsor of the movement when it was virtually Marxist socialism on a national basis. When Hitler showed his strength, subordinating Strasser, Goebbels renounced his old master and jumped to Hitler. He survived a close association with Captain Walter Stennes when Stennes fell from favor. Storm Troop Leader Ernest Röhm had no warmer supporter, no closer confidant, than Dr. Goebbels. Röhm fell in blood purge and Dr. Goebbels sat in councils when his execution was planned.

For Hitler's appearance last month at Nurnberg, the mob master assembled one of the largest gatherings in history—countless thousands—to hear Der Führer's prophetic and unyielding speech on Czechoslovakia. Photographs of the almost boundless sea of excited faces, the forest of saluting arms, were ample evidence of Goebbels' dexterity at directing the minds of the masses. For effective propaganda, his strategy is to say it simply and say it often, and soon it will be accepted as a great truth. Logic and accuracy are no concern of his.

Thus he conforms to and makes effective Hitler's own preachment in "My Battle": "There cannot be enough attention paid to avoidance of too high a level of intellectuality. Receptive ability of the masses is very limited, their understanding small. They have great power of forgetting. Their thoughts and actions are governed more by feeling and sentiment than by reasoned consideration. Success is due to continuity and consistency with which (propaganda) is employed, even if it does not correspond with the true course of events."

His tremendous throngs which gather for Hitler's appearance and on other occasions of national importance, are not left to chance. There is a seat or place to stand for every German summoned to attend. Attendance is not only a patriotic duty but an act of discretion.

Unprepossessing in appearance, Goebbels is compensated for his undersize and club foot by the knowledge that he can, by oratory and control of the press, cause the average German to want what Goebbels wants, hate what Goebbels hates.
(Wide World Photo)



The only man with more power in Germany than Goebbels is the Führer, himself, who last November dined with Dr. and Frau Goebbels on Goebbel's fortieth birthday.

SHOWN here are four of the pastel portraits of children which Eloise Frazier Mikkelsen, St. Louis artist, is exhibiting at Junior League headquarters, 4932 Maryland avenue. There are 17 portraits in the exhibition, all but two of the subjects being children of members of the league. Mrs. Mikkelsen, a graduate of the St. Louis School of Fine Arts, specializes in this type of portraiture. Her method is to photograph a child and prepare a color chart on one visit, then, guided by these data, make the pastel in her studio.

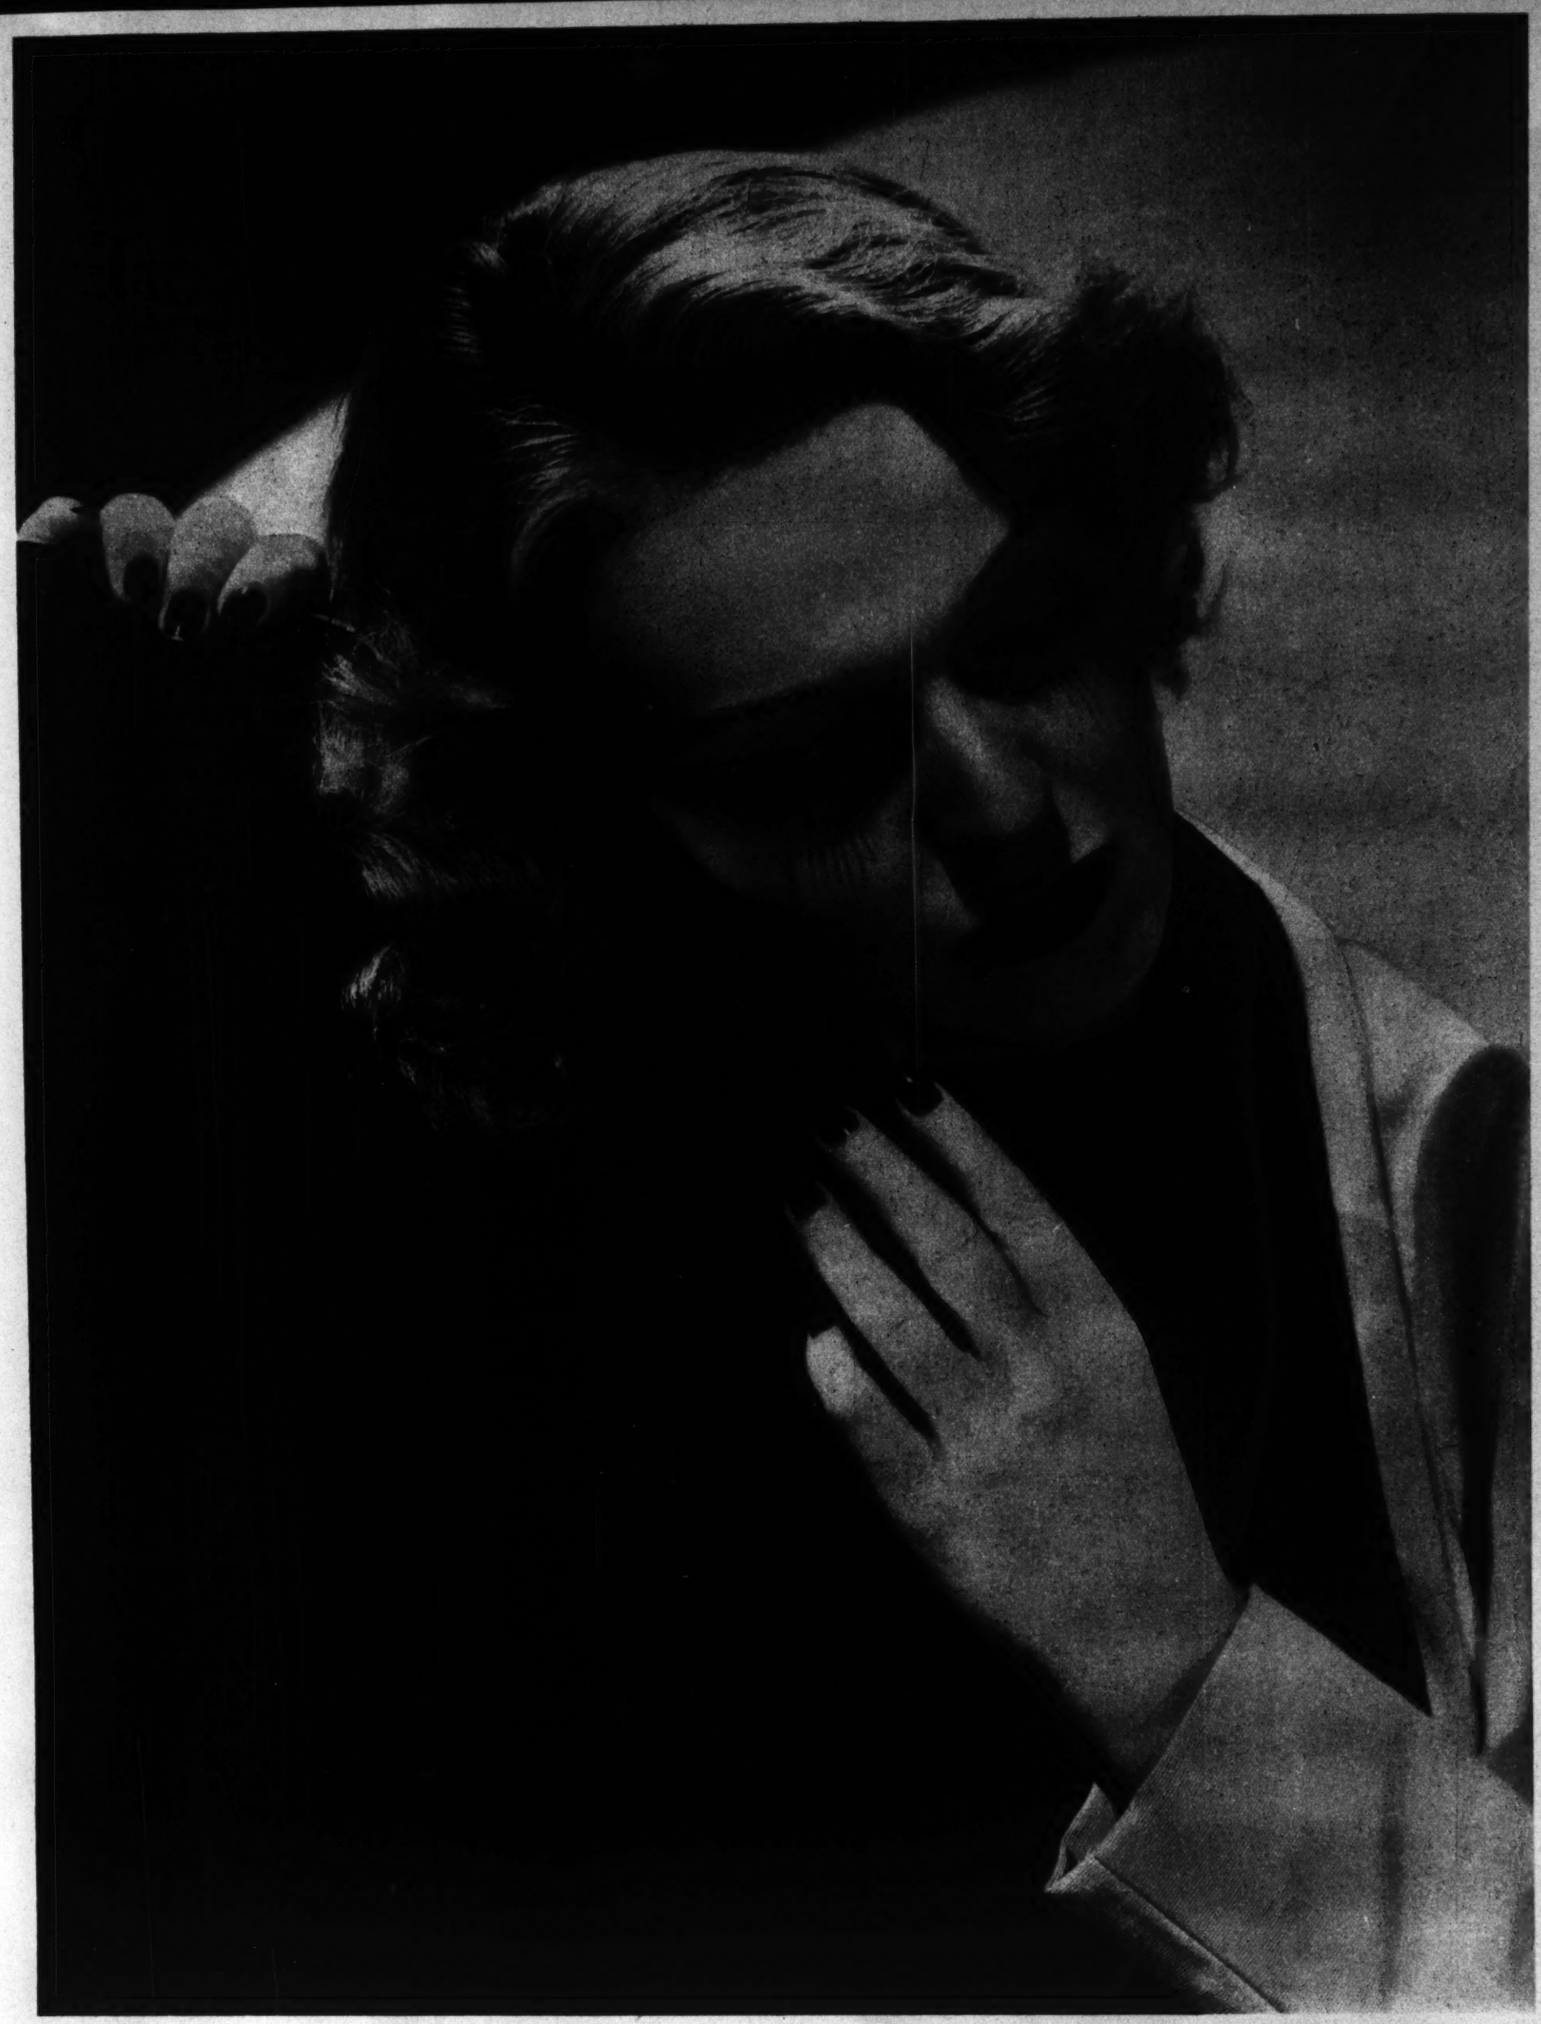
MRS. JAMES WILSON SHAVER

The bride was graduated at Washington University, earlier attended Hollins College in Virginia.

MISS SARAH ELIZABETH GREENLAND and James Wilson Shaver were married last Tuesday. Mrs. Shaver is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Greenland of Webster Groves, her husband the son of William Shaver of Albuquerque, New Mexico. They will make their home at New York, where Mr. Shaver has resided for several years. The bride is a graduate of Washington University, member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority; the groom, graduate of University of New Mexico and Harvard School of Business Administration, is a Kappa Sigma. Their engagement was announced last July, when guests at a luncheon unrolled napkins and found small suitcases, each containing a card bearing the information. Mr. Greenland is general manager of the Public Service Company.



The Girl From Worcester

RITA JOHNSON'S first theatrical venture was such a dismal failure that she went to work in a tea room. It happened in Worcester, Massachusetts, her old home town. She wangled a job playing small parts in a civic repertory company, and increased her value to the manager by selling her friends season tickets to performances. Two weeks later, the manager disappeared with the receipts. Rita stayed in the tea room until she had repaid all her backers. Undiscouraged, she went with a stock company in Milwaukee where Conrad Nagel and Florence Reed were playing leads. After several years of stock, she moved on Broadway as a Little Theater performer, then did some radio broadcasts including parts in "March of Time." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer took a chance with her after a screen test, gave her parts in "London by Night" and "My Dear Miss Aldrich." She clicked in "The Four Marys," and the studio began preparation of scripts with her and her five feet four inches of blond beauty, in mind.

Dancing to Keep the Figure in Trim

In the Temple of the Goddess of Mercy, the lamp on the Altar of Blessings, ever-burning, was the center of religious activities in the Chinese Moon Goddess festival.

The dragon boat was on wheels for the Los Angeles festival, and instead of brawny farmers, the most beautiful girls in Chinatown were at the "oars."

Chinese Celebrate the Moon Goddess Festival

THE Chinese Moon Goddess festival is similar in purpose to the American Thanksgiving day. Then, on the fifteenth day of the Eighth Moon, the Chinese farmer gives thanks to the goddess for his crops and pays homage to the "good earth," in an ancient ceremony based on the belief that every cardinal event in earthly affairs is due to some revelation of the heavenly bodies. The Dragon Boat is rowed over a lake, while gongs clang and cymbals clash. Joss sticks burn with wispy smoking and lutes tinkle with a cadence monotonous to white ears. From the sacred temples comes the boom of the huge prayer drums, and richly costumed actors enact the legend of Chung Chau Yet.

In Los Angeles' Chinatown two weeks ago, this ceremony was re-enacted with Chinese from all parts of the United States participating. Gum Lum, the Dragon, influencer of seasons and master of the heavenly bodies, had lain dormant in Los Angeles since first introduced in 1906, but in this dark hour for China, he was revived in fervent supplication to the gods, and once more twisted his way through Chinatown's streets. These exclusive photographs were made by Yorke Coplin.

That was the hope behind an operation recently performed in Pittsburgh, when a piece of the cornea of the left eye of Franklin Parsons (seated) was transplanted in the right eye of Walter Van Horn (in bed). Each man had lost the sight of the involved eye, and Parsons had decided to have his taken out to save the sight of his other eye. The cornea of his sightless eye was not damaged, while with Van Horn, only the cornea was affected. If the operation is successful Van Horn will have vision in both eyes. The drawing at right shows how the operation was performed.

Add SARÁKA to your DAILY DOZEN

Exercise and strengthen the intestinal muscles

This is the story of a young lady who was determined to be healthy. Every morning, she did her setting-up exercises. Over the week-end—tennis and swimming. Yet, she still suffered from constipation.

Then she heard of a new kind of exercise—a laxative with "exercising action."

After breakfast and dinner, she takes a teaspoonful of Saráka.* Its principal ingredient is bassorit, sap of an East Indian tree. In Saráka, this comes in tiny granules which are easily swallowed with a glass of water. During the next two hours, these granules undergo an amazing change. Gradually they e-x-p-a-n-d. And turn into soft BULK.

"Get busy and exercise," this extra bulk signals to lazy intestinal muscles. "This is what you've been waiting for during all these sluggish months — something to exercise on — something to make you stronger."

Bulk Plus Motility*

In addition—to make sure that the extra bulk keeps in motion—Saráka contains a specially treated frangula, which mildly stimulates the intestines to healthy activity. So you have Bulk Plus Motility. The results of this combination are thorough—but not violent. Most users have no sensation of having taken a laxative. They are reminded of healthy childhood when constipation was unknown.

Ask your doctor about Saráka. We are confident he will tell you that it is safe and non-habit forming. Then try Saráka. Ask your druggist for the new 49-cent Handi-size. Or mail the coupon today for the free trial-size tin.

FOUR SNAPPY HATS

Red of every shade is being plugged as the "color of the season" by fashion designers this fall. This hat is of Fuchsia antelope with the shovel-shaped brim of navy felt.

This "school-girl beret grown up" is for cocktail time. It's made of overlapping rows of feathers, alternately maroon and black. One of the birds on the crown is maroon, the other black.

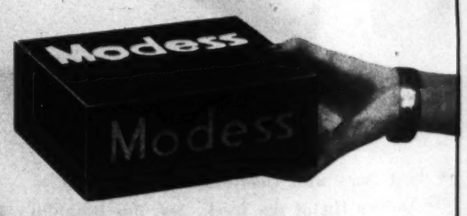
Chic . . . and Comfortable

THE SNOOD is the last word on how to keep a shallow hat perched at a smart angle—securely and comfortably. Fashion designers sit up nights now, planning how to make the things women wear more comfortable. Manufacturers, too! A perfect example of this is the sanitary napkin, Modess. The filler in Modess is soft and fluffy . . . entirely different from napkins made of close-packed, papery layers.

Get Comfort...Get Modess!



SOFTER • SAFER

A new queen is kept in a cage for at least 24 hours until the worker bees accept her. Otherwise they would kill her.

A queen bee and her cell. If the hive population is small, with swarming inadvisable, the newly hatched queens battle to the death, with only one remaining. In swarming, bees leave the colony in clouds to follow a new queen to a hive.

In the circle, a queen bee is shown looking for an empty cell in which to lay an egg. Every one of the 50,000 inhabitants of the hive is her offspring. Workers (partially developed females) live but six weeks in the summer, but the queen lives three to five years, lays 1,500,000 eggs.

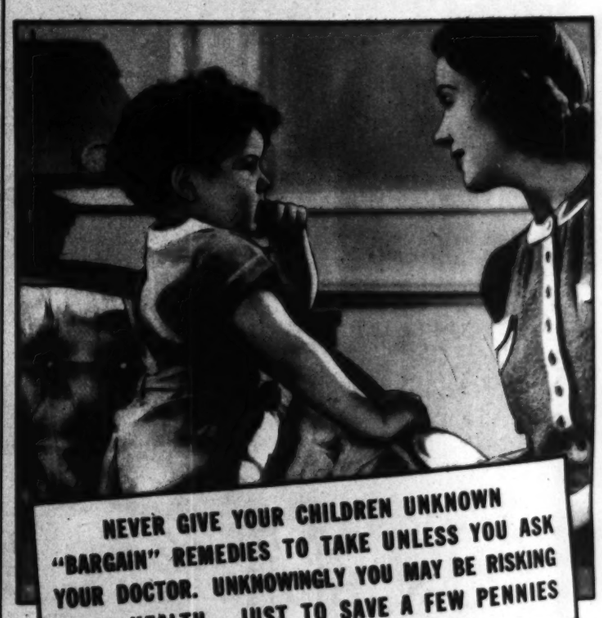
Wait, Mother—Ask Your Doctor First



NEVER GIVE YOUR CHILDREN UNKNOWN "BARGAIN" REMEDIES TO TAKE UNLESS YOU ASK YOUR DOCTOR. UNKNOWINGLY YOU MAY BE RISKING THEIR HEALTH—JUST TO SAVE A FEW PENNIES

A mother may save a few pennies giving her children unknown, unproved preparations. But the life of a child is precious beyond pennies. So—Ask your doctor before you give any remedy you don't know all about.

When giving the common children's remedy, milk of magnesia, never ask for "milk of magnesia" alone—but always ask for "Phillips'."

Because for three generations Phillips' has been favored by many physicians as a standard, reliable and proved preparation—marvelously gentle for youngsters.

Many children like Phillips' in the newer form—tiny peppermint-flavored tablets that chew like candy. Each tablet contains the equivalent of one teaspoonful of the liquid Phillips,' and a big box costs but 25¢ at your drug store.

A bottle of Phillips' liquid Milk of Magnesia costs but 25¢. So—it is a fact that anyone can afford the genuine. Careful mothers ask for it by its full name "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

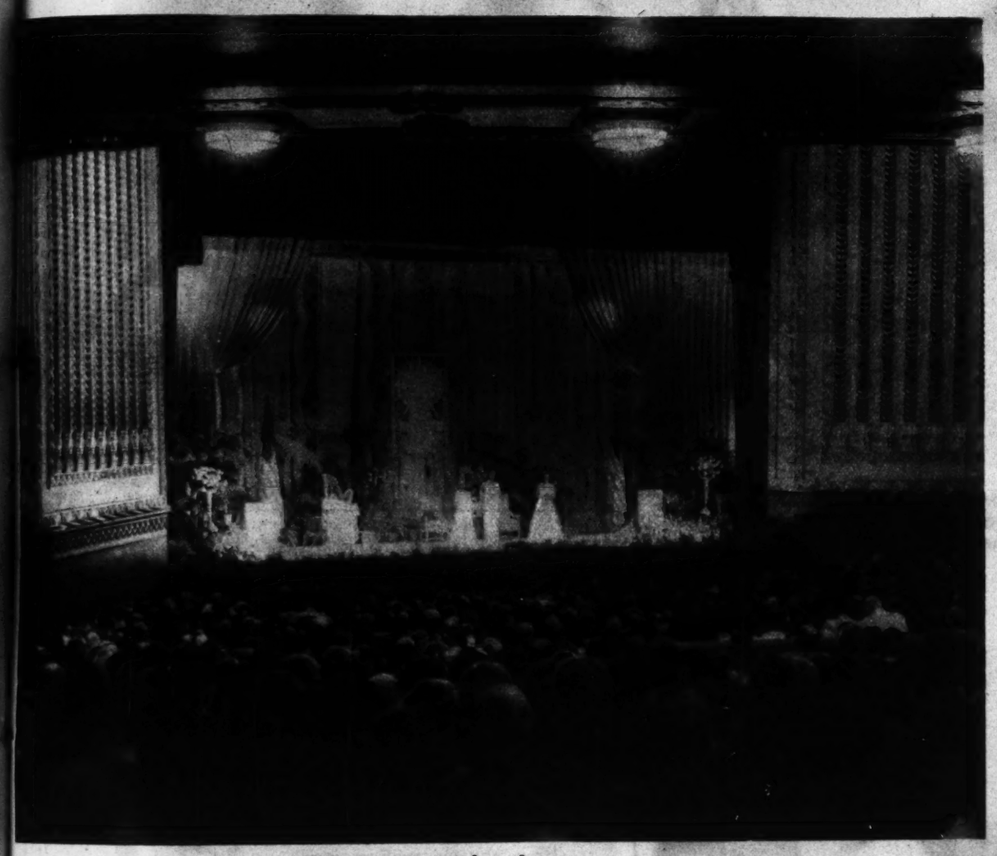
'The Mighty I Am' Tries Saving Chicago

Guy W. Ballard, high priest of "The Great I Am" movement, in one of his oratorical blasts at "the destructive forces threatening America." At right, Ballard and his wife appear undismayed although a summons has just been served on him in regard to an alleged debt.

There are many books for the followers of the cult to read. Among them are "Unveiled Mysteries," "The 'I Am' Adorations," and "Affirmations and Decrees," and "Ascended Master Discourses." The faithful pay from 35 cents to $7.75 for literature of this type. Above, some of the audience looking over recommended books. Right, Ballard autographs a book for a follower.



Even on gala opening nights, the stage was never more brightly illuminated than for the lectures.

HIGH priests of "The Mighty I Am," religious cult which proclaims its mission as the saving of America from "black magicians," swept into Chicago a few days ago and lectured to 50,000 persons during a 10-day lease of the Chicago Opera House. Calling themselves "ascended messengers," Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Ballard and their son, Donald, addressed the audiences as "precious ones" and talked for hours in phraseology that was halfway between astrological jargon and spiritualistic mumbo-jumbo with a goodly measure of superpatriotic slogans about saving America from "the impending cataclysm." The audiences, composed mostly of middle-aged or elderly persons with a sprinkling of studious-appearing youth, applauded frequently, lustily sang songs concerning "reservoirs of love" and "pillars of fire" set to tunes such as seductive "Aloha Oe" and sprightly "Jingle Bells," absorbed instructions varying from "don't eat garlic, onions or limburger cheese lest you be unable to communicate with the 'ascending masters' " to "uphold the Constitution and Supreme Court in original form."

Filling in from time to time were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ballard, son and daughter-in-law of the G. W. Ballards.

Mrs. G. W. Ballard, who likes to call herself "Mama," discourses on the mysteries and benefits of the cult.

Soldiers and Civilians in America's Biggest Air Ra

Shortly before the culminating aerial maneuvers in North Carolina, army bombers dropped their "eggs" into swamp land, sending up great geysers of mud, and blasting huge holes in the morass.

It appears to be just a couple of young men loafing by a cabin in the Carolina pines but——within 30 seconds after warning, the crude roof has been tumbled off and—

—a three-inch anti-aircraft gun has reared skyward, ready to pump a shell every two seconds at any nearby plane within 24,000 feet of the ground.

A new streamlined set of "ears" recently adopted as standard by the army and used in detecting the hum of "enemy" motors near Fort Bragg.

Planes flying a few hundred feet above the ground in an area where anti-aircraft guns were known to be, were unable to detect guns concealed as is this one.

Air Raid Defense

With its top side camouflaged to represent the ground and its under surface painted to match the heavens, an "enemy" bomber was hard to detect from above or below.
(United States Army Air Corps Photograph)

Despite the darkness, streets in the 67 "blacked out" towns were thronged as the residents watched the "raiders."

In a pit concealed with tree branches and shrubbery, the range finder operators kept their telescopic eyes on the seaward horizon.

THE biggest air raid defense exercises ever held in the United States were conducted this month over a six-day period in a 20,000-mile area of North Carolina. By night and by day, 60 "enemy" bombers and attack planes based at Langley Field, Virginia, sought to avoid the several hundred observation warning posts manned by 2000-odd volunteer civilians, elude the 70 defense planes, escape concentrated anti-aircraft guns and powerful searchlight batteries, and "bomb" out of existence the imaginary aerial base at Fort Bragg, near the center of the State. Farmers, lawyers, country store keepers, housewives, Coast Guardsmen and forestry service workers served in the far-flung warning net which extended from the northern boundary of the State to Wilmington on the south and inland over cotton and tobacco fields to Fort Bragg. Their reports were flashed by telephone, amateur radio, and army signal corps. To make conditions as realistic as possible, "enemy" bombers were required to swing out to sea and approach the coast just as though they had been launched from aircraft carriers of a hostile fleet. During "blackouts," when entire communities extinguished all lights, the raiders were able to follow the headlights of automobiles converging on the communities. But the Army Air Corps announced it had found the civilian air raid warning network "very satisfactory." It was pointed out that England, France and Germany are able to employ military forces for observation duty but the United States, with far greater area and much smaller military force, would have to depend on a civilian net for vital information on the approach of hostile aircraft in wartime.

A New Serial Romance by ROB EDEN

Janice Garth found herself in love with a man who was due to receive a million-dollar inheritance. But there was a catch to it—

The will specified that he must marry a childhood sweetheart before receiving the inheritance.

But Howard's new wife had plans of her own. She didn't see why she should give Howard any reason for divorce . . . at least until she'd had her fun with his million.

Then it happened! Janice thought she could wait for Howard forever. But that was before the night she ran out of the rain—right under the umbrella of a man destined to change her whole life.

As a joke this handsome stranger introduced her as his wife to business associates. But a few hours later Janice slips on a dime-store wedding ring . . . to marry this man she doesn't love. Why?

How does she explain this marriage to her friends? To Howard? And why should this stranger marry her, when he knows their marriage must not last a year?
